WRAP-AROUND CRASH AT MARIN CITY

Coast Guard Seaman Curtis J. Thomas Jr., 19, of the Point Bonita Light Station escaped with cuts and bruises when his southbound car swerved off Highway 101 near the Marin City-Sausalito turnoff at 8:20 a.m. today and wrapped itself around a metal light post. He was treated at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco. Officer Robert Erickson of the California Highway Patrol inspects the wreck.

Bank Executive's Wife Is Found Dead In Tub

Head Bears Marks

The body of Mrs. Margaret Rudolph, wife of manager Leroy Rudolph of main San Rafael branch of Bank of America, was found submerged in the bathtub of the family home at 19 Carroll Court, San Rafael, today.

Mrs. Rudolph had been struck twice on the head with a sharp instrument, according to Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa and Coroner Frank J. Keaton. One blow, over the right temple, may have fractured her skull, Keaton said. The second blow was on the back of the head.

There were spatters of blood on carpets and on an overturned chair in a front room.

The coroner said results of an autopsy would be necessary to know whether she was killed by the blows or by drowning.

IN HOUSE COAT

She was clothed in a house coat over a slip. Her body, lying on its left side, was almost completely submerged.

Her watch had stopped at 7:55, Coroner Keaton said other evidence indicated the time was last evening; not this morning.

Mrs. Rudolph had been alone in the home. Her husband is in Marin General Hospital, recovering from a hernia operation.

PAPER THERE

Mrs. Jane Johnstone, who lives next door at 23 Carroll Court, returned about 11 a.m. today from shopping and noticed the morning paper had not been taken in from the Rudolphs' front steps. She picked up the paper and rang the doorbell, intending to deliver it. There was no response.

Mrs. Johnstone said she was about to turn away when she heard the telephone ringing. The phone rang insistently for some time, but no one answered it.

Alarmed, Mrs. Johnstone went home and got her husband, Gordon H. Johnstone, a state police officer stationed at University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, who was home on his day off from work.

Together, they returned to the Rudolph home. They found the front door was unlocked, and entered.

Immediately, they noticed the blood-stained, overturned chair in the living room. Blood was spattered on the wall-to-wall

Father Says Police Harass Negro Youths

Sausalito Council Tells Police Chief To Wear Uniform

A Sausalito father last night called police "identification checks" a "systematic harrassment," particularly of Negro boys.

The Sausalito Citizens council board urged establishment of an "efficient foot patrol" and asked that Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck be required to wear his uniform.

Dr. John S. Wellington told the Sausalito City Council by letter that his son and three friends, one a Negro from Marin City, were detained recently for questioning on Buckley Avenue in the early afternoon.

They were asked to give names, addresses, telephone, height, weight, age, color of hair and eyes.

HAD DONE NOTHING

Asked what they had done, said Wellington, they were told "Nothing—we don't recognize you and want to know who all the boys in town are."

Wellington said he spoke to police and was told their practice is to stop juveniles from Marin City and elsewhere for questioning.

He said the boy from Marin City reported he is frequently stopped on the street by police when he visits Sausalito.

FLOUTING RIGHTS

"The implication to me is that there is a systematic harrassment, particularly of Negro boys, which takes shape as perfectly proper 'identification check,'" wrote Wellington. "If it is important that our children

Terra Linda May Fight Annex Try

By FRANK FARRARA

Terra Linda Community Services District directors started drawing battle plans last night to fight annexation of a key parcel of district land to San Rafael.

At issue is 54 acres at the southwest corner of Lucas Valley Road and Highway 101, where 9.25-acre Lucas Green shopping center is slated to be developed.

There was mention of the possibility of San Rafael annexing the entire community services district. And there was some speculation about incorporation of a city covering the Terra Linda-Marinwood area.

Directors, however, centered the discussion on their most immediate problem at a special protest meeting attended by about 50 residents of the community center.

They termed possible loss of the valuable commercial area "a critical situation" that threatens the economy of the district.

Vice Chairman Melvin Warenback, who presided in the absence of Chairman M. W. Beckstead, said that if the area is annexed to San Rafael and deannexed from the district, the loss of tax revenue will mean the district must increase its tax rate or reduce its services.

FIRST GOAL

The board's first objective, Warenback said, is to get a postponement of annexation proceedings, scheduled before the Marin County Local Agency Foundation as the first item on its agenda at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Civic Center.

He urged all present who opposed annexation to appear before the commission to try for at least a 30-day postponement.

During the 30-day period, petitions could be circulated and letters written protesting the annexation, Warenback said.

WOULD FORM ISLAND

Annexation of the area would leave the community services district as an island of unincorporated territory surrounded by the City of San Rafael.

Warenback said the district board would challenge the law which permits this, and would be "willing to go to court to be a test case."

Creation of such islands by annexation was illegal until last September, when new legislation gave local agency formation commissions the option of waiving the prohibition.

The city of San Rafael's annexation policy in the Terra Linda area and its planning practices in general were roundly criticized during the discussion.

Warenback charged that San

Snowstorms Blamed For 145 Deaths

The worst snowstorm in nearly 50 years pounded southern Ohio today and spread into Virginia after weaving a snow-strewn path across Kentucky from the Plains.

Deaths attributable to the severe weather across the nation the last few days reached 145, including 47 persons who died in fires and heating accidents. Another 33 perished from exposure to the cold. The others died in traffic accidents on slick roads and from heart attacks caused by overexertion.

The storm dumped more than 12 inches of snow along the Ohio River to southwestern Illinois.

The storm struck southern Ohio with a fury yesterday, jammed traffic, closed schools and stranded workers. The snow fell at the rate of 2 to 3 inches an hour part of the day.

The Weather Bureau said 13 inches of snow covered Cincinnati, including 10 inches which fell Tuesday.

Cincinnati stores closed in midafternoon. The University of Cincinnati suspended classes and many southern Ohio schools were shut down early.

Major hotels were jammed by midafternoon by workers who couldn't get home. Basketball games and meetings were canceled.

Sausalito Police Return Funds Donated For Station Furnishings

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Sausalito police have returned to the donors $885 collected to help furnish new police headquarters at 29 Caledonia Street.

A few donated coffee mugs and ash trays will be paid for out of police department cash, since some have names of users printed on them.

There will be no more solicitation for police station furnishings.

These reports were made last night to the Sausalito City Council by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown and Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck.

Solicitation for furniture for the new headquarters was questioned Jan. 18 by A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., speaking for the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce board of directors. He said directors were disturbed over the practice.

Chief Huck acknowledged that "any approval for solicitations, no matter how restricted . . . demonstrates an error in judgment for which he offers his apologies to the council and to all those who had been contacted," said Brown.

Attached to Huck's report to Brown was a letter signed by him which was sent to all contributors expressing regrets of the department and returning donations.

Where ash trays, coffee mugs, etc., were donated, the department will return the items or pay for them, Brown said.

The city manager reported difficulty in placing responsibility for authorization of the solicitation.

Brown said he had suggested to Huck that some source of usable furniture other than surplus civil defense property be sought. One officer thought he knew where he could get a desk or some other furniture. This led to the suggestion that others who had previously given to the fire department might also wish to participate.

"Inasmuch as the individual officers were not directly bene-

Helicopter Looses Rocket Salvo At U.S. Combat Unit

SAIGON (UPI) —U.S. jets bombed North Vietnamese targets for the third consecutive day today but bad weather saved the Communists from greater devastation. In the ground war Communists forces were trying to flee into the mountains from deadly Allied ground offensives.

Troops of the 1st Cavalry Division who have killed an estimated 504 Communists in their massive sweep through Viet Cong coastal regions 300 miles northeast of Saigon, suffered one dead and nine wounded today when U.S. helicopters accidentally fired 2.75 inch Zuni rockets at them.

An Allied spokesman said the 1st Cavalry Division carrying out "Operation Masher" with the aid of South Koreans and Vietnamese had inflicted more than 1,500 casualties on the Viet Cong including dead, wounded and captured.

In fighting only 15 miles from Saigon, U.S. 1st Infantry Division forces overran and wiped out two Viet Cong machine gun bunkers that had inflicted moderate casualties on one company of about 180 Americans.

The sounds of battle and the flash of artillery fire could be seen and heard from rooftops in the capital.

U.S. Air Force planes ranged over Communist North Viet Nam for the third straight day since President Johnson ordered the bombing of the north

Johnson Wants Millions For World's Health

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson asked Congress today for a $524 million international health and education program "to rid mankind of the slavery of ignorance and the scourge of disease."

"We bear a special role in this liberating mission," Johnson said in a special message to the House and Senate. "Our resources will be wasted n defending freedom's frontiers if we neglect the spirit that makes men want to be free."

The special message was a followup to the request Johnson sent the lawmakers yesterday for $3.4 billion in military and economic assistance for the fiscal year 1967, beginning July 1.

Johnson was scheduled to send a third aid message, on world food problems, to the lawmakers tomorrow.

The health and education aid message includes a 50 per cent increase in education aid, raising it to an annual level of more than $200 million. It also

Bel Marin Probe Asked By Citizen

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Possible grand jury investigation and a chance of prosecution for violation of the California Government Code looked today in the wake of an auditor's report on the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony said violation of the Ralph M. Brown act banning secret meetings, irregularities in keeping minutes, and lack of elections might result in misdemeanor charges against directors of the district.

Directors are developers of the Bel Marin Tract, Jack H. West Sr., his wife Lerona West, and Jack H. West Jr.

Anthony ruled out a felony violation of the self-interest ban in the government code, saying he could find no evidence of this

Publisher Joseph Knowland Dies At 92, Of Pneumonia

OAKLAND (AP) — Joseph R. Knowland — newspaper publisher, political reformer and conservationist—died of pneumonia yesterday at his home in suburban Piedmont. He was 92.

Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, served five terms in the U.S. House of Representatives, two terms in the California Assembly and one in the State Senate.

He also had been president of the California Park Commission, the State Automobile Assn. and the State Chamber of Commerce.

In Congress, he was a leader in the drive for Panama Canal construction, the establishment of the Interstate Trade Commission and the building of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915 in San Francisco.

As a private citizen, he persuaded the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to advance $62 million for construction of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

His son, William F. Knowland, former U.S. Senate majority leader, has succeeded him on The AP board of directors and as publisher of the Tribune, which now has a circulation of 225,000.

Joseph Knowland attended every Republican Party national convention from 1908 to 1952, either as a delegate or newspaperman, and criticized them as "boresome, ear-splitting, time-consuming and nerve-wracking."

From 1937 to 1960 he served on the State Park Commission and is considered the father of California's extensive parks system. He also headed the California centennials commission, which commemorated the discovery of gold, the gold rush and California statehood.

Knowland was born in Alameda, Aug. 5, 1873.

In 1914 he ran for a U.S. Senate seat from California as a Republican. Theodore Roosevelt's Progressive Party split the California Republican vote and Knowland was defeated.

He turned to his newspaper.

Knowland graduated from the College of the Pacific, then in San Jose. The school is now the

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Belgians Face Two Strikes

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Government ministers conferred into the early morning hours today in an effort to solve a twin crisis involving striking coal miners and doctors threatening to walk off their jobs. Apparently they failed.

New violence erupted in the "Black Triangle" mining area of eastern Belgium as the ministers met yesterday. Two persons were killed Monday in clashes between striking miners and police.

Reports from the mining area of Zwartberg said police were forced to fire warning shots in the air last night to disperse scores of demonstrators.

No new casualties were reported, but demonstrators threw up roadblocks near the mine and pelted police with bricks and cobblestones.

Prophet Fears More Winter

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (UPI) — This mountain city's famed groundhog came out of hibernation today, just long enough to predict six more weeks of winter.

The groundhog saw its shadow on emerging above ground at 7:21 a.m. EST, and scurried back in its hole.

Members of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club were not as impressed as in past years, however, because to a man they were sure the groundhog could make no other prediction.

Pennsylvania has been rocked by three snow storms in the past 10 days and by a long spell of sub-zero temperatures.

Long Distance Call

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A truck hurtled out of control down a steep hill 12 miles from Perth today, uprooted an occupied telephone booth and flung it 20 feet along the highway. A 75-year-old woman struggled out of the phone booth with only a small cut on her leg. The truck driver was killed.

Plan Offered To End Abuse By Assessors

Echoes Much Of Unruh's Earlier Tax Reform Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Three Democratic assemblymen offered a 45-point revision of property taxing procedures today with the aim of restoring public confidence in the scandal-hit system.

The proposal came from Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh of Inglewood, Nicholas Petris of Oakland and Leo J. Ryan of South San Francisco. Petris is chairman of the lower house revenue and taxation committee.

OFFERED EARLIER

Much of the program was contained in a $1 billion package of tax revision, increases and reductions unsuccessfully pushed by Unruh and Petris in 1965.

Unruh said the 1966 package "is not a substitute for major property tax reform. We will continue to work for a major reduction in the property tax."

The speaker contended the new plan "will materially benefit every property owner in the state."

BILLS' GOALS

Among the proposed legislation:

Return by the state of part of the local property taxes paid by poor elderly persons, helping them keep their homes on fixed incomes.

Application of a publicly announced uniform ratio of assessment to all property in each county, aiming to end favoritism by assessors of certain property owners, mainly big business.

Requirement that assessors notify taxpayers of any increase in their assessment, and a longer period for the property owner to appeal.

Creation of independent appeals boards, taking the job away from county supervisors, who now do it everywhere except in Los Angeles.

Increased supervision of local assessment practices by the State Board of Equalization.

Tougher penalties for assessors breaking the law.

Cutting the number of organizations exempt from the property tax.

High Wire Fall Hurts Circus Ace

DETROIT (AP) — The Great Murillo, an aerialist with the Ringling Brothers Circus, never used a balancing pole or a safety net — a feat which "separates the boys from the men," a circus official said.

Luis Murillo, 32, was hospitalized in critical condition with a fractured pelvis and head injuries received yesterday when he fell 45 feet to the sawdust floor of Detroit's State Fair Coliseum.

Murillo, of Hollywood, Calif., was performing at the annual Shrine Circus. He was walking up a 45-degree slanted wire toward his main performing wire when he fell.

Some 8,000 persons saw him fall.

Gang-Buster Shot

PARIS (UPI)—A holdup suspect shot and killed the head of the Paris police department's gang-busting squad today on a fashionable street near the Arc de Triomphe. Christian David also wounded two detectives before escaping. Hundreds of police began a house-to-house search. Dead was Commissioner Maurice Galibert, 34, chief of the anti-gang squad of the city's first mobile brigade.

State Supreme Court Studies Pay TV Ban

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's Supreme Court is deciding the constitutionality of a law prohibiting pay television.

After hearing oral arguments and accepting briefs, the court yesterday took over the study of Proposition 15, a state iniative measure that passed by 4,515,013 to 2,286,775 in 1964. It was enacted as a constitutional amendment by the last Legislature.

A judge in Sacramento has ruled the proposition, which prohibits a firm from charging to pipe television programs into a house, is unconstitutional.

Attorneys for the state and for Fox West Coast Theaters argued that the lower court judge should be reversed.

William L. Scott, attorney for Subscription Television Inc., told the court: "The so-called Free Television Act is no different from a law which might prohibit newspapers from charging for subscriptions or book publishers charging for books or theater owners charging those going to movies."

Justice Mathew O. Tobriner referred to the case as a "matter of free speech, a very precious right."

Charles Barrett, assistant attorney general, contended the proposition is "not a complete ban on the subscription television business. It prohibits a company from charging for programs sent into the home, but it does not prohibit the sale of television in restaurants, hotels, bars, theaters or other public places."

Herman Selvin, Fox West Coast Theaters attorney, said the "object is to save a great and free form of communication."

Scott answered there was no evidence that pay-TV would damage or destroy free television.

Subscription Television, which ceased operations after the proposition was approved by voters, had sent its programs into several thousand homes in San Francisco and Los Angeles, charging a $5 membership fee, plus varying monthly fees. It was headed by Sylvester Weaver, former National Broadcasting Co. president.

Voters Approve San Jose Bonds

SAN JOSE (AP) — San Jose voters approved about $26 million in municipal bonds Tuesday but turned down $31 million more.

Approval was given to six bond issues providing funds to improve traffic and sanitary sewers, expand storm drains, increase fire protection, add to parks, playgrounds and library facilities.

Six other bond issues failed to receive the required two-thirds majority. They would have provided funds for a convention hall and sports arena, airport approach protection and new municipal buildings, including new police headquarters.

Train Slams Farm Hands Bus; 18 Die

MIAMI (UPI) —A bus carrying 34 Puerto Ricans from a strawberry field to a migrant labor camp was smashed dead center by a freight locomotive at a rural crossing last night. Eighteen workers were killed and the others injured.

Bodies were strewn along the railroad tracks and the bus was dragged 150 yards from the crossing, where a railroad warning light had been installed recently but was not working.

The dead were left while the injured were taken through a snarl of traffic caused by sightseers and homeward bound motorists to South Miami and Jackson Memorial Hospitals.

Alejandro Cato, 54, mumbled through cut lips of the horror of the crash.

"There was no warning, no whistle, no nothing," he said.

Another of the injured, 18-year-old Manuel Acosta, said that he had heard a warning.

"I heard the horn of the bus. I heard the train horn. But the train couldn't stop and the bus couldn't stop."

The train, pulling only a caboose and with three crewman aboard, rammed the bus at dusk in southwest Dade (Miami) County and bulldozed it along the tracks for 150 yards.

Russ Ship Snoops On A-Bomb Hunt

PALOMARES, Spain (UPI) —U.S. Navy warships kept a sharp lookout today for a Soviet trawler which was sighted near the area where the search for a missing 20-megaton H-bomb was being conducted.

The trawler pulled out of the area during the night. But sources said it never remains too long in one spot and was outside Spanish territorial waters and could not be prevented from observing the search.

Part of a two-man submarine was being flown from the United States today to help recover the missing H-bomb, believed lying in 200 fathoms of water off the southeast coast of Spain.

The submarine, named "Alvin," was to arrive at Torrejon Air Base, near Madrid, aboard two cargo planes. A C-133 Cargomaster was preparing to carry the craft's fuselage, while the conning tower was already en route aboard a C-141.

The 13-ton sub, 22 feet long, is equipped with windows, spotlights and a clawlike arm capable of retrieving objects from the ocean bottom. It can operate under water for eight hours on a battery and can descend 6,000 feet.

There has been no official comment whether the Soviet trawler was spying on the operation to recover the missing H-bomb. In the past, Soviet trawlers have been sighted frequently observing NATO naval exercises.

Desert Air Base Strike Is Off

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—United Auto Workers Union members have voted to call off a strike against North American Aviation's Rocketdyne Division.

The company and union leaders agreed yesterday, and members voted approval, to move the negotiations to Washington, D.C., after it was requested by federal mediator William Simkin.

Simkin asked both sides to honor wages and working conditions held before the strike, and to fly to Washington and open negotiations Thursday in an effort to avoid further walkouts.

Defense Avers Mossler Had Many Enemies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A defense attorney says Jacques Mossler was a ruthless businessman and a sexual deviate with thousands of enemies who could have killed him.

The State of Florida says Mossler was murdered by two persons — his wife, Candace, and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers — because of hatred, love and money.

It was on these lines that the battle was drawn yesterday for a trial that could be one of the most sensational in Florida history — and the longest.

"If each one of the 39 knife wounds in Jacques Mossler's body was inflicted by a different person," defense attorney Percy Foreman told the jury, "There still would be many times that number of people left with real or imaginary justification."

The Houston, Tex., trial lawyer charged in a 70-minute opening statement that Mossler "was as ruthless in business as any pirate who ever sailed the seas of commerce."

Foreman also said that Mossler, 69, head of a banking and loan company empire, practiced "every conceivable sexual deviation in all psychiatry."

In the worlds of business and homosexuality, he said, Mossler encountered thousands of people who could have killed him.

Before Foreman spoke, Asst. State Atty. Arthur Huttoe tod the jury the state woud present evidence that there were three motives for Mossler's murder.

These were, he said, a personal hatred Powers felt for Mossler, "a sordid, illicit love affair" between Powers and Mrs. Mossler — and money.

CENTURY OF MEMORIES — Grant Wills sits in his San Rafael home turning the pages of his memoirs that span 100 years. Still looking to the future, he declared: "My namesake General Grant was a fighter, my father was, and I am a fighter too." After establishing a successful building and architectural design business in California from almost nothing, Wills now lives in San Pedro Road where family and friends will gather for a party Sunday.

HE'LL SOON BE 100

San Rafael's Grant Wills Retains His Zest For Life

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

Grant Wills of San Rafael will be 100 years old on Feb. 10, and it seems the most natural thing in the world for a man like this to tuck a century under his belt.

For he is made of the same stuff of life, the same zest for success that formed the driving force for the youthful emigrants who set California along the road to last 10,000 years.

He arrived in the state aboard an emigrant car in 1887 with no more than $3.60 jingling in his pocket. Before he retired, he had a successful business as architectural designer and building contractor.

He also dipped into the lumber and building material fields, spent a period in real estate, dabbled in oil and gold prospecting—and spent his spare time fishing.

"I seem to have got mine the hard way," he said, his weather-beaten face breaking into smile. "I never got a single Buffalo Bull nickle that I didn't work for.

"I have a comfy, pleasant home and good companions and can see my children occasionally. I can enjoy life, even if I haven't got a coon dog or a million."

The house he designed and built on San Pedro Road overlooks the boats tied up for the winter in the San Rafael Yacht Harbor. Here, he spends the days remembering with a vivid memory his first days at school in Evansville, Ind., in an age which is lost forever.

"School teacher's system was to pour education on the back and let it work up to the brain. Some of us needed it that way, too," he said.

"While growing up, we boys didn't wear shoes until we got to about 15 years old, and we wore denim pants that our mothers made—held up, sometimes, with one suspender."

Lincoln had been dead a few months when Wills was born in 1866. His father, James Wills, a carpenter, had returned from the Civil War a year or two before.

"Dad was a soldier under General Grant and saw him rally his men in raging battles," said Wills. "He so admired the general that he vowed that if he ever had another son, he would name him Grant."

He recalled that when he was about three, a chubby, freckle-faced, red-haired youngster, his mother was fond of him "but Dad wasn't so sure that I'd grow to be a big general like Grant."

Wills was enthralled when a brother, John, returned to his hometown after 10 years in California and told him "about the big things, especially the 32-mule team on a 16-foot harvester that threshed as it cut."

He put his corn crop in a bin, left his horse and buggy, and on Thanksgiving Day, 1887, jumped aboard a Louisville and Nashville train for St. Louis and Omaha. His mother cooked him a good stock of eats, including chicken and cookies.

"The emigrant car had a small coal stove at one end to heat and serve for cooking for 36 people," he recalled. The train ran so slowly at times, that he and a friend could run alongside and shoot prairie dogs and rabbits. Two weeks later he arrived at Roseville, Calif.

He apprenticed himself as a carpenter and studied construction engineering and architectural design by correspondence. During this period, he sent for and married his schoolmate and sweetheart, Anna Kretschmar. A few years later, the family moved to Hollister, where he launched into building contracting.

As the business prospered, he took on a partner and was left more time to study further his architectural interests under the San Jose architect, Jacob Lenzen.

When ill health forced his retirement 36 years ago, he and his wife spent a lot of time traveling throughout California, camping and fishing. One day he passed through San Rafael, liked it so much that the decided to live here.

On one trip north, it rained continually, so he set to writing his memoirs down on paper. One day, he expects to leave them to his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

When anyone asks: "How come you've lived so long, Grant?", he smiles and re-tells a story he has told many times.

"Old St. Peter has called on me two or three times, examined my record and found me short on fish, so he let me stay to fill in my quota," he said.

"I may be over the limit when he calls again, so I'll not mention the big ones that got away."

Wills remains active as a Mason and is the oldest living member of Marin Lodge 191, Free and Accepted Masons. He holds the 32nd degree and is a member of the California Bodies of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite. Recently, when he responded to the roll call at the Marin Lodge he was given a standing ovation.

Among the relatives who will attend a party Sunday at his home will be his brothers, Aaron Wills, 87, of Evansville, Ind., and Donald Wills, 78, of Santa Barbara; his sister, Mrs. Letitia Bergwitz, 83, of Gilroy; and his daughter and sons, Mrs. Gordon F. Fullerton of San Francisco, James Wills of Santa Cruz, Dr. Irving Wills of Santa Barbara, and Henry Wills of Lucerne, Lake County.

Rudolph Still Fair

Leroy Rudolph of 19 Carroll Court, Terra Linda, manager of the San Rafael branch of the Bank of America, remained in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital, where he underwent surgery Jan. 24.

Thieves Break Window, Get $2,300 Loot

Burglars broke a front window of the Miracle Music Store at 2066 Fourth Street, San Rafael, to loot it of $2,125 worth of musical instruments and $100 in cash, police reported today.

Robert W. Olney, owner, discovered the break-in yesterday.

Police Inspector Thomas F. Cheetham said a three-foot square window in the store front was broken. The window is eight feet above street level, indicating one burglar must have boosted another up to it, Cheetham said.

Six guitars, two amplifiers, and a saxophone were taken, in addition to the cash, he reported. The merchandise was carried out a back door, he said.

"They must have known what they were looking for. They took some of our best guitars," James Joyce, a partner in the store, said today.

DONORS

fitting, Chief Huck decided to make an exception and permitted what he assumed to be a limited solicitation," Brown reported.

He noted that there had been "two specific instances in the past where donations for public buildings had been condoned, apparently without direct authorization by the city council."

About 35 telephone calls were made and one personal contact, Brown reported. About seven checks were obtained by officers in uniform. Huck stopped this practice when he learned about it, said the city manager.

"The city owes a debt of gratitude to the chamber for bringing this to our attention so as to permit whatever could be done to rectify the situation," he added.

He emphasized that the soliciting was done "openly" and in an honest attempt to perform a constructive service for the city.

Brown also noted that "the police department's dedication is exemplified in that over 150 man hours were spent by off-duty patrolmen in preparing the new quarters for occupancy."

Mayor Jan Paul Dyk commented: "I go on record that we want no future solicitations of any sort by anybody of any department in the city—no matter how noble the purpose. If they want something, they should come to the council first."

"I have always opposed this type of thing," said Councilman Earl F. Dunphy.

Dyk ended the discussion saying he wanted to invite all Sausalitans and guests to an informal dedication of the new police station at 10 a.m. Saturday. The open house will last until 2 p.m., he said.

Anti-Bombing Faction Foiled In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) —Critics lost a fight in the Senate today to reopen before the Foreign Relations Committee their attacks on administration policy in Viet Nam.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois blocked a request by chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., that the committee be excepted from the rule which prevents all except the appropriations group from meeting while the Senate is in session.

Fulbright joined Mansfield today in urging the administration to accept what they interpreted as a willingness of Hanoi and Peking to reopen the 1954 Geneva Conference. They were supported by Sens. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Ga., both members of the Foreign Relations Committee.

The senators based their fresh hope for negotiations on a North Vietnamese statement transmitted by Radio Hanoi and Peking's New China News Agency. The statement said the Viet Nam question "falls within the competence of the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina."

Led by opposition from the Soviet Union and France, the 15-member U.N. Security Council delayed until today a vote on a U.S. request or peace discussions. Observers said the opposition virtually killed any chances for immediate U.N. action.

carpet there and in the connecting family room.

The Johnstones went through the house, room by room. They came upon Mrs. Rudloph's body in the bathtub and called the police.

Chief Chiesa said there was no evidence of burglary, other than one drawer open in a chest of drawers in the bedroom and a few articles of clothing scattered on the floor — which may have been left there by Mrs. Rudolph hereself.

Neither of the Rudolphs' two daughters had been at home last night.

grow up with respect for the rights of others, then, it seems to me, it is desirable to seek methods of police protection that recognize and champion these rights rather than flout them."

Terming this a "serious and sensitive" matter, Mayor Jan Paul Dyk, with council approval, appointed Councilman Alexander R. Imlay and Melvin S. Wax to meet with City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, Wellington and Huck to study the subject. Wellington, in the audience, said "very good."

"Apparently there is an indication," said Dyk, "that when a boy comes from Marin City he is more frequently questioned than a boy from another city. And that, of course, is wrong. We can't have that."

"Aiside from this particular case, I feel the police are doing a good job in that respect," said Councilman Earl F. Dunphy. "I have no objections to them stopping anybody, including myself. If they thought I was in the wrong place or wanted to question me, I would have no objection myself."

Mayor Dyk requested Brown to advise Chief Huck he must henceforth wear his uniform except when on out-of-town duty or while engaged in activities where it would not be practical. "I think it is good in a small town that we have more public image," said Dyk.

The council asked the manager and police chief to report to the council on how foot patrols can be increased without endangering other parts of the law enforcement program.

The citizens council letter, signed by President Arie Slikkerveer, stressed that the foot patrol is more necessary since the police station has been moved from downtown. Brown said that there is a foot patrol now but he could not give the exact hours.

Raymond G. Gergus, in the audience, suggested that walkie-talkies might be used by police to improve communications on foot patrol. Brown said the police department has a walkie-talkie.

resumed. Details of the raid were not immediately disclosed.

A U.S. military spokesman said the jet bombers conducted 20 armed reconnaissance missions over the north.

B-52 bombers of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) pounded suspected Communist positions in support of the 1st Cavalry Division troops involved in "Operation Masher" near Bong Son. It was in this region that the American helicopters accidentally fired on the 1st Cavalry troops.

The aerial artillery helicopters were on station preparing to attack Viet Cong targets along the coast. A plume of yellow smoke from a flare was to have been the signal marking the Communist positions for the U.S. aircraft.

A radio operator accompanying Col. Harold G. Moore, commander of the Cavalry's 3rd Brigade, accidentally dropped a smoke grenade while cutting through some brush. The pin dropped out and the nearby troops froze as yellow smoke rose into the sky.

He joined his father's lumber and shipping business when he graduated.

At his bedside when he died was his wife, Clarice, and two granddaughters. His son had been with him during the day.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the First Methodist Church of Oakland. He also is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor F. Lion, Scottsdale, Ariz., eight grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

OBITUARIES

James E. Cruise Dies At 46

Merchant seaman James E. Cruise, 46, of San Geronimo, fell from the boarding ladder of the cargo ship Truman Kimbro Jan. 20 and drowned in the heavy current of the Saigon River in the capital of South Viet Nam.

Cruise, retired after 20 years of service in the Coast Guard, had been with the Merchant Marine since 1960. He had sailed aboard ships serving Viet Nam for the past three years.

A native of Wesley, Iowa, he had been a California resident for 20 years, for the past four years at 90 Tamarac Road, San Geronimo.

He was a member of Court Marin 1950, Independent Order of Foresters, and was a veteran of World War II and the Korean War.

Mass of Requiem will be said Friday at St. Cecilia's Church, Lagunitas, at 9:30 a.m. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Cruise is survived by his wife, Shirley A. Cruise of San Geronimo; a son, Jeffery Cruise, and a daughter, Susan Cruise, both of San Francisco; a brother, Vincent Cruise of Wesley, Iowa; and four sisters, Mrs. Phyllis Mullin of Britt, Iowa; Mrs. Patricia Myhr of Fort Collins, Colo.; Mrs. Evangeline Kelly of Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Jean May of Columbia City, Ind.

asks a two-thirds increase in health programs to more than $150 million.

Johnson's education proposals ranged from establishment of an "exchange peace corps" with an initial goal of 5,000 foreign volunteers who would serve in this country, to expanded U.S. aid for promoting construction of facilities and development of techniques to fight illiteracy throughout the world.

His suggestions for a world wide health program ran from eradication of malaria within 10 years and elimination of smallpox by 1975, to an enlarged cooperation in efforts to deal with the worsening problem of population growth.

"We call on rich nations and poor nations to join with us—to help each other and to help themselves," Johnson said. "This must be the first work of the world for generations to come . . ."

The President said his proposed "international education and health act of 1966" would cost a total of $524 million in the coming fiscal year. He said this would include $354 million in the foreign aid program; $103 million for the Department of Health Education and Welfare; $11 million in the Peace Corps program and $56 million in the State Department cultural and education program.

KEYS

even though the district directors are the tract developers.

Meanwhile, Fred G. Morrill of 60 Montego Key wrote grand jury foreman George R. Scott today complaining about apparent violations of the government code, including Section 61302 entitled: "Self-interest of directors and officers is prohibited."

The section reads as follows:

"Directors and officers of the district shall not be interested in any contract made by the district and shall not be purchasers at any sale nor vendors at any purchase made by the district."

Anthony said the section is not given the broad interpretation suggested by its title, but refers only to actual transactions by individual directors or officers.

District taxes have been paying for street lighting in the West's tract for two years.

In his letter to Scott, Morrill complained that repeated efforts by him and a committee of the Bel Marin Keys Home Owners Assn. to find the date and location of the district meetings had failed.

Section 61221 of the government code states that the board of directors at its first meeting "shall provide for the time and place of holding its regular meetings."

The Wests have not met regularly since the district was formed in 1961, and there are no minutes of any meeting since December, 1963, according to the county auditor's report.

Morrill's letter urged investigation of the community services district.

"As homeowners, taxpayers and voters we feel that our rights in this matter have been abridged to say the least, and that an airing of this situation is long overdue," he wrote.

Scott was in a meeting of the full grand jury today and could not be reached for comment on Morrill's letter.

Anthony said the directors' actions appear "to fall short of what's required," but he was not prepared to say what he would recommend.

J. J. CASSINA

James J. Cassina, bartender at the Mission Inn, San Rafael, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness. He was 53.

A native of Brunswick, Tenn., Cassina came to California with his family as a child and grew up in the Fresno area.

During World War II, he served as an Army sergeant with the 606th Material Squad ron in Asia. He participated in the China offensive and the India-Burma campaign.

Cassina moved to Fairfax in 1946. In recent years he resided at 22 Francis Street. He had been a bartender here and in San Francisco for 20 years and was a member of Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union, Local 126.

He is survived by his wife, Gladys; two stepsons, Edward Rodgers of Fairfax and Rolza Rodgers of San Rafael; two daughters, Alice Kulman and Millie Cassina of San Rafael; his mother, Emilia Madden of San Francisco; three brothers, Edward of St. Helena, John of San Leandro and John Doughty of Redwood City; two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Wright of San Francisco and Mrs. Mary Harsha of San Leandro, and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

DOROTHY FROST

Private funeral for Mrs. Dorothy Grace Frost, 81, of Guerneville, Sonoma County, stepmother of Mrs. Bernice Fowler of San Rafael, was held yesterday in Guerneville.

Mrs. Frost died Sunday while shopping in Guerneville, apparently of a heart attack.

She was born in Covelo, member of a Potter Valley pioneer family. She taught school for many years in Potter Valley and Willits.

She is survived by three stepdaughters: Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Urla Pauli of Potter Valley, Mendocino County, and Mrs. Harriet McCracken of Portland, Ore.

ANNA MILLER

Anna Miller, a resident of San Rafael since 1957, died today at a local hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 78.

Mrs. Miller was born in Yugoslavia and came to the United States in 1912. Her husband, George Miller, a retired gardener, survives at 9 Granlee Road, where the Millers had made their home since coming to San Rafael nine years ago.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Miller is survived by two sons, Thomas Sibalich of Sunnyvale and George Sibalich of Massillon, Ohio, and a daughter, Mrs. Julia Kich of San Rafael.

Friends may call at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Funeral and burial will be at Massillon, Ohio.

ROSE E. RAVANI

Mrs. Rose E. Ravini, 83, wife of Charles Ravani, at 87 California's oldest fireman, died last night after being taken ill at her Fairfax home. Death was due to natural causes, said Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley.

Her husband said Mrs. Ravani had complained of feeling ill all day at their home, 26 Acacia Road. She went to bed about 7:25 p.m. When he could not rouse her, he called a neighbor who called police and firemen.

Mrs. Ravani was pronounced dead on arrival at San Rafael General Hospital at 8:05 p.m.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Ravani had been active with her husband in firefighting circles in Marin County for 50 years.

She wasp ast president of the auxiliary of the Marin County Assn. of Fire Departments and a member of the auxiliary of the California State Firemen's Assn.

Her husband retired in 1944, after working 30 years in the public works department of the City of Fairfax. He is the oldest member of the California State Firemen's Assn. The couple had been married 64 years.

Surviving besides her husband, are two sons, Raymond Ravani of Fairfax and Ernest Ravani of San Francisco; five daughters, Mrs. Henriette Leonard of Petaluma, Mrs. Cecille Ott of Millbrae, Mrs. Georgette Rilla and Mrs. Leontine Damazio of Point Reyes Station, and Mrs. Carmel Murphy of San Anselmo; 14 grandchildren, and 11 great-grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered in St. Rita's Church, Fairfax, Friday at 10 a.m. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

ELLA B. ALLRED

Ella Bevan Allred, wife of Bishop Wallace N. Allred of the Novato ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, died yesterday after a sudden illness in Novato. She was 63.

Mrs. Allred was born in Tooele, Utah, and educated in schools in that state. She came to San Francisco in 1922, where she married the future bishop in 1926. As first counselor of the San Francisco Stake presidency, her husband was for many years the second-ranking Mormon in San Francisco. He has been a bishop for 20 years, in San Francisco and Novato.

The Allreds moved to Novato in 1956. The family home is at 90 Corte Ariba, Loma Verde.

Mrs. Allred was very active in church affairs. She was a member of the church's Women's Relief Society, taught Sunday school, and worked with the Mutual Improvement Assn., church youth group.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Allred is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank J. Wheelwright, and a son, Wallace N. Allred Jr., both of San Jose; her mother, Annie E. Bevan of Utah; four brothers, Floyd Bevan of San Mateo, Leo and Lavar Bevan of Utah and Rulon Bevan of Sacramento; a sister, Mrs. Randall Wood of Utah, and six grandchildren.

Funeral will be at the Chapel of Marin, Novato, at 10 a.m. Friday. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Will Parallel Parking Hurt, Help Downtown San Rafael Problems?

By WAT TAKESHITA
(Second of three articles)

Will a switch from diagonal to parallel parking on San Rafael's main street cause more congestion or less?

Will such a changeover encourage more shoppers or drive them away to outlying shopping centers?

Proponents and opponents of parallel parking are slugging away at each other on these questions.

In one corner is the Committee Against Parallel Parking, which is circulating a petition to keep the status quo.

And in the other corner is a group for parallel parking, headed by merchant Irving Chapman.

Here are some of the arguments advanced by the Committee Against Parallel Parking:

1. Most women drivers, who will not park parallel, will be driven away fro San Rafael.

2. San Rafael is in a desperate struggle to survive in the face of new shopping centers, which have diagonal parking spaces. Parallel parking might be a death blow at this time.

3. A seemingly reasonable estimate of loss of business by barring 139 cars from San Rafael during peak hours would be $75,000 to $100,000 per year.

4. Parallel parking will increase double parking, especially by trucks.

5. It takes up to 10 times longer to park parallel. Although Fifth Avenue is narrower, traffic is often backed up more than two blocks while only one car parks parallel. Fourth Street is not that much wider, and cars trying to swing out and past would be a definite hazard.

6. Most people prefer diagonal parking.

In other words, parallel parking would drive away shoppers, especially women. It would congest traffic even more than now, and the city would lose heavily in sales tax revenue from a drastic drop in sales.

These are the arguments of the Committee Against Parallel Parking.

Not so, says the group in favor of parallel parking and opening up Fourth Street. Those for parallel parking give these rebuttals:

1. Licensed drivers have passed parallel parking tests. Many women drivers can and do park parallel. The one block in front of the courthouse where one side is parallel provides an example. Drivers stop and back into paralell spaces while traffice continues to move.

2. Yes, San Rafael is struggling to survive in the face of new shopping centers. With tail fins sticking out into the street from both sides, no wonder shoppers stay away. Paralleling parking will open up the street and encourage shoppers to Fourth Street.

3. Parking spaces will be reduced by 89, not 139. The loss of 89 will be more than offset by a wider street that will attract shoppers. Other parking spaces are available on cross streets and on city parking lots, a block away, which are not used to capacity.

4. Parallel parking will not increase double parking. Traffic patrols will see to that.

5. True, parallel parking takes longer than pulling into a diagonal stall. But how about getting out?

Objections to parallel parking were more valid before power steering. Now, most cars can be maneuvered with two fingers.

6. Most people oppose diagonal parking on Fourth Street because it makes the traveled lane too narrow. Parallel parking would permit cars to double park while backing into a space, while traffic continued to flow in the middle lanes. The difference has been noticeable on B Street, before and since parallel parking.

Shore Birds Talk Set

Dr. Howard Cogswell, professor of biological sciences at Hayward State College, will speak on "Ecology of Shorebirds of the Bay Area" at 8 p.m. Friday in the supervisors' chambers in Marin County Civic Center. The talk is sponsored by the Marin Audubon Society.

Hawaii's state bird is the nene goose.

Community Services Discussion Slated

There will be a discussion of a proposed Tamalpais Valley community services district at a meeting of the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Community Church, Ash and Marin avenues, President Joe Allen announced today.

The proposed district would be responsible for development of sanitary and recreational facilities for both Tamalpais and Tennessee Valley areas, Allen said. William Hargreaves, board member, will present the proposal. Refreshments will be served.

Hospital Aides Get Pay Boosts

Marin Hospital District directors last night raised, by $1,500 each, the annual salaries of William W. Turner, Marin General Hospital administrator, and Robert Mathews, assistant administrator.

Turner's salary was increased from $22,800 to $24,300; Mathews' from $12,000 to $13,500. Both raises were made retroactive to Jan. 1.

Directors took the action after evaluating the administrators for over an hour in closed session and for half that time again in open meeting.

Directors last week raised salaries of all other hospital employees and hiked the average hospital room rate by $3 a day.

Marin Hospital District directors also:

1. Authorized Turner, Dr. T. Scott Strathairn, chief of staff, and Dr. Donald Barbour, president of the staff, to begin screening and interviewing applicants for the job of medical coordinator. Directors have budgeted $25,000 for the position, for a doctor who will coordinate between Turner and the hospital staff.

2. Rejected a proposal by Director Hadden W. Roth that the board meet twice monthly and adjourn each meeting by 10 p.m., deciding to continue with one meeting a month.

3. Received a complaint for $10,000 damages from John Robert Nelson, who claimed his son walked into a hospital door and lost some teeth. The claim was refered to the district's insurance carrier.

4. Instructed Turner to request that the federal government consider the hospital eligible to participate in the Medicare program.

5. Agreed to hold their regular meeting on Feb. 23, instead of Feb. 22, which is a holiday.

Marin College Gets Fuller Accreditation

College of Marin has been given four-year accreditation by the Western Assn. of Schools and Colleges, President Stephen E. Epler announced today.

The accreditation allows College of Marin students to transfer credits to any four-year college or university. An inspection team from the association inspected programs and facilities at the Kentfield campus in November.

Personnel Board Role To Be Topic

The function of the Marin County Personnel Commission will be discussed on the KTIM radio program, "Marin Sounding Board," tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Taking part will be Margaret Lucas, a member of the commission and personnel supervisor for Bechtel Corp.; Alan Bruce, county administrator; Paul A. Brusseau, vice president of Marin County Employees Assn., and County Supervisor Thomas T. Storer.

A recording of the discussion will be re-broadcast Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Annexation Letter Form Is Approved

The North Marin County Water District board last night approved a form letter asking for views on the proposed Northwest Marin annexation to the district.

The letter will be sent to 450 owners of 700 parcels of property in the 44-square mile area of the proposed annexation.

It will have three blanks to be checked:

(1) Favor annexation, (2) Will not oppose annexation if the district and county feel it should go through, and (3) Oppose annexation.

It will also ask for comments.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

1. Approved a change order on the Wild Horse Valley tank site which calls for moving more dirt because of a slide at an additional cost of $550 and added a safety fence on top of the Black Point Improvement District crest tank at a cost of $720.

2. Postponed until its next meeting discussion of a plan to improve water service in the Black Point area.

Marine Graduated

Marine Pvt. Richard Ward, son of Mrs. Geneva J. Ward of 709 Cherry Street, Novato, has graduated from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at San Diego.

Medicare Confusion Told To Supervisors

Marin County supervisors learned yesterday that the impact of the medicare program on county finances and the manner in which medicare will be administered remain in a state of confusion.

Betty L. Presley, directors of the Marin County Social Services Department, submitted a letter explaining the situation as she understood it. Supervisors had trouble understanding the explanation, and Miss Presley said the situation had so many conflicts and was changing so rapidly that she would probably have an entirely new report in a week.

She wanted to know if supervisors had any questions.

"It's so confusing, I don't know what questions to ask," Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said.

The confusion seems to be in conflicts between the federal bill and the state bill that is to implement state administration of it.

The new federal law will take effect March 1. Miss Presley said some state officials have told her there will not be much change in county medical aid for indigents until June.

Supervisors agreed to discuss the problem again next week, hoping it will be less of a muddle by then.

Truck Driver Outpaces Stork

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Robert Thesken is thankful that Willie Dubose, a truck driver, came along when he did.

The expectant mother was being taken to the hospital yesterday by her husband. Their car became hopelessly stuck in snow on a hilly street.

Thesken flagged down Dubose. Mrs. Thesken finished the trip in the cab of his huge truck, and gave birth to a son an hour later.

New Scandal Hits Italian Leaders

ROME (AP) — Premier Aldo Moro's government grappled with a new scandal today — charges that 12 officials embezzled more than $1.6 million in state funds.

Those named yesterday by prosecutor Giulio Franco and ordered to stand trial included a former Christian Democratic deputy, Giuseppe Rapelli, president of the state agency for trade worker assistance, and Corrado Bertagnolio, director of the National Institute for Industrial Accident Assistance.

The prosecutor charged that the officials spent state funds improperly on a variety of businesses, instead of organizing schools only for workers.

The 12 contended their activities were legal and known to the Labor Ministry.

Novato Asks Officially For Park Site

The Novato City Council last night officially requested the Novato Unified School District board to allow the Little League to put a baseball park on the Rancho School site, to be maintained by the city.

City Mgr. J. Julien Baget said the little league proposes to construct the facility and turn it over to the city to maintain and the city would construct rest room facilities on adjacent land it plans to acquire.

The school board last week delayed action on the proposal to check into its legality.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack estimated it would cost the city from $2,000 to $4,000 per year to maintain the park. No mention was made of the cost of constructing rest rooms on the adjacent land, or the fact that the Novato civic foundation had been requested to buy the land before the city gets its money from a 30-cent special parks acquisition tax this year.

Soaring Court Costs Jolt Supervisors Into Queries

Marin County supervisors yesterday approved a transfer of $16,250 from reserves to cover unpredicted court costs, including increase in reporting and transcribing and a big jump in jury trials.

In the last half of 1965 there were 28 jury trials in municipal courts compared with seven in the same period the previous year.

"I'm just amazed," Supervisor Thomas T. Storer declared. He ask that County Administrator Alan Bruce look further into the records to seek the reason for the increase.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr wondered whether a saving could be made by having court reporters on salary, rather than on a per diem basis with extra charges on transcripts. Bruce said he had already been looking into this side and would soon have a recommendation.

Board members also learned that there is proposed legislation under study which would take minor traffic cases out of the jury trial option for defendants.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

1. Approved preliminary plans prepared by Kaplan and McLaughlin on the $1,350,000 community mental health center at Marin General Hospital which will include federal financing with $150,000 each from the county and the hospital district and another $150,000 to be raised through private donations. The board learned that the drive for private donations is under way. Architect Ellis Kaplan said that final plans must be completed May 2.

2. Saw a mockup on rearrangement of the tables in the planning commission and supervisors' hearing rooms, designed to let members see each other better at meetings. Supervisors have explained their tendency to interrupt each other by saying they cannot see each other with the present seating. No decision was made yesterday.

3. Declared Feb. 16 "League of Women Voters Day" in Marin. The league plans to launch a fund-raising drive then.

4. Approved planned residential zoning with a density maximum of 3.3 dwelling units per acre on 10.5 acres owned by George Sandbach on San Marin Drive north of Novato. The property was in agricultural zoning.

5. Approved residential zoning to allow the 68-lot Oceana Marina subdivision at Dillon Beach where average lot size will be 8,000 square feet.

6. Authorized contract with Fairfax for a $23,292 general plan study for the city and surrounding area to be done by the county planning department. Cost will be borne largely by state and federal contributions with the city and county putting up $3,930 each.

7. Set hearing next Tuesday on a proposed ordinance that would require undergrounding of utility lines in connection with major street improvement projects.

8. Set hearing next Tuesday on a proposed ordinance setting standards on private drives entering public rights of way.

9. Agreed to discuss next Tuesday a department of public works policy on disposal of heavy equipment, based on equipment use factors.

10. Hired Ronald E. Taylor as a fire warden at $486 a month.

11. Adjourned at 5:50 p.m.

Merger Studied By Youth Groups

Marin Youth for Action and the Marin Youth Council, whose members are high school and college students throughout the county, will merge, it has been announced.

The merger will take place after March 19 Marin Youth Conference at the College of Marin, sponsored by the Marin Youth for Action. More than 1,000 teenagers are expected to attend.

The name of the new combined youth group has not yet been decided, according to council head Randy Homrig of Redwood High School and the action group's leaders, Joe Friedman of Tamalpais High School and Peggy Blackmore of Dominican High School.

Marin Artists' Show Variety Of Works

The Storm Center Gallery in Forest Knolls is presenting through March 30 a "Variety Show" by Marin County artists.

The exhibit includes batiks and metal sculpture by Miriam C. Rice, oil paintings by Jane Berg and paintings in mixed media by Poppee and Dennis Patton. Hours are noon to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Father Held For Beating Of Daughter

Airman 2/c Harold Dean Pennington, 27, was arrested by sheriff's officers yesterday on a complaint charging misdemeanor beating of his 3-year-old daughter.

Juvenile Deputy William Johansen said Pennington, stationed at Mount Tamalpais Radar Station, allegedly bruised the girl, Ada, and caused her to break her left arm while disciplining her for bed-wetting.

He said Pennington is accused of holding her under a cold water tap at their home in Hilarita Housing, Tiburon, Jan. 7, when she slipped from his grasp, fell and broke the limb.

He took her to Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital, Johansen said, told hospital authorities the girl fell out of bed.

Only Party Lines To Be Phased Out

Party line phone service, not telephone service, may soon be eliminated in Marshall.

An omission of words in Monday's Independent-Journal led to the erroneous statement that Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. was seeking to "eliminate phone service" in the area.

Sausalito May Assist Lawsuit Over Zoning

The City of Sausalito may enter a suit filed yesterday challenging the legality of planned community zoning by Marin County.

The city council last night asked City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to study the suit and make a recommendation on whether the city should support it.

"I think it is quite clear that Sausalito feels and the council has expressed itself to be vitally affected in the area known as Marincello," said Mayor Jan Paul Dyk.

"We feel residents of Sausalito are in harmony with those who have brought the suit," said Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for plaintiffs, Marin Assn. for Planning and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Van der Male and Mr. and Mrs. Hal McIntyre of Sausalito.

"It is not an attack on Mr. Frouge or Marincello. It is an attack on improper exercise of a public function—namely the power of zoning."

Jordan told councilmen that it is legally possible for the city to share in expenses of the suit which might run to several thousand dollars.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

1. Took no action on a resolution proposed by city planning commissioners urging delay in widening Bridgeway between Princess and Richardson streets until work on the central waterfront plan has progressed farther, but agreed to support the commission's resolution asking liaison with Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District in order to be informed of any plans for additional bridge approaches.

2. Heard Mayor Dyk proclaim Mar. 5-11 as "Sister City Week," honoring the sixth anniversary of the sister city relationship between Sausalito and Vina del Mar, Chile.

3. Adopted resolution calling for the municipal election April 12.

4. Adopted a community television antenna ordinance — the fifth draft of the ordinance, but deferred action on request of Sausalito Community TV System to extend its system from Richardson Street to the northern city limits.

6. Approved plans and specifications for widening Glen Drive between Santa Rosa and Currey avenues and called for bids. Cost is estimated at $9,000.

7. Named councilmen Melvin S. Wax and Eleanor O'Hara Chapin to screen candidates and recommend an architect to design a corporation yard building.

8. Approved claims of $6,324 for repairs to new police headquarters at 29 Caledonia Street.

9. Asked Jordan to prepare an ordinance for Feb. 15 proposing a four per cent hotel tax, Wax saying the money might be earmarked for some special cultural or recreational activity and that the state is expected to impose the tax and would get the revenue unless the city places the tax.

11. Asked Jordan to pursue with Albert K. Engel, owner of the Glad Hand restaurant, and San Francisco Bay Construction Development Commission, an agreement for Engle to dedicate 45 feet of his lot to the city in exchange for a city lease of land farther out in the bay, since the city is contemplating widening Bridgeway.

12. Adjourned in respect to Royal J. Conner of 10 Glen Drive, who died Jan. 25.

Three Marinites At Marine Recruit Base

Three Marin County men have enlisted in the Marine Corps and are at present undergoing basic training in San Diego.

They are: Jeffrey E. Love, 24 Alderwood Way, San Rafael, a graduate of the College of Marin; Timothy R. Witt, 1411 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, a graduate of San Rafael High School, and Larry E. Ross, 153 Kelly Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base, a graduate of Booker T. Washington High School, Montgomery, Ala.

Convicted Burglar Draws Nine Months

Ellis Mannell Billings, 35, was sentenced to nine months in county jail and placed on three years probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for a June 12 burglary at the Fairfax Veterinary Clinic and four counts of forgery.

Billings, of San Francisco, had completed 90 days observation at California Medical Facility in Vacaville prior to the sentencing. He was convicted of the felonies last October.

Span Discussion

The insurance committee of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board will meet in in the district offices in the administration building at the toll plaza on Feb. 11 at 10 a.m.

Marinwood Recreation Is Reviewed

Members of the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission last night reviewed the recreation program with its new director, William A. Gordon.

Gordon, formerly with the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District, was asked to review building rules and teen rules. He suggested that a trip to the snow and a trip to an ice hockey game be included in the program. Commissioners approved.

The commission agreed to start the Monday and Friday tennis lessons on Feb. 28. Mrs. Roberta Carlson will be instructor.

Other programs approved last night include an adult art class to start March 2, and a children's arts and crafts course to start soon, according to Mrs. Genevieve Bolding, secretary for the Marinwood Community Services District board, which operates the recreation program.

Heart Fund Drive Plans Announced

The 1966 Heart Fund Campaign which opened yesterday in Marin will continue through Feb. 28, campaign chairman Fred Brylka has announced.

The drive will be climaxed Feb. 27 by a residential canvass of county homes by some 3,000 men and women volunteers.

Yesterday, 18 Marin County town chairmen of the drive previewed the new heart film, "Why a Heart Fund?" The film is available to all clubs and organizations upon request to the Marin County Heart Assn.

Master Plan Due Further Study

The Novato City Council agreed in general on the Novato Master Plan at its hearing last night, but made minor map changes and postponed action on adoption until next Tuesday night.

The council agreed on land use, public facilities, and parks and recreation elements. The streets and highways portion of the plan was not discussed, on recommendation of Robert Lagle, city planning director.

MORE STUDY

"We would like a make a further study of the streets and highways plan," Lagle told the council. He said that the Ignacio Boulevard route through the Marin Junior College site, the Hill-Mill road connections, and the freeway through San Marin needed more study.

The council deleted land use designations for four areas, marking them for future study.

Among these is the central business district between Grant Avenue, Highway 101, Diablo Avenue and South Novato Boulevard. Councilman William Jack Adams said it might be 40 years before businesses are ready to move in to make this actually the central business district.

CENTRAL DISTRICT

He urged making the area from Grant Avenue north to Olive from Highway 101 to Seventh Street as the central business district. On this, however, he got no support from other councilmen.

Also marked for further study were the area south of Novato Boulevard from Diablo to Tamalpais Avenue, the Nave Gardens area, and the area between Virginia Avenue and Novato Boulevard, from our Lady of Loretto Catholic Church to Simmons Lane.

George a. Amaroli of 11 Rebecca Way sked what would become of agricultural land surrounding the city.

Lagle said land in steep hills would probably always remain agricultural.

Wayne F. Sartain of 141 San Felipe Way asked about green belts, such as were in the San Marin Master Plan.

Lagle said no definite provision had yet been made for green belts.

He suggested the city council should consider adopting a policy soon on what it would do with green belt lands dedicated to the city in San Marin and Bahia.

"We cannot tell the developers whether they will be accepted by the city or whether they will stay on the tax rolls at the expense of the owner," he said.

Lagle was instructed to have the new land use map of the master plan and changes in the text prepared for the council's consideration next Tuesday.

Mayor Robert D. Carrow asked City Mgr. J. Julien Baget to also prepare for next Tuesday a report on the effectiveness of the Novato Green River ordinance, which outlaws house-to-house salesmen.

June Election Shunned By CMSD Board

Corte Madera Sanitary District directors last night voted unanimously not to consolidate their district election with the primary elections in June, saying they feared the effects of the "lame duck" period which would result.

Robert M. Haight, attorney for the district, said the county supervisors suggestion that the election be combined with the primary would mean directors elected would not take office until January, as provided in the government code for county officers.

Directors wrote the board of supervisors that they would consolidate the election if newly elected directors could take office in July. District elections have been held in September.

Directors also sent back to Roemer and Estes, developers of Madera Park tract, a petition to form an assessment district to provide sewer service to their tract. The directors suggested they get the signatures of six property owners in Chapman Park so service could be provided to that area at the same time.

In 1965, signals received by radio astronomers at Arecibo, Puerto Rico, indicated that Mercury turns on its axis once every 54 to 64 days. Today the concensus is that Mercury rotates once every 59 days.

Worker Suing Over Accident

A Novato construction worker, whose hard hat reportedly saved his life, is suing a Santa Clara County bricklaying company for $20,000 damages.

Frank Novak, 45, of 4 Fabian Court, alleges negligence by the firm of Grosken Inc., last Nov. 16 resulted in concrete blocks falling on him at the building site of McGraw-Hill Book Co. near Novato.

He suffered head and neck injuries. His boss, Glen Glasgow, superintendent for McDonald and Nelson, Oakland contractors, said Novak's hard hat prevented a fatality.

Novato Police Find Runaway Youngster

James Allen Price, 16, was picked up by Novato police last night and booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall as a runaway.

The boy's father, Paul J. Price of 35 Crescent Lane, Novato, had reported James ran away from home Sunday evening.

San Quentin Convict Gets Execution Stay

William Earl Cotter Jr. celebrated his 25th birthday today with a light heart. His execution in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber, scheduled for next Wednesday, had been postponed pending an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Cotter was convicted of stabbing to death a 63-year-old woman in Los Angeles in October, 1963. He has been on Death Row since March, 1964.

He was told of the stay of execution last week but public announcement was held up until confirmation was received from the U.S. Supreme Court, Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today.

The execution date of only one other inmate remains in effect. Dovie Carl Mathis, 29, convicted of the murder of Vernon Ray in the San Jose area in 1963, has been scheduled to die March 1. He has filed an appeal.

Prison Stab Trial Drawing To Close

Closing arguments are expected tomorrow in the Marin Superior Court jury trial of three San Quentin Prison inmates charged with assaulting a fellow prisoner, Myford G. Duncan, 24, on Jan. 21, 1965.

The case, which started last Dec. 27, could then go to jury deliberation Monday, according to Michael Dufficy, deputy district attorney. John and James Schrekengost, brothers, and Russell Dillard are defendants.

To Buy Video

Members of the Marinwood Volunteer Firemen's Assn. last night agreed to finance repair of the television set in the firehouse, put up $25 for California and U.S. flags for a Girl Scout troop, and agreed to sponsor a Little League ball club, Fire Chief James Cameron reported.

Education Board Due New Leader

Carl J. Brown, senior member of San Rafael Board of Education with service since 1963, appears in line for president of the board if he decides he wants the position.

Two members indicated yesterday they would support Brown if he wished to fill the chairmanship created last week with the resignation of Walter J. Doll.

Mrs. Anita C. Strom said: "I would be in accord with that proposal. Mr. Brown, by reason of his seniority and experience, would seem to me to be quite efficient in that post."

"I supported him as vice president," said Laurence L. Kramer Jr., "and I would vote for him as president if he wanted it."

The third remaining member, Walter R. Castro Jr., said: "Protocol might dictate that Brown automatically goes into the job, but I have not discussed this with anyone yet. I am keeping a completely open mind."

CARL J. BROWN
In line for presidency

San Rafael City Council has until Feb. 16 to appoint a new member to the school board, now reduced to four members by the resignation of Doll.

The board chooses its own officers. Brown has been vice president.

Glover Defense To Close Case

Testimony for the defense in the assault trial of Robert Gene Glover, San Quentin Prison inmate, is expected to end late tomorrow in Marin Superior Court.

Five witnesses have been called thus far by William O. Weissich, attorney for Glover, a lifer who allegedly stabbed Henry L. Wolfenden, 28, at San Quentin on Sept. 18, 1963. He was convicted, but the new trial was ordered by First District Court of Appeals.

Defense witnesses have testified Glover feared Wolfenden was going to injure him.

New Rates Prepared For Fairfax Pavilion

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission last night prepared a new set of rates and regulations for use of the Fairfax Pavilion.

The commission's recommendations will go before the city council for approval Feb. 14.

Supervisors Vote To Repair Airport, Ask Federal Cash

Kettenhofen Objects That Site Isn't Worth $300,000

Marin County supervisors yesterday voted 4-1 to improve the county airport at Novato to Federal Aviation Agency standards, at initial county cost of $175,929.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who cast the dissenting vote, argued that the eventual county cost will come to $300,000 and the investment is not justified at the Novato location.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss, representing the Novato area, moved first that an application for $206,144 in federal funds be reactivated. This is the Federal Aviation Agency's estimated share (54 per cent) in the project.

Kettenhofen tried to put a substitute motion on the floor calling for expenditure of $140,000 in county money only, to realign and improve the runway. He got no second and Gnoss's motion passed 4-1.

Gnoss then moved that the county department of public works and county counsel start negotiating for the additional 65 acres needed for the improvement plan. This also passed 4-1 with Kettenhofen again dissenting.

Gnoss also moved that $58,421 be transferred from unappropriated reserve to the airport fund. This again was a 4-1 vote.

The county must have its share of the funding earmarked before the application for federal aid can be approved, County Administrator Alan Bruce explained.

Need for the transfer was due partly to the necessity of buying out the exclusive airport lease of Harry O. Tollefson at $17,500, and partly because $18,000 in state contributions to the airport fund from gasoline taxes has been frozen by the county auditor pending a state audit.

Both state and federal funding programs have been blocked by the exclusive lease to Tollefson.

Gnoss next moved that the County Aviation Commission, which voted 6-1 in favor of proceeding with the federal program, be thanked for its work. This passed unanimously.

Benjamin R. Ostlind, chairman of the aviation commission and the dissenter in that group's recommendation, drew a rebuke from Gnoss, who thought Ostlind was making a face while Gnoss was pleading for approval of the federal project.

"I demand respect," Gnoss said, interrupting his plea.

Ostlind explained that he had a new tooth and was not making a face, and intended no disrespect.

After approving the project, supervisors discussed at length Kettenhofen's plea that the City of Novato promise not to annex the airport and take the sales tax revenues to city rather than county coffers.

Supervisors eventually agreed that this would be an impractical requirement, and suggested instead that the city of Novato agree to rebate enough sales tax to cover cost of county services at the airport should it be annexed. The board asked Bruce to see what kind of agreement could be arranged with the city.

Sig K. Herzog Jr., president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, presented a resolution urging that the county approve the $140,000 plan that would realign and improve the runway, but not involve federal funds. However, Kettenhofen was the only board member to endorse the suggestion.

STATE EYES COST OF PRISON MOVE

San Quentin Replacement Study Going On Almost Without Notice

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—An unpublicized study is being made in Sacramento to see how much it would cost to relocate San Quentin Prison.

Although no one at the capitol is willing to be quoted on exact cost figures, the study is expected to show that the cost (perhaps as much as $65 million) would make relocation economically unfeasible.

The study, which will go to the legislature during the coming session, will point out that three 1,200-prisoner institutions would be required to replace San Quentin.

The cost of such replacement is high because San Quentin has highly-developed industrial and vocational training facilities.

Ten thousand dollars for the study was authorized in the budget passed by the legislature last year, but it went almost unnoticed because the item came as an addition to the main budget.

Item 342 in a little pamphlet that lists changes in the main budget notes that $10,000 is set aside for a "study of the economic feasibility of replacing the state prison at San Quentin in a new location."

The office of the legislative analyst requested the study, said C. Ed Ohlsson, senior administrative analyst. "Several legislators had been talking about it, and so we thought it would be a good idea to study the cost."

Neither Sen. John F. McCarthy nor Assemblyman William T. Bagley of Marin was aware that the study was being made.

The study was assigned to the office of architecture and construction of the Department of Finance.

Glen Brunson, construction analyst in the Department of Finance, said the report should be completed this week. He declined to reveal the specifics until the report is turned over to the legislature.

Brunson said 1,200-prisoner institutions are considered by Department of Corrections officials as best for effective control of inmates. He noted three such prisons would be required to replace San Quentin.

(The inmate population of San Quentin was 3,630 today, reported Associate Warden James W. L. Park. Additional facilities elsewhere have enabled the Department of Corrections to reduce the San Quentin population in recent years. In the past, it has gone as high as 6,000.)

George Oakley, field representative in the Department of Corrections in Sacramento, said he was aware of the study being made. The Department of Corrections has taken the stand that replacement of San Quentin is unfeasible because of the cost.

Meeting Rescheduled

Directors of the Marinwood Assn. will meet at 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the Marinwood Community Center. A meeting scheduled last night was cancelled.

ROSS VALLEY PRINT OF THE YEAR

"Day's End," a photograph entered for competition by new member Mrs. Lucie F. Butterworth, of 2130 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, has been selected the top print of 1965 by the Ross Valley Camera Club. The picture also won third place this year in the interclub competition of the Northern California Council of Camera Clubs and first place in the interclub competition held in August by the Ross Valley club.

Broemmel Tells Farm Preserve Tax Savings

Reduction in assessment of land placed in agricultural preserves in Marin could range from 8 to 57 per cent, according to County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel.

Broemmel submitted a table to county supervisors yesterday, emphasizing that it should be considered only a guide on assessments.

As unrestricted land values rise, the percentage of reduction on land restricted for agricultural use under a 10-year contract would go up, he noted.

For instance, land valued at $100 an acre without restriction would still be at $100 an acre with the restriction. Broemmel explained that the only use possible for such land would be agricultural and the restriction would make no difference.

However, land at an unrestricted value of $175 would be valued at $161 an acre, with the restriction, or a reduction of 8 per cent.

Land at $10,000 an acre unrestricted would be valued at $4,330 an acre with the restriction, a reduction of 57 per cent.

Other factors such as topography, nearness to utilities and markets also must be considered, so each property is an individual case and the guide cannot be laid down as a strict rule, Broemmel said.

Supervisors had urged last week that Broemmel give some indication of possible reductions so ranchers could decide if they wish to enter the 10-year preserve contract prior to the March 7 tax lien date.

District Seeks Federal Funds

The Lagunitas School District Board last night voted to apply for $961 under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The money would be used to purchase library books, according to Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff.

The board heard reports on preparation for the Feb. 15 election, which will decide whether the district will issue $200,000 worth of bonds and borrow another $400,000 from the state for site purchase and construction of new schools.

A report was also given on the second grade curriculum in the Lagunitas School.

Guide Dog Helps Out At Work, Too

Electrician's Assistant Gets Extra Training

By THERON A. NEWELL

Guide dogs who lead their blind masters through traffic are a common sight, but a dog who helps his blind master perform his daily work is a rare one.

Such a dog is Robbie, a German shepherd that will graduate from Guide Dogs for the Blind Saturday with his master, Jack Polston, an electrician from Santa Ana.

Robbie not only will lead his master around the city, but will take him around on his job as an electrician on construction jobs. Such work takes added training for the dog, as well as his master. Robbie is the second such dog trained by Guide Dogs for Polston.

It is the story of the courage of a man who wants to earn his own living at his chosen trade, even after he has lost his sight. Polston had worked as an electrician for 13 years when he lost his sight in an industrial accident. He was using a grinder when the wheel broke and blinded him. That was 10 years ago.

For a year and one-half, he was off work, but he knew that he could still be useful if he could get around on a construction job. He applied to Guide Dogs and was given a dog.

In addition to the usual training, Larry Henegar, the instructor, gave the dog special training to help Polston find his way around on construction jobs.

It took some convincing to get the union to assign him to a job. But he proved he could do it.

"I do not want charity. I want to earn money for the man who hires me, or I do not want to work for him," Polston said.

He installs an average of 200 electrical outlets per day when other electricians average 150, he said.

The dog maneuvers him around loose lumber, roofing, sheet metal, objects not installed, or anything which could be a hazard to him. He and his first dog worked together for six years.

Last September, tragedy struck. His dog was run over by a hit-run car.

Now he is working with Robbie, under Henegar's instruction again. They have been training at the Pleasant Valley construction site of Roberts and Aguirre in Novato.

Robbie is being taught to stand still beside the electrical boxes while Polston installs a switch or outlet.

The dog also is being taught to jump ditches with him and take him up steep banks to the house or around piles of dirt and other objects which are always around a construction area.

Polston hires out through the union hall, the same as any other electrician.

"I insist that the union tell the contractor that I expect to do as good a job and work as fast as his other electricians. If I cannot, I do not want the job," he said.

Usually he works in tract houses. The men dump a supply of electrical switches, plugs and cover plates at one house. He puts these in his apron and goes from house to house. He knows that the switches will be near the doors and the wall plugs near the floor. He knows the general layout of the houses, so finding the outlets is not difficult.

Polston, who is divorced, supports twin daughters and himself with his work. Henegar will accompany him to Santa Ana for two weeks additional training with the dog.

"Did you ever think about getting apprentice wages for the dog?" he was asked.

"I never thought of that, but it might be worth a try," he grinned.

Polston will be in a graduation class of 12 on Saturday from Guide Dogs for the Blind at Los Ranchitos. The date also marks start of the annual fund-raising drive for Guide Dogs.

NO SLOW-DOWN HERE—Robbie, the Guide Dog, and his blind master, Jack Polston, leap a ditch at Pleasant Valley tract site in Novato. Polston, a Santa Ana electrician, uses dog to help him make his way around construction sites as he installs electrical outlets and switch boxes. Robbie will be the second such dog trained especially for him by Guide Dogs for the Blind.

Eight Marin Youths Join Navy Ranks

Three Marin County men have enlisted in the Navy and are in training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

They are: Joseph A. Ashworth Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rownan of 585 Fernando Drive, Novato; Charles W. Crean, son of Rose K. Crean, 19 Morningside Drive, and Soren K. Svanum, son of Theresa A. Christensen, 37 Angelea Avenue, both of San Anselmo.

Five other young men have enlisted in the Navy's "Join Now, Go Later" program, in which have 120 days before reporting for duty.

They are: Dean R. Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. R. Campbell, 106 Surrey Lane; Kenneth L. Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Schmidt, 242 Butterfield Road; John J. Winters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Winters, 201 Spring Grove Avenue, all of San Rafael; Robert E. Heyward, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Heyward, 62 Oakland Avenue, San Anselmo, and Marvin M. Lundwall Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin M. Lundwall of 415 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley.

New Coast Guardsmen

Coast Guard Seaman Recruits Joseph Habel, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Habel of 104 Golden Hinde Boulevard, and Robert D. Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Knight of 358 Santa Margarita Drive, both San Rafael, have completed eight weeks of basic training at the Coast Guard Center at Alameda.

This Happens Every Day!

I had an old car and decided I'd keep her
Thought I'd fix her up and get by cheaper
I paid a hundred bucks for a new set of tires
Bought a new fuel pump and new ignition wires
Had the motor overhauled, bought a new carburetor
Brakes were relined and a new generator.
THEN . . .
I looked at my pocketbook and grabbed for my head
I SHOULD HAVE BOUGHT A GOOD USED CAR INSTEAD!

Terra Linda Planning To Resist Annexation

Rafael is greedy for land that is developed and produces income. "They don't want Santa Venetia and would bypass San Rafael Meadows, but want us badly," he said.

One resident remarked: "We are faced again with the threat of the spreading mess of San Rafael. San Rafael has the type of government it wants. They want the mess. They got it and they're stuck with it."

One man said, "San Rafael has had 550 city planners in the past two years, and now it's going to be either a janitor or shoemaker."

Warenback said that although the Lucas Green development plan calls for a 10-acre shopping center, the developers want 50 acres of commercial zoning. "They can't get it from the county, but they feel they can get it from the city," he said.

Director Sesto Lucchi said building restrictions in the county "are higher than in the city." He suggested the area be developed first, then the question of annexation discussed.

Warenback said that when the LAFC approved San Rafael's annexation of 200 acres south of Lucal Valley Road for a Permabilt Homes subdivision, it was with the understanding that it would be the last piecemeal annexation in the area.

The Lucas Green area is now zoned for commercial and apartments, but if it went into San Rafael, it could be re-zoned all commercial, he said.

When questions arose about possible incorporation of the Terra Linda - Marinwood area, Jack Brandon, chairman of the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks Commission, said he felt discussion of incorporation "would be premature at this time."

The Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District Board will discuss the proposed annexation at 8 p.m. today at the Community Center, Brandon reported. He said he has requested the LAFC to postpone the matter. The recreation district board has not yet officially acted, he said.

Previous to tonight's session, the CSD distributed meeting notices to about 1,000 homeowners in the district which were headlined "Your Taxes Might Increase."

At the meeting, Warenback read a report by John F. Barrows, executive officer of the LAFC, on the proposed annexation, which included a recommendation that there be a study on annexing all of Terra Linda to San Rafael.

Part of Barrows' recommendation is that the LAFC postpone its hearing on the Lucas Green shopping center annexation tomorrow until March 3 to give time for representatives of the city, CSD and Terra Linda recreation district to get together "on a mutually agreeable annexation proposal" for all of Terra Linda that could be presented to Terra Linda residents for a vote.

Record Snowstorms Go On; Death Toll Rises To 145

was posted on the Ohio Turnpike from Fremont-Port Clinton to the Pennsylvania line.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain covered a large section of Kentucky and parts of eastern Tennessee and south-central West Virginia.

The heaviest snowstorm in more than 40 years moved into Kentucky, closed one-fourth of the schools and choked off traffic.

Communities which escaped the snow were pelted with freezing rain. The storm dumped 9 inches on Lexington and 10 on Covington. Louisville had 12 inches, bringing most business to a standstill. Downtown stores did not open and factory workers were sent home early.

The snow in Louisville was the worst since Jan. 14, 1918, when 10.4 inches covered the ground.

Two Army helicopters from Ft. Belvoir worked through the day Tuesday in Loudoun County delivering basic supplies to isolated areas and evacuating ill persons.

All primary roads were open in Virginia, but are still dangerous, and air and train schedules were back to near normal.

Most Virginia schools were closed.

The storm blanketed southern and central Indiana and closed hundreds of schools, industries and retail stores. Several main highways were closed.

Up to a foot of snow staggered much of southern Illinois. Schools closed, airports suspended operations and trains ran late, if at all.

In Sullivan, Ill., Lynn Swango took a bite out of the Farmers Almanac. Swango told his Sullivan High School class last fall that he would eat the almanac if its prediction of a blizzard on Feb. 1 came true.

Prediction became fact and schoolteacher Swango ate.

Entire counties of upper New York State were buried under drifts of up to 30 feet. Oswego, in the Lake Ontario area, had 102 inches on the ground.

Industry was shut down and schools and stores closed. Some newspapers didn't publish and others couldn't be delivered.

A shortage of bread and milk threatened and streets were impassable to emergency vehicles.

The streets of Syracuse, N.Y., which has a population of 216,000, were drifted in some places 10 to 15 feet deep.

In the South, freezing weather plagued Arkansas. Hazardous-driving warnings were in effect after a freezing rain and snow, the fourth significant snowfall in a dozen days. The snow measured 3 inches in northern Arkansas, closing many schools.

Thieves Siphon Gas

Mrs. Sherman W. Marble of 138 Floribel Avenue, San Anselmo, complained to police yesterday that thieves siphoned a tank full of gasoline from her car while it was parked in her driveway during the night.

Ex-Klansman Raps Burning Churches

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former McComb, Miss., Ku Klux Klansman testified today he got out of the Klan because he didn't want people to think he had anything to do with church burnings.

John E. Thornhill, 57, a farmer and oil man who said he made "millions of dollars" leasing oil rights from white and colored persons in the area, answered almost all questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., was preparing to ask the House to vote contempt of Congress citations against Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton and six other Klan officials who had refused to furnish subpoenaed documents. The committee has recommended the citations.

The citations would require the Justice Department to present charges before a federal grand jury here.

Thornhill said he didn't believe at the time that fellow members of the United Klans of America were responsible for church burnings, or for later bombings of the homes of Negro civil rights workers in the McComb area.

He said he wasn't convinced until 11 Klansmen were arrested and pleaded guilty to the dynamite bombings.

Thornhill said he got out of the Klan long before the bombings started in 1964. He said he quit after several colored churches were burned.

Fairfax Trustees Pick New Chief For Schools

William Trevethick, 51, superintendent of Susanville Elementary School District in Lassen County, was named the new superintendent of Fairfax School District last night, to succeed Homer L. Sisk on his retirement June 30.

A screening committee interviewed six candidates for the post last Saturday and recommended Trevethick be appointed.

Trevethick has been given a three-year contract, subject to annual review, with starting salary of $14,000 per year. He will take over the post July 1.

Educated at the University of California and University of Southern California, he has had experience as a teacher, a principal and superintendent. He was consultant in the Lassen County superintendent of schools office before taking the job in Susanville seven years ago.

He is married and has a family of four; three daughters aged 20, 14 and 11, and a son aged 12.

Bagley, McCarthy Meeting With Brown

Both Marin legislators, Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, were among a handful of Republicans who were invited to meet with Gov. Edmund G. Brown this afternoon to discuss the coming budget.

Senator McCarthy, who suggested that the governor call such a meeting to get Republican ideas on keeping the budget down, said he would have a statement to make after the conference.

All potatoes aren't Idahos

(only those grown in Idaho)

A climate of warm days and cool nights, high altitude, mineral-rich volcanic soils, pure mountain water—these make Idaho potatoes great. You can't get flavor, quality, and cooking versatility by simply calling any potato an Idaho potato. It has to be grown in Idaho. That's why we identify our displays and packages with our "Grown in Idaho" seal. Look for it. Buy with confidence.

Look-alikes aren't cook-alikes. Be sure they're grown in Idaho

Venturi Doesn't Forget Help From A Hockey Boss

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ken Venturi, back on top again after a torturous hand-over-hand climb, repaid a two-year old debt today clear across the country.

He did it with a long distance telephone call to a man who may be responsible for changing the course of his entire career.

"No matter what happens," Venturi said to his benefactor, "I'll always remember what you did for me."

The 34-year-old former U.S. Open champ, calling from California, was speaking to Bill Jennings, who is best known as president of the New York Rangers hockey team. Venturi said a few other things also before teeing up in the Bob Hope Desert Classic at Palm Springs, Calif.

"I'm back on my game again and have never been more pleased with it in my life," he said happily. "What pleases me most is the fact I missed only one fairway during all the holes I played in San Francisco."

That particular reference was to the Lucky International Tournament which Venturi won Monday for his first victory in two years.

The other reference was a rather private thing between Venturi and Jennings which now can be made public.

It happened back in June of 1964 when Venturi was in about as much demand as small pox because everyone figured his game was shot.

Jennings, as chairman and sponsor of the Thunderbird Classic in Harrison, N.Y., was in a position to grant five invitations to golf pros. He invited four local players; Herman Barron, Claude Harmon, Tony Manero and Bob Watson, and had one invitation left.

Venturi called Jennings and begged for it.

"That's right, I begged," recalls Venturi. "I needed the money."

Although Venturi did not actually qualify because he had failed to finish among the first 60 in the previous tourney at Indianapolis, Jennings invited him to the Thunderbird, where Ken wound up in a third place tie with Billy Casper and earned $6,250.

"If I hadn't gotten that invitation, I woud have packed up and gone home," Venturi said after.

Not ony would he have missed the Thunderbird, but he might have also skipped the U.S. Open at Washington which he won that year.

But after 1964, came another near disaster. Suddenly victimized by a circulatory ailment which left his hands numb and lifeless and eventually required a delicate operation, Venturi managed to win only a paltry $295 all last year.

That comes to less than a dollar a day and it also came to a point where his mother, Mrs. Fred Venturi, was picking up more prizes than her son while playing in amateur tournaments around San Francisco.

Not only did Venturi's on-the-course earnings nose-dive drastically last year, but so did his off-the-course income. Sponsors, taking advantage of a clause which obliged Venturi to participate in at least 20 tournaments, would call up and start their conversations the same way.

"We're sorry, but. . ."

If they were sorry, you should have seen Venturi.

Golf Mismatch Is Scheduled; Blue Chip Fence In Novato

FORE: The golf mismatch of all time is expected to unfold on the greenery of San Geronimo's new course next Monday.

Mrs. William May, one of Marin's better golfers, will oppose Nicasio sportsman Nick Kobseff in an 18-hole match for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

If I know my golf, Mrs. May should beat the dickens out of big Nick. At least I hope she does because the winner will receive a prize from Mrs. Helen Gray, who owns the Modern Eve women's shops and, well, Nick just wouldn't look very good in the latest fashions.

Nick is Marin County chairman of the March of Dimes and will do ANYTHING for his pet charity, including subjecting himself to ridicule in a golf match against a woman! I have never seen him play—frankly, I've been afraid to watch—but they tell me he plays golf like the idea of the game is to swing a club as close to the ball as possible without touching it.

Anyway, Nick says a full-fledged March of Dimes tournament is planned for next year. If anyone would want to watch next Monday's exhibition, they'll tee off at 10 a.m.

THE COMPANY that advertises "You Can Get Almost Anything With Blue Chip Stamps" may now add a new item: A baseball fence.

Yes indeedy, Novato High School's new head baseball coach, Bob Aune, is working on a project to acquire a badly-needed outfield fence at the high school ballyard through the Blue Chip Stamp Co.

Well, dearies, I guess you can imagine such a project is going to take a helluva lot of Blue Chips. Aune can't possibly collect enough himself, so he's asking anyone willing to help on the project to mail stamps to him at the Novato High Physical Education Department.

If you don't have any stamps, you might donate your tongue. There's quite a licking job to be done.

WHAT DOES Warrior rookie ace Rick Barry do on his day off? Why, he goes to a church gym near his apartment and shoots baskets. And who with? Why, with his bride, Pam, who says, "I love to play basketball with Rick. Of course, he usually spots me about 10 points when we play 21."

That may not seem so generous of Rick, until you realize his wife is the daughter of University of Miami basketball coach Bruce Hale, and knows her way around a court. The Barrys have an eternal courtship.

HERE'S THE latest guest list for Sunday's 13th annual Santa Rosa Sports Celebrity Banquet at the Flamingo Hotel: John Brodie, Lance Alworth, Tommy Davis, Bruce Bosley, Wayne Hawkins, Rocky Marciano, Curt Flood, Vada Pinson, Jim Maloney, Fred Biletnikoff, Paul Wiggin, Tom Haller, Don Landrum, Stu Miller, Russ Hodges and Lon Simmons.

Sorry, it's been sold out for weeks, but I hope to collect enough notes and quotes to fill a couple of columns next week.

Warriors Nip Royals 127-125 For Fourth Straight Win

San Francisco Warrior rookie Rick Barry just keeps getting better and better.

The slim 6-7 gunner from Miami hooped 37 points last night as the Warriors took one of their biggest wins, a 127-125 squeaker over tough Cincinnati.

It was the Warriors' fourth straight win and pushed their record to a respectable 26-30. That left them five games back of front-running Los Angeles in the Western Division with Baltimore 1½ back of San Francisco and the St. Louis Hawks another half-game back.

Barry's worth to the team can be seen by recalling that last year's Warrior team broke the league loss record with a 17-63 mark. The major change this season is the addition of Barry.

The Warriors exploded for 42 points in the second period and still led by 20 with 10 minutes to go. But Cincinnati fought back to close the gap to 124-123. Ex-Royal Bud Olsen's two free throws with 24 seconds to go decided the issue.

Paul Neumann hit 23 points and Guy Rodgers 15 for the Warriors while four Royals scored from 21 to 23 points. A packed house of 5,172 saw the Civic Auditorium action.

The Warriors are idle until they open a tough road trip Sunday at Phoenix, Ariz. against the Royals.

EX-OLYMPIC STAR

Jesse Owens Fined For Tax Evasion

CHICAGO (AP) — Jesse Owens, the superb track star who ruffled Adolf Hitler by winning four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics was fined $3,000 yesterday in an income tax case.

Owens had entered a plea of no contest to charges that he failed to file income tax returns on $29,135 for the years of 1959 through 1962.

Judge Joseph Sam Perry cited Owens' "good influence on the community" and after 35 minutes of comment he imposed the fine of $3,000 which is payable within six months.

The maximum penalty would have been four years in prison and a $40,000 fine under the criminal charge placed by the government.

Owens, who has spent recent years working for the Illinois Youth Commission and making numerous appearances before youth groups in addition to a daily radio program, was elated with Judge Perry's ruling.

"I certaintly regret that I had to be brought before you," Owens told Judge Perry. "I want you to know this was not a willfull violation. For many years I have tired to build an image in this country. All I ask is an opportunity to prove to my family and the community and my country. . . ."

Owens' voice trailed off and brought to mind his greatest feats as a star trackman for Ohio State University.

When he won four gold medals in Berlin, a feat which caused Hitler to stalk off from the Games because Owens' achievement crimped the Fuehrer's propaganda of the super race, Owens was the pride of America and the free world.

In making his decision, Judge Perry said "I see plenty on the credit side. This is a misdemeanor. I can't see why this one error should stop you from going ahead with your youth work. You have been subjected to pressure of public appearances. You have been too generous."

The judge concluded he was convinced Owens "needed no more punishment, yours was an error of ommission rather than commission."

Seals Deep In A Hole

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI) — It looks like the start of the finish for the San Francisco Seals.

They lost a tough, well-played 4-1 decision at Seattle last night to fall nine points back of the fourth-place Totems. They don't figure to close that gap during a rugged road trip that takes them to four more cities in five days, starting tonight at league- leading Victoria. Since there are only four play-off spots, the Seals hopes are dimming quickly.

Seattle pulled to a 2-0 lead yesterday before Al Nicholson tallied in the second stanza for the Seals. But Jim Powers' tally in the final period finished Seal hopes.

Ernie Terrell Is Hoping For Chicago Title Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight challenger Ernie Terrell says he's clean and wants to meet champion Cassius Clay in Chicago.

Terrell, who was denied a license to fight Clay in a New York City championship bout, claims he has completely rid himself of any association with Bernie Glickman.

Because of Glickman, the New York State Athletic Commission refused Terrell a license last Friday.

Glickman, described by the New York commission as detrimental to boxing because of his admitted association with underworld figures, has been instrumental in helping Terrell's night club appearances.

In addition to boxing, Terrell also strums the guitar and does a song and dance routine.

Terrell claims Glickman has been his show business agent only and helped boost his act from $600 a week to $3,500 a week and possibly $5,000.

Terrell's hopes of meeting Clay in a title fight stem from his victory over Canadian George Chuvalo.

"I've been clean in boxing my whole career," claims Terrell, "and I'm my own manager since I paid $20,000 for my contract from Julie Isaacson on the receipts from the Chuvalo fight."

Terrell says Glickman is not to receive any money from him until his night club shows net him $5,000 a week.

"I let Glickman help me make a living as a musician, but now he's out although if my musical group ever hits $5,000 a week, I'll pay him something like we originally agreed," says Terrell.

In an affidavit filed with the New York commission, Terrell avowed Glickman aided him only in show business and now "he is with me no more in any capacity."

Terrell, a 6-foot-6 Chicagoan, made his remarks at a press conference yesterday during which time he and two of his lawyers sparred with the press.

Only last Monday night on a Chicago radio show, Clay phoned Terrell and told him, "Since you beat Chuvalo, I'll give you a chance at my title." Clay also said negotiations were under way to stage the fight in Chicago.

Braves Pilot Has Some High Hopes

By RON SPEER

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Manager Bobby Bragan admits he has "high hopes" for the Atlanta Braves this year.

"I think we can win it all if things go right," the cigar-smoking Texan said today. "The momentum provided by a new city should help us."

The Braves, playing in Milwaukee last year, finished fifth, but were in the running for the National League pennant until the last month.

"We've got what is basically a young team," Bragan said. "I think they will respond even more than you would expect from a team moving into a new city."

Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles Dodger pitcher named the 1965 Male Athlete of the Year, agreed with Bragan.

"I guarantee you the Braves will be in contention next year," Koufax said before making a speech at a charity banquet here. "They have the best hitting club in the league."

Bragan said that the trade which brought Lee Thomas, Boston first baseman, to the Braves will boost their batting strength.

"The big question with us," he said, "is our pitching. We've got more than half a dozen players who can hit more than 20 home runs a season.

"Our hopes — and we have high hopes — are built around our pitchers."

Bragan said he hopes that Wade Blasingame, Tony Cloninger and Billy O'Dell come through with back-to-back big years, and "Denny Lemaster will pitch like he did in 1964 when he won 17 games.

"Hank Fischer has been arriving for two or three years, and we hope this is the year he gets there," Bragan said of the right-hander who won eight and lost nine for the Braves in Milwaukee last year.

"We also are counting on Denis Menke to have a big year at shortstop," Bragan said. "I think he will."

Menke was hurt most of 1965

Flash Elorde Suspended By State Board

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — World junior lightweight champion Flash Elorde was suspended yesterday by the California Athletic Commission for allegedly refusing to honor a contract to fight Ricardo Moreno on Feb. 21.

Commission chairman Douglas Hayden said he was trying to make the suspension effective worldwide against the Philippine southpaw.

The 30-year-old Elorde was to have met Moreno, a Mexican now fighting out of San Francisco, in the Cow Palace under the promotion of Don Chargin.

Hayden said Elorde's father-in-law and advisor, Lope Sarreal, had signed for the fight for a $35,000 guarantee and then tried to pull out with three telegrams from Manila.

Hayden said he wrote letters explaining the suspension to James Deskin, of Las Vegas, Nev., president of the World Boxing Association; Justiniano Montana Jr., in charge of the Philippines Games and Amusements Board, and Kotai Kikucho, executive secretary of the Japan Boxing Commission.

Hayden said one reason Sarreal wants to pull Elorde out of the Moreno match is so the champion could fight Hawaiian Paul Fujii in Osaka, Japan, on April 25.

The California commissioner also said that Montana wrote back saying Sarreal is not recognized in the Philippines as Elorde's manager and that no suspension could be honored in a dispute involving Sarreal's signature on a contract.

Two Marin Boxers Win In 'Gloves' Tournament

Two Marin County boxers won opening matches last night in the Golden Gloves Tournament being held in Kezar Pavilion, San Francisco.

Dave Tounsel, 139, of San Rafael, decisioned Louie Gonzalez of Hamilton Air Force Base in the senior division, and Joe Garcia of HAFB whipped Willie Maurice in the junior 147-pound division.

Norm Kreuter, gridder at College of Marin, was leading in a novice heavyweight match but caught a solid right hand late in the final round by Oree McRae, student at San Francisco City College, and lost by knockout.

Also losing were Bill Goelz of San Rafael, 119, a decision to Austin Titla of Oakland in the novice group, and Joe Roybal, San Rafael, to George Yothers of Sacramento in the 147's.

Action continues Friday night with semi-final matches.

Bob Hope's Golf Marathon Starts

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The golfing marathon that bears the name of Bob Hope — it's the Hope $100,000 Desert Classic — got under way today and will continue, whether you can stand the suspense or not, for five days.

The tournament sports a select field of 28 professionals, including the 1965 winner, Bill Casper Jr., Arnold Palmer, and the newest champion of the winter circuit, former U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi.

It also has 384 promising amateurs, which tends to complicate matters for at least four days.

Among the amateurs is, you might guess, Bob Hope.

The official pairing sheet is about the size of the Palm Springs telephone directory. Hope is identified as a member of the A-184 team. His pro is Q-30, which is possibly more intriguing than James Bond's 007.

On the serious side, the tournament is 90 holes and the issue will not be decided until the fifth day, Sunday.

Casper is the logical favorite but, of course, Palmer, as well as the rejuvenated Venturi, merit attention.

Venturi, the 1964 National Open champion, reclaimed his stature with a brilliant come-from-behind victory in the San Francisco Lucky International last weekend.

It ended more than a year of misery and pain for the handsome San Franciscan, not to mention tournament disappointments in a fight against a circulatory ailment in his hands.

The tournament play is over four courses. Each of the 128 pros has a different threesome of amateurs each day for the first four rounds.

The pros go it alone on the final round.

The country club courses in use are Indian Wells, the host and fifth round site; Bermuda Dunes, La Quinta, and Eldorado. All are par 36-36-72.

Casper won in 1965 with a 348, which is 12 shots under par. He had a final round 72 at Bermuda Dunes. One stroke back, both with a 70, were Palmer and Tommy Aaron.

Obeck Quits His Job At New York U.

NEW YORK (AP) — Vic Obeck, director of athletics at New York University for the past nine years, resigned today effective with the close of the current academic year on Aug. 31.

President James M. Hester of the university, said that Ben Carnevale, presently the basketball coach at the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., would succeed Obeck on Sept. 1.

Obeck said he was leaving NYU "to accept an offer so tempting that I cannot refuse." He refused to identify the job. In addition, he and two others plan to open a consultant's office in New York City dealing with sports and recreation.

Carnevale, a 1938 graduate of NYU, has coached at Navy since 1947. His teams there have won 250 and lost 146. He is the president of the National Basketball Coaches Association and he also is chairman of the Olympic Basketball Committee.

Mrs. Vincent Is Tourney Winner

Mrs. Charles Vincent won the Captain's Trophy yesterday at the Las Gallinas Women's Golf Club tournament. Winners in low net over the field competition were:

Mrs. Vincent, 69-8—61; Mrs. Kenneth Crawford, 77-13—64; Mrs. W. G. Risdon, 80-13—67; Mrs. A. Edwards, 80-12—68.

How Important Is Home Court?

CHICAGO (AP) — Somehow there isn't a basketball fan in the country who doesn't have his own views on the so-called home court advantage.

The usual response is that the players know the floor, the fans cheer a team on or the visitors have been traveling and therefore are tired.

All of these factors may be present but Al McGuire, Marquette's refreshing 37-year- old coach, comes out with a statement everyone thinks about but is afraid to state.

"The crowd is a big factor in the home court advantage," says McGuire "because the crowd works on the sub-conscious of the offical. When a hairline judgment call comes up, the official goes along with the crowd. It can't be anything else."

McGuire, who hopes to turn Marquette into a basketball power once his recruiting efforts come into being next season, says "it can't be anything else. I've been watching this game for 25 years and I can't discount it."

McGuire was quick to say he doesn't believe or "don't know of any dishonest officials' but added there is no such thing as an upset at home.

"The only upsets there are come on the road," said McGuire. "You're supposed to win at home and lose on the road. If you happen to win on the road then you're a real good team."

Iowa Coach Ralph Miller had different views on the matter although he, too, admitted the home court advantage is hard to overcome.

"I think the crowd can pick a team up" said Miller. "Good basketball players are not affected by all this. It's not a negative factor when you're the visiting team but rather a positive factor in favor of the home team."

Miller pointed out Iowa's unexpected 61-60 loss at Wisconsin earlier in the season.

"I think Wisconsin has been an underrated team but I also feel we should have won that game," said Miller. "We went ahead comfortably but then we made a few mistakes. The crowd got pulling for Wisconsin and their kids responded tremendously. We lost. It shouldn't have happened but it did.

"The crowd gets to the players and then gives them a surge," said Miller, "that's my only explanation for the home court advantage."

Austria's Ace Skier Blasts Italian Track

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — Austria's ace skier Karl Schranz left here today for home in protest against what he termed the "dangerousness" of the downhill track on which he was to compete on Sunday.

Schranz, former world skiing champion, led a revolt of the 10-man Austrian team and five-man Swiss team against organizers of the Ilio Colli Trophy.

The international downhill race is scheduled for Sunday on the Olympia course, an 11,48-feet track with a drop of 2,959 feet, rated among the toughest in Europe.

The other nine members of the Austrian team and the entire Swiss team planned to decide later today whether to stay or go home as Schranz did.

"My life is too precious to me," said Schranz. "I told the organizers that the track is dangerous because it had not been prepared properly for this event."

He said ordinary tourist skiers had been allowed to use the track until a few days ago. "A track should be closed to the public at least three weeks before a competition," Schranz said.

Dodgers' Boss Criticizes Milwaukee Baseball Fans

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter O'Malley, owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers, has struck the latest blow in baseball's continuing struggle against the State of Wisconsin over the proposed move of the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta for 1966.

O'Malley said yesterday that Milwaukee is a good baseball town but pointed out the fans' boycott of the Braves last season is one of the reasons he said the city is unacceptable for a team now.

The Dodger owner was testifying at a deposition taken in the offices of National League attorney Louis Carroll.

Questioned by Willard Stafford, counsel for Wisconsin, and Bowie Kahn, counsel for the league, O'Malley said that expansion for 1966 "would wreak havoc on the league and on my own club."

Wisconsin seeks to prevent the Braves from playing their 1966 games in Atlanta unless Milwaukee is granted another major league franchise.

"During the last expansion, we downgraded the game because we couldn't provide players of high caliber for all teams and it would be an absolute fraud on the public to expand now," O'Malley said.

The Dodger owner, a member of baseball's expansion committee, predicted that baseball would eventually have three leagues of eight teams each but said this was at least five years away.

WEST COAST BASKETBALL

USF Boasts Best Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Dons, with the best western basketball record, resume West Coast Athletic Conference play tomorrow against UC Santa Barbara.

The Dons are 13-2 for the season and 3-0 in the conference. Only University of the Pacific with 12-3 and 3-0 records seems likely to impede San Francisco's path to another conference crown.

In basketball games yesterday, Oregon State defeated Hawaii 72-36 at Corvallis, St. Mary's of California trompled Portland 87-68 and the Cal Aggies eeked past Chico State 59-53.

Hawaii was too short and Oregon State's defense too tight for the visitors from the Islands. Scott Eaton, state's 6-foot-3 guard, topped all scorers with 25 points. Dick Treglown hit 14 to top Hawaii.

St. Mary's jumped to an early lead over Portland. Jim Callaghan was high for the California school with 20 points. Ed Clark had 19 and Paul Gloden 18 for Portland.

Don Moore hit two field goals with 90 seconds left in the second half to break a tie 49-49 between the Cal Aggies and Chico State. Chico's game collapsed and the Aggies ran away. Moore ended with 24. Billy Jones led the losers with 17. It was a Far Western Conference game.

There are no games scheduled today.

2 Horses Definitely Stricken With Fever

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A veterinarian reported today that two out of five blood samples from horses at Bowie race track in Maryland showed swamp fever and one other sample possibly showed the disease.

The report was made by Dr. R. W. Moore, Texas A&M University professor of veterinary microbiology.

The tests were run at the request of the track where a barn of horses was quarantined because of suspected fever.

Texas A&M spokesmen said the school is the only place in the world that has developed a reliable test for the ailment.

Swamp fever is one of the most dreaded of horse diseases, especially among thoroughbreds. There is no known cure and victims usually are destroyed because the disease is so easily transmitted to other animals, a university spokesman said.

Maryland's Livestock Sanitation Service director said the January outbreak was the first known in that state.

Dr. Moore said other samples have been sent by Bowie track to A&M but the results "are confidential and the investigation is continuing."

Major swamp fever occurrences in the past 18 months have been in Kansas, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Illinois and North Carolina. Small outbreaks occurred in Florida and Kentucky, the school reported.

Dr. Moore said the disease is most often transmitted by contaminated hypodermic needles and syringes.

"So far we have investigated six major swamp fever outbreaks in the United States, and we found that all of them were caused by misuse of syringes or transfusion of blood," Dr. Moore said.

Other carriers are biting insects, such as horseflies and mosquitoes.

The veterinarian said the fever is caused by a virus and hits the animal in seven- to nine-day cycles. It is characterized by depression, congested mucous membranes and swelling of legs.

The horse which carries the disease and from which other horses contract the illness may show no evidence of the virus.

Other cases run from the acute infection that usually ends in death to chronic cases which leave the horse weak and almost useless.

VENTURI

last March, one observer said he never saw anyone look so despondent as Venturi.

"He looked like someone contemplating suicide," said the observer.

Then came the U.S. Open in June. It was held in a town just outside St. Louis called Creve Coeur, which means "broken heart" in French.

That's the same way Venturi played or rather tried to. He hacked his way around in 160 strokes for the first two rounds and that didn't qualify him for the last two. The only reason he defended his title was because he had promised.

He zipped up his bag that day and never really knew whether he'd ever use his clubs again.

It's nice to report he's using them fine right now.

and wound up playing in only 71 games, in which he batted .243.

"We've got boys like Mack Jones, who hit 31 home runs for us last year, and Eddie Mathews and Henry Aaron who will help us," Bragan said.

"And most of them are young. The momentum provided by friendly fans will really help the younger players. We had a bad finish last year, or we would have finished higher."

Bragan, who has been seeking another relief pitcher, said he believes Arnold Earley acquired from Boston, will be a big help in the bullpen.

"We are counting on him to help us out," Bragan said. "With a little luck we could win the pennant.

"And I know we will get a lot bigger boost from Atlanta fans than we did from Milwaukee last year," he said.

You Don't Move Up In Mr. Halas' Game

My mail only rarely brings me messages from famous men. I mean, an occasional Christmas card from a fairgrounds jockey, once in a while a little note from a banjo-hitting outfielder asking me to plug his bowling alley. President Johnson is no pen pal. Doris Day must have lost my address. The only people I hear from regularly are from the Book - of - the - Month Club, who keep sending me books by Bruce Catton.

You can understand, then, how touched I was to get a hand-signed missive from one of the great men of our time, George Stanley Halas, the inventor of pro football, the kindly old preceptor, the patron saint of young coaches everywhere, a legend after his own time.

I HAD TO fight back the tears as I read it because George was writing from the position of a horribly wronged man, somewhat in the tradition of Captain Dreyfus, not to say the Count of Monte Cristo or Uncle Tom.

Two weeks ago, I had tried with might and main to locate George to shed some light on a controversy of some urgency, namely, what happened to the inalienable right of a football coach to jump a contract? I mean, the highways are regularly clogged with coaches driving to new jobs with Cadillacs the alumni gave them to try to keep them in the old ones. Contract-jumping is something a coach learns along with the umbrella defense. It ranks right next to player-snitching as a way of life among coaches.

OF COURSE, I had no luck contacting George two weeks ago. I might have had a better chance of locating Judge Crater. But George explains all that in the letter. It would have been improper for him to comment on a court case while it was before the bar. But he encloses a set of clippings from Chicago papers which seem, at first glance, to have been written by his wife. George comes off as a combination of Joan of Arc and Stella Dallas, a poor, broken old man who had fallen in with evil companions, a man who never thought there was so much skulduggery, not to say downright duplicity, in the world. The clippings were damp with tears. I haven't cried so much since I saw "Skippy."

THIS PITIFUL old martyr coach—all he has left in the world now is several million dollars and Gale Sayers—says all he was trying to do was to prove the sanctity of a contract.

Oh, sure, George. And all Jack the Ripper was trying to do was prove the streets of London were unsafe after dark.

Travel with me back through the pages of history and try to imagine George Stanley Halas as the head coach at any of them:

"YOU, THERE, Fulton. Get back up in that rigging and stop that tomfoolery about a steam engine. I say you got to run a ship with a sail or an oar and you signed on here as a fore-top-man and a fore-top-man you will remain. I'm confiscating your steam kettle and I gave your stovepipe to an old Indian to make into a drum."

"WHAT'S THAT, Washington? YOU, a general?! Listen, Washington, you signed on in this Army as a scout and a loyal subject of the Crown. See that you live up to it or you and that crowd of troublemakers will all hang — together or separately. And I'm going to see the commissioner about that nut Patrick Henry and Button Gwinnett's signature isn't worth the paper it's written on. I can go to court in a minute and get the Declaration of Independence annulled and get an injunction against the Continental Congress."

BELL, HOW many times I got to tell you around this office we throw notes in bottles out on the tide? In a pinch, we use carrier pigeons. Now, put away that silly voice box and tell Don Ameche to get himself another boy. You were hired to clean pigeon cages around here and, by God, somebody's got to do some work around here and stop day dreaming!"

"ORVILLE? WILBUR? Did I or did I not tell you to fix those bicycles and stop trying to kill yourselves in those infernal flying machines. If the good Lord intended you to fly, he would have told me first. Now, fix those sprockets and see if you can develop something practical like a bicycle built for two because I got a great idea for a song if you can."

"A HORSELESS carriage? Ford, how many times do I have to tell you we deal in realities around this plant. I don't give a damn how many patents you got, I say you hired on to make buggy whips and it's time you got back there in the shop and did it!"

"I'M SORRY, Winston, I'M calling the shots around here and we will NOT fight them on beaches, in the streets and in the fields. We'll give them everything south of Liverpool is what we'll do and if you try to stop me I'll have you court-martialed."

"LOOK, EINSTEIN, just keep making those grenades and if you go over my head and deal with the President, I'll throw the book at you. An atomic reaction, indeed! Keep that talk up and they'll have you in the funny farm next."

Marin Catholic '5' Dumped By Vallejo

Marin Catholic's basketball team lost to Vallejo High yesterday in a practice skirmish, 56-34 in Kentfield.

The visiting Apaches forged 7 points ahead at the end of the first quarter and never relinquished the lead, outscoring the home team in every period except the last when the Wildcats came out on the top end of a 12-10 count.

The Vallejo quint led 30-12 at intermission, but Wildcat coach Gus Hassapakis noted that although Vallejo was the better team yesterday, he played his reserved throughout much of the game.

Center Bob Lombardi came through with another stout performance and scored 12 points to lead the 'Cats scoring attack. The 6-2 pivotman poured in 5 baskets from the field and caged 2 free throws for his total.

The Wildcats will host the Terra Linda Trojans when Marin Athletic League play resumes Friday.

Drake Profs Tire, Lose To Varsity

Drake High School's faculty basketball team kept pace with the younger varsity boys for the first half of their game yesterday but age caught up with the profs in the second half as the Pirates' varsity won out, 67-50.

Led by the scoring of Reg Carolan, former Drake star now playing pro football, and Cappy Lavin, ex-ace at USF, the teachers stayed pretty close to the Pirates at the start and trailed at half, 32-28.

But then youth prevailed and the Pirates outscored the teachers 35-22 in the second half. Drake's varsity had a fine tune-up for Friday's big game at Redwood when the Pirates shot for 51 per cent from the floor.

Every varsity boy played, and all of them scored. Top point-maker was Bob Tobin with 13. Carolan and Lavin each scored 11 points for the faculty team.

5th Straight Win

St. Raphael's Parish basketball team coasted to its fifth straight triumph Saturday with a 60-30 verdict over St. Anselm's in Catholic Youth Organization action. Tom Gagen led the victors with 18 points and Lon Stemple scored 16 for St. Anselm's.

Two Swim Clubs Slate Tryouts For Youngsters

Two Marin County youth swim clubs announced tryout dates for prospective team members.

The Marin Pirates of San Anselmo will hold tryouts Saturday, Feb. 12, at noon, in the Drake High School pool for boys and girls from 5 through 17. The tryouts are being sponsored jointly by the Tamalpais Recreation District and the Marin Pirates Swim Club.

The Tamalpais Swim Club will hold its tryouts on three consecutive Mondays, Feb. 7, 14 and 21, in the Tamalpais High School pool in Mill Valley, between 5 and 6 p.m. Applicants must be at least 7 years old.

Registration Slated For Rec Program

Registration for Tamalpais High School's district recreation program for the spring semester will be taken Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. in Tam's boys gym.

Cost for the program, which includes modern dance, gymnastics, trampoline, basketball and swimming, is $1 a semester plus 50 cents per month per child.

Novato Teachers Give Hornets Cage Lesson

Novato High School's faculty team spanked the varsity Hornet basketballers yesterday in the Novato gym by a slim 57-56 margin.

The Hornets trailed by just two points at the end of the first period, then exploded for 20 points in the second to take a 2-point lead off the court at halftime, 33-31.

With Ken Anderson the teachers' biggest attacking weapon, the experienced faculty squad again forged ahead at the end of the third period by outscoring the Hornets 15-10, and combined with 11 points in the final stanza, that was enough for the win.

Anderson, former College of Marin and Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo cages tar, led all scorers with 17 points on 8 buckets from the floor and one free throw.

Novato basketball coach John Panagakis chipped in with 11 points against his cagers and Larry Karinen added 9.

Ev Fritz led in the scoring derby for the Hornet quint with 12 points.

San Rafael Quint Nips Napa, 56-54

Jeff Allen tipped in a missed shot at the buzzer to give the San Rafael Bulldogs a narrow 56-54 triumph over the visiting Napa Indians yesterday in a practice basketball game.

The Napa hoopsters held a 2-point lead with 40 seconds remaining, but Bulldog guard Roger Widmer broke through the Indians' defense and hit on a layup that tied it 54-all.

As the final seconds ticked away, the Napa quint scrambled back to its end of the court, but a short attempt missed the mark.

Then, with about 5 seconds left, guard Joe Cunningham tried a longie from the perimeter, but the ball hit the rim and bounced in front of the free-throw line. And that's where Allen tipped it in to give the home quint the victory as the buzzer sounded.

Allen topped all scorers with 18 points and sparked a drive that carried the home team to a 28-24 halftime lead by scoring 12 of those points in the first half. The big forward was also instrumental in San Rafael's domination of the boards as he plucked off 10 rebounds in the first two periods, then grabbed W7 more in the second half to lead all rebounders.

The San Rafael cagers outrebounded the Indians 54-45.

Cunningham had 10 rebounds for the Bulldogs and an identical number of points, while center Dick Draney hauled down 14 and scored 8 points. Widmer converted 5 of 6 free tosses and followed Allen in the scoring cilumn with 11 markers.

From the field, the losers had the edge as they caged 22 of 62 for 35 per cent while San Rafael hit on 21 of 66 for 34 per cent. At the free-throw line, however, that edge was reversed with the San Rafael boys shooting 61 per cent (14x23) and the visitors from Napa (10x17) 59 per cent.

San Rafael	18 10 15 13—56
Napa	16 8 18 12—54

It Doesn't Take Muscle To Sink A 444-Yard Ace

Independent-Journal Sports

20 Feb. 2, 1966

NEW YORK (AP) — It doesn't take muscle but a lot of luck and a good wind to sink a drive of 444 yards, says the man who scored golf's longest hole-in-one.

Then, adds Bob Mitera dolefully, you spend the rest of your life trying to make people believe it.

"Nobody does," added the 21-year-old Creighton University student yesterday after being honored as the sport's long distance hole-in-one king.

"Peope look at me and say, 'You've got to be kidding. Nobody can score a 444-yard hole-in-one, especially a squirt like you. Soon, I get so I feel like I've committed a crime rather than made a hole-in-one.

"So I quit telling anybody."

But Golf Digest Magazine, which serves as a clearing house for holes-in-one (There were a record 14,154 last year) had no intention of keeping it a secret.

They flew Bob out from his home in Omaha, Neb., presented him a huge trophy and subjected him to New York sports writers.

Mitera looks anything but the part of a golf Hercules. He stands only 5-foot-6, weighs 165 pounds and wears glasses. He is an English major. He is a pop hitter normally off the tee, averaging around 240 yards.

Apologetically, he told how he accomplishied his amazing feat Oct. 7, while playing with some Creighton teammates over Omaha's Miracle Hill course, 6,700 yards, par 70.

"It was mostly luck," he explained. "The 10th hole is straightaway with a sharp dropoff about 290 yards from the tee. There was a wind with gusts up to 50 miles an hour.

"The wind caught the ball, and it carried to the drop-off, then rolled into the hole. Even I was astounded."

Until Mitera cranked up and let fly, the longest hole-in-one on record measured 427 yards. Lou Kretlow, the former major league pitcher, made it on the 16th hole of the Oklahoma City Lake Hefner course March 23, 1961.

Mustang Rally Slated Sunday

The newly formed Golden Gate Mustang Club of Marin will sponsor a rally Sunday starting at Ames Ford in San Rafael, 9 a.m., and all Mustang owners are invited to compete, according to club spokesmen.

Two cars representing the new club tied for first place last Sunday in a Ford Mustang rally at Modesto.

They were driven by Bill Ames of San Anselmo and Galen Onizuka of Fairfax. Navigators were Bill Moffat of Terra Linda for Ames and Al Sheers of Fairfax for Onizuka.

The Marin club also brought back a participation trophy for sending 12 cars to the competition.

SPORTS, BOAT SHOW

A Harbor On Land

The Cow Palace in San Francisco will be transformed into a huge dry-land yacht harbor and an outdoorsman's paradise when the 22nd annual San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show opens its 10-day run Friday.

Colorful flags and plastic drapes will add a festive and nautical atmosphere to the huge center arena, where lofty sailboats and luxury cruisers will be tied up for inspection. The color theme, intermingled with force-bloomed spring flowers, will continue through the north and south halls which will feature more cruisers, both outboard and inboard, rubber boats, inflatable boats and all kinds of boating accessories.

In the outer pavilions three halls of camping aids, including tents, campers, trailers, sleeping bags, camp stoves and lanterns will show all of the latest accessories for the outdoorsman.

Acres of fishing tackle, rods, reels, tackle boxes and all other gear from leading manufacturers will be interspersed with hunting and other sports equipment for side-by-side comparison.

Vacationland, with all of its colorful exhibits from many states and Canada will occupy another vast pavilion and will include the High Sierra Packers with their animals and packing demonstrations.

The "Hall of Outdoor Cooking" with barbecue demonstrations by leading food authorities; the Children's fishing pond where live trout may be caught, and the Marine Speed Hall are but a few more of the many delightful exhibits.

Show times are 2 to 11 p.m. week days; 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturdays, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays.

60—Homes For Sale Marin County

GROUNDHUGGERS GO HOME!!
This is not the place for you! The utterly fantastic soaring quality of this architect designed new home is for people who've always dreamed of living not just in the trees, but in the treetops! 3-level plan with living-dining and kitchen on top where the tips of magnificent oaks are literally a part of the decor. 3 bedrooms and 2 quarry tile baths, with access to the out of doors from all rooms. The smashing interior is detailed with beams, paneling, plank floors, small-paned windows, and distinctly Maybeck-influenced trim. Recently featured in the I-J's Marin Magazine and our new listing at $34,950!

No. 205 Feb. 2, 9, 16, 23, 1966

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California, until 1:30 P.M. Wednesday, Feb. 9, 1966, and will be opened at that hour for installation of approximately 13,890 square feet of built-up roofing, together with the removal and disposal of existing roofing and repairs to roof deck and facia. The work to be done is located at District's Ross Reservoir near Phoenix Lake, approximately 1.3 miles from the Ross Fire Station and is accessible over paved City streets and improved District roads. The Contractor will furnish all labor, equipment and materials required for the completed project.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District, under the provisions of Section 1770 of the Labor Code, to be as follows:

Classifications	Rate Per Hour
Carpenter	$4.575
Rooter	4.60
Laborers
Group I	4.025
Group II	3.875
Group III	3.775
Pickup Trucks	4.055
Flat-Rack Trucks
Under 10,500 lbs.	4.15
10,500 lbs. and over	4.25

Any classification omitted herein shall not be less than $3.775 per hour.

Overtime shall be not less than one and one-half (1½) times the above rates.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than one and one-half (1½) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workmen employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promply execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

The proposal for "Installation of Ross Reservoir Roof" must be submitted in the enclosed envelope provided for this purpose.

It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

Guided Missiles Disappoint Buck Rogers-Type Military

By WILLIAM E. HOWARD
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Guided missiles are proving to be pretty ordinary—and not very effective—weapons in their first battlefield test in Viet Nam.

During the past five months, more than 200 Soviet-made SAM-2 missiles reportedly have been fired at American fighter planes and succeeded in downing just 10.

Numerous Shrike anti-radar missiles have been launched from U.S. planes at the Soviet anti-aircraft missile batteries but with poor results — even though the Shrike was specifically designed for this job.

U.S. Bullpup missiles, also fired from aircraft, have been good at knocking out targets like bridges only when there was no defending anti-aircraft fire. Pilots must guide the Bullpup to its destination, holding their planes on a steady course meanwhile and making them a sitting duck if fired upon from the ground.

This dismal report card comes as something of a surprise to many military technologists and is of far-reaching significance.

The entire modernization of the U.S. armed forces has been built mainly around the theory that guided missiles would be invincible, particularly against aircraft. This theory prompted Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to downgrade bombers and shift the job of strategic deterrence almost entirely to long-range missiles.

Army and Navy combat forces have junked most of their anti-aircraft guns and are relying mainly on missiles for defense. These missiles haven't been tested in combat yet, but it is widely known that they are far from being reliable weapons today.

There was considerable trepidation among American pilots when the first Soviet SAM-2 went into action around Hanoi. The missiles bagged three jets in one month during the summer.

However, the magazine Aviation Week reports in a dispatch from Viet Nam that American pilots have learned to not only evade the anti-aircraft missiles but carry out several damaging blows against SAM-2 sites, using conventional bombs and cannon shells. To make these strikes, the planes ran through defending flak thrown up by guns the Communists deploy to project the missiles.

Bitter experience shows that the 36-foot-long SAM-2S—which U.S. pilots say look like "flying telephone poles"—are best against aircraft cruising along at 7,000 to 10,000 feet. They are ineffective at below 3,000 feet, apparently because their radar guidance becomes confused by picking up natural terrain features.

Pilots, the magazine adds, find the missiles are easy to spot if there are no clouds. They are not only large, but gush a trail of exhaust smoke. Many are poorly aimed and blow up frequently some distance away.

Even if one is on target, pilots have developed quick maneuvers to get out of the way. They also can "spoof" the missile into going astray with electronic devices carried aboard their planes.

Part of the SAM-2's unreliability is attributed to its mobility. The missiles are moved frequently to keep them from becoming targets and their electronics can't take the beating. Yet they are supposed to be manned by trained Soviet crews.

The Russians have an improved version of the missile, the SAM-3, also known as a Guideline, that presumably has better radar control. So far, this missile, hasn't seen action.

No one seems to know why the Shrike missile hasn't been able to home in on the SAM-2 radar beacons. It may be the Russians have developed a secret defense.

In any event, the message seems pretty clear: missiles are a long way from revolutionizing warfare and Pentagon theorists should do some fast recalculating.

Space Radio Detecting Universe Birth Echo?

By GENE BYLINSKY
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — From the depths of the universe comes a crackling radio noise which scientists think may be creation's echo — the sound of a "Big Bang" preserved in time and infinity.

The strange cosmic radio wave was first discovered last summer by scientists at the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Holmdel, N.J. At about the same time, a group of Princeton University scientists suggested that the signals were produced by the exploding primordial fireball which gave birth to the universe.

The same scientists, in their latest report, say conclusive evidence should be forthcoming this year whether the crackling radio noises are really signals of the "Big Bang."

The Princeton scientists point out that if their explanation is correct, the newly-found radiation should have varying intensity at different wave lengths, as prescribed by physical laws. They are in the process of measuring these intensities.

The radio noise, which also is responsible for some of the "between-channel" noise on home television sets, wor first detected with sensitive antennas at a wave length of 7.3 centimeters.

This told the scientists that the intensity was the same as that emitted by a cosmological "black body" having very cool surface temperature.

The primordial fireball which scientists think exploded seven to 10 billion years ago, was very hot. But the lingering radio waves, in their eternal travels through the universe, have "cooled down" substantially, scientists explain.

The Princeton scientists think that the signals were emitted from the "Big Bang" when the universe was first exploding outward and had a radius only 10 times the size of our galaxy, the Milky Way.

The signals seem to be coming from all directions. Although they had been picked up for years by radar and radio telescopes, they escaped detection because they masquerade as ordinary radio noise. A special type receiver is needed to isolate them.

The Bell scientists used the horn antenna designed for Telstar and Echo communications satellite experiments.

Conclusive proof that the signals date back to the creation of the universe would mean strong evidence in support of the "Big Bang" theory and also provide an important tool for exploring early evolution of the universe, scientists told the American Physical Society meeting in New York City.

They think that there is a relationship between the intensity of the new radio signals and two other parameters of cosmology: density of matter in the universe and the ratio of helium to hydrogen. Independent measurements of these three quantities can provide a check of the "Big Bang" theory.

Statistics Paint National Health As A Sickly Color

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — One of the more popular ailments these days is "the virus."

It may not be scientific, but enough people are calling it that, for Uncle Sam's health men to accept it as an official disease category.

Every year the national center for health statistics conducts a survey of 42,000 households. From the answers to a questionnaire, the statisticians put together a picture of the nation's health, figuring the 42,000 are representative of the entire country. It's a pretty sick picture they paint.

In its latest report, the center estimates 27,681,000 persons suffered "the virus" between July 1964 and June, 1965. This was 3 million more "virus" problems than were reported the year before on the basis of the house-to-house inquiry.

As expected, the survey showed the common cold (also virus-caused) was the most frequent illness. The population suffered through 115 million of them—a 12-million increase in sneezes.

Altogether, the center estimates there were 400 million acute or short-term ills last year. That figures out to better than two per person on the average.

What's more, the average person was slowed down by sickness 16.4 days during the 12-month period.

Sickness kept workers home an average of 5.7 days. Interestingly enough, youngsters between 6 and 16 lost less time from school than job holders from work: 5.2 days.

Women and children tended to boost the averages when it came to illnesses requiring confinement in bed. This figured out to 6.2 days in bed per person for the whole population.

The number of days all cold sufferers spent in bed totaled 101,255,000, with women climbing under the covers more often than men.

Short-term ills caused 658 million days of "bed disability."

Americans admitted spending nearly 2 million days in bed with headaches.

Men seem to consider bad toothaches (or dental conditions) a good reason for staying abed. At any rate, they chalked up 2.5 million days of bed disability, while women reclined over 3.5 million days because of tooth troubles.

In the same period, chronic, or generally "incurable" disorders afflicted more than 87 million persons — about 46 per cent of the population.

For the first time, interviewers sought data on the cost of both prescribed and non-prescribed medicines. They found that during the two-week period prior to the disease survey patients paid an average $3.50 per purchase for medicines.

For every 100 persons in the population, 28 Americans injured themselves. About 26 million were hurt badly enough to restrict activity for at least a day.

One hopeful sign: There were some 400,000 fewer persons injured in moving motor vehicle mishaps.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Telling Public Of Appendicitis Has Saved Victims From Death

VAN DELLEN

Educating the public about appendicitis paid handsome dividends in saving countless persons. Parents learned that calling the physician was safer than reaching for a laxative to relieve lower abdominal distress. They came to realize the value of the operation and consented to surgery rather than waiting until the appendix ruptured.

Appendicitis unsually begins with symptoms resembling an old-fashioned stomach-ache. There is generalized abdominal pain that increases in severity as time passes.

A feeling of nausea dispels all desire for food and when it persists, vomiting is prone to follow. After six to 10 hours most sufferers know they have waited long enough, particularly when the site of pain becomes localized in the right lower abdomen.

THIS REGION, especially the area adjacent to the inflamed appendix, is tender to the touch and the individual may wince, scream, or bend the right leg when the spot is pressed.

The modern operation is far less hazardous than in the past. A minimum of discomfort may be anticipated and should complications occur the wonder drugs, plasma, and salt or glucose solutions are available. Many are able to leave the hospital three to five days after the surgery.

Calling the physician early continues to offer the best chance for complete recovery.

CATHARTICS should not be taken in the presence of abdominal pain because they increase the churning movements of the intestinal tract, including the mushy, inflamed appendix. It is easily ruptured in this state, followed by the development of peritonitis.

The antibiotics, such as penicillin, have lessened the chance of dying from the disease but the medication is not a substitute for surgery. On the other hand, the wonder drugs have made it possible to delay the operation in mild or questionable attacks.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SALT AND WEIGHT

H. N. writes: Will taking extra salt at the table help a person to gain weight?

REPLY

Yes, but the gain would be due to the accumulation of water rather than to actual flesh. On the other hand, when the kidneys are functioning properly, salt is excreted in a normal fashion and as a result little fluid will accumulate in the tissues. In this respect, the tendency of a healthy person to gain weight through the salt in take is less noticeable than in those with kidney disease or high blood pressure.

SOFT SPOT CLOSURE

A reader writes: Is it serious if the soft spots in a baby's skull are slow to close?

REPLY

The fontanels in the skull usually close before the first birthday. When they remain open the child may have rickets, cretinism, or hydrocephalus.

WHITE PATCHES

V.M. writes: Are the white spots on the skin, which the doctor calls "vitiligo" permanent?

REPLY

Yes, because pigment has been lost in these areas. A clever cosmetician may be able to do more than a physician by recommending a suitable stain that matches the remainder of your skin. Methoxsalen also is of value because it increases the production of retention of pigment. A good summer sunscreen ointment also prevents the normal skin from tanning which in turn makes the white spots appear to be lighter.

RELAX

N. R. writes: Can you explain this? My blood pressure is 190 when the doctor takes it on reaching his office. But when he takes it again before I leave, it is 150.

REPLY

Excitement does strange things. Profit by this experience and try to be more relaxed in your daily living.

ECESSIVE CRUELTY

M. H. writes: What is sadism? I would like to know how it starts.

REPLY

The sadist obtains sexual pleasure by tortuing another person. The cause varies with the individual but usually stems from unpleasant childhood experiences.

PRESSURE AND WEIGHT

K. D. writes: Does low blood pressure cause overweight?

REPLY

No, there is no relationship between the two conditions. In contrast, high blood pressure often is associated with obesity; one is thought to aggravate the other.

KIDNEY DISEASE

Mrs. T. G. writes: Are the eyes affected in Bright's disease?

REPLY

In acute nephritis, dimness of vision may occur. In chronic nephritis the blood pressure is elevated. This in turn affects the blood vessels of the retino, resulting in visual disturbances.

SCAR TISSUE

A reader writes: Please explain the term adherences. What surgical procedure is used to correct this?

REPLY

I assume you mean adhesions. Surgery is used only when these bands of scar tissue cause kinking or obstruction of the bowel.

Today's Health Hint—

Adequate fluid intake perks up the system.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Leases, Checks Are Contracts

A lease is a contract. You are "leasing" a house when you rent it month to month even though you sign nothing.

You actually do contract for the place. For example, you agree to pay a certain amount of rent, and to keep the place in reasonably good condition. Your landlord, for his part, must see that no one tries to evict you under conflicting ownership claims. If he controls hallways, stairs, roof, basement, and the like, he has a legal duty to keep them safe.

Under your contract, the law also calls upon your landlord to repair normal breakage within your premises. Such duties may be changed by written contract. Otherwise, if a water pipe breaks in the wall, you may call on the landlord to repair it. If he fails, you may have it repaired yourself, and deduct your costs from next month's rent. The cost cannot exceed one month's rent.

Of course, any of these terms can be changed—and often are. So read and understand any agreement or letter from your landlord. Thus, in a written lease a tenant often "waives" or gives up his right to repair and charge the landlord. As a tenant you may agree to repair and pay for the pipes, paint, and all damage.

Your bank checks are also contracts. They contain a promise to pay. But checks give rise to few problems, if you have money in the bank.

You also have a contract with a bank itself. As a rule, you sign this contract when you open your account. Do you know what yours says? Chances are you don't. Wouldn't you like to know? And how about your various insurance policies—life, fire, and automobile? Do you know what they say? Nothing is stopping you from reading them.

Go ahead.

Sectional Look At San Rafael Plan Expected

The San Rafael General Plan, which was sent back to planning consultant Daniel P. Coleman for more study nearly 10 months ago, may be aired in sections rather than as a whole, Coleman predicted today.

He said the process actually began when the city planning commission took a look at a rough plan for the East San Rafael tidelands area Jan. 6.

Further hearings on this plan will resume next Tuesday.

Coleman said city aides had decided to examine the tidelands area by itself, with no assurance that other parts of the general plan would be treated separately. But he said he would urge them to follow such a pattern.

The plan was sent back to Coleman last March after councilmen ordered that its proposals for development of tideland areas be deleted. Coleman has since been working with city and county planning aides on revisions.

The consultant predicted the plan would have a better chance of approval this year if problems in each part of the city are worked out in separate hearings.

"We are not going to present something and say this is final," Coleman said. "We are going to present some alternatives in each case and try to get ideas from the public on what they would like."

If his suggestion is followed, Coleman said, the planning commission will not send any portion of the general plan to the council until it has completed the series of hearings. Councilmen could then hold hearings on the plan as a whole.

Coleman declined to predict how long the entire process might take.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Press Releases Are To Behold

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI — We read the newwork press releases:

From CBS-TV: "Bill Bixby of 'My Favorite Martian' lectures on show business to aspiring performers."

There's nothing like learning from the great ones.

From NBC-TV: "'I've always believed that one of man's greatest assets is having control of his own time,' said Bill Cullen. 'So I guess when people hear about my signing for two NBC shows, they will think I'm going against my own outlook on life.'"

No, as a matter of fact I didn't think about it at all.

From the same press release: "My biggest problem (said Cullen) is that people hear about the shows and then think, "Why doesn't he give other young, poor guys a chance?" No, as a matter of fact I didn't think about it at all.

From NBC-TV: "Correction, please. NBC International Enterprises, within a nine-day period, has sold more than 1,500 hours of programming to Latin American television stations. Among the programs sold is 'Richard Boone' (not 'Daniel Boone' as stated in story released Jan. 20)."

Yes, let's get that straight, please.

We read the private press releases too:

From James Drury, star of NBC-TV's "The Virginian": "Three years ago I was nominated for the Hollywood Women's Press Club's annual Sour Apple Award, but lost out to someone else. But, like whiskey, people, even actors, mellow with time. Just to prove it, I'm inviting you and your date to be my guest at a real western barbecue on the main street of Medicine Bow, Wyoming (locally called the back lot of Universal City Studios) . . . " I liked you better the old way.

Notes to watch television by:

Jackie Gleason's CBS-TV hour this Saturday is entitled "The Gridiron Follies," and is a musical-comedy recollection of the Jack Oakie-type films Hollywood turned out in the 1930s. . . With Arnold Stang featured as a scholar, Gleason portrays a football star who tries desperately to pass his college exams so he can be eligible for the big game.

Peter Falk, star of television's "Trials Of O'Brien" series and a pretty fair country pool player, will be a commentator of the CBS billiards classic on the network's "Sports Spectacular" show Feb. 13. . . Same day, Gen. Curtis Lemay, the former Air Force chief of staff, hunts grouse on the Scottish moors om ABC-TV's "The American Sportsman" series.

James Stewart headlines CBS-TV's Thursday night movie Feb. 24 in "Harvey," the famous one time Broadway comedy about a fellow whose friend and companion is an invisible six-foot-tall rabbit . . . The presidents of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers are interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" Sunday.

Divorce Case Fee: $500,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Beverly Hills attorney — Robert A. Neeb Jr.—has been awarded a $500,000 fee for his work on a noted divorce case.

Neeb represented the late Mrs. Ednah Capron, 74, and won a settlement in 1964 totaling $16 million from her 80-year-old husband, George H. Capron.

"I never knew there was so much money in the world," she testified after Neeb and his investigators discovered her husband had land holdings and assets worth $32 million.

Mrs. Capron had testified they live frugally and that she had no idea her husband was wealthy. She died last August.

Her estate, which goes to friends and relatives, was appraised at $16,546,131. Neeb, who was paid $100,000 before she died, was awarded the remaining $400,000 yesterday in probate court.

In 1650 A.D., the world's population was about 545 million.

Voters League Offers Booklet

The 1966 edition of "Voting Facts for Marin County" has just been published by the Leagues of Women Voters in Marin as a joint project.

The pocket-size pamphlet contains up-to-the-minute information on how, when and where to register throughout the county and special instructions for new residents. The new changes in application for medical-emergency and other absentee ballots are also explained.

An insert page lists dates for the April municipal, June primary and November general elections. A list of major offices to be filled in this elections is included.

Copies of the pamphlet will be available from league registrars during their registration drive Feb. 5 and 12. They may also be obtained from Mrs. Richard Ocheltree, 17 Mount Burney Court, San Rafael, Central Marin league service chairman, and Mrs. John Hartnett, 77 Homestead Boulevard, Mill Valley, Southern Marin service chairman.

Novato Bicycle Clinic Announced

The third annual bicycle safety inspection and licensing clinic sponsored by the Novato Moose Lodge and police department will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 12 at the Moose Hall at 855 Vallejo Avenue, Novato.

Members of the Moose Lodge will give each bicycle a complete safety inspection to assure that it is in good running order, said Joseph J. Suder, chairman. The lodge will issue illuminating bicycle safety decals.

Officer Albert Mendoza of the Novato police department will be on hand to issue licenses. More than 300 bicycles are expected.

Texas has 54 mountains more than 6,000 feet in altitude.

THE 1966 LEGISLATURE

Water, Air Pollution On State Agenda

By JERRY HARRELL
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's massive growth problems—pollution of the air and water and the need for rapid transit in urban areas—are due for action by the 1966 legislature.

There could be action, too, on a plan for a fulltime legislature to deal more effectively with those problems. That could mean the abbreviated budget session starting next week will be the last of its kind.

Tougher motor vehicle smog laws are being urged, and some lawmakers have proposed that the state move into the control air pollution from the control of air pollution from other sources.

A compromise proposal to halt pollution of scenic Lake Tahoe by exporting sewage from the lake basin also will be considered.

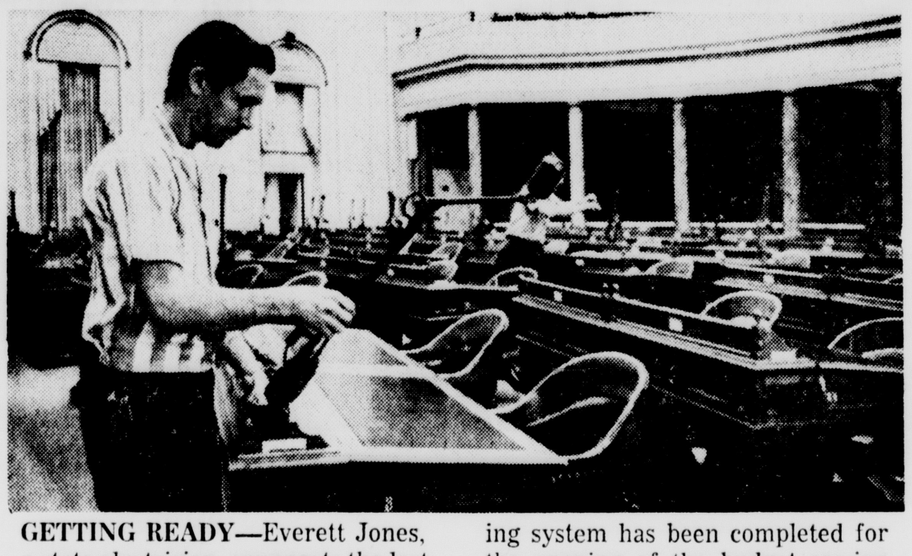
Brown, who controls the agenda, has said he'll submit smog, Tahoe pollution and rapid transit to the lawmakers for special session action. He hasn't committed himself on whether proposals to revamp the legislative operation will be considered this year, although he backs them.

The State Constitution now provides for six-month general sessions in odd-numbered years and 30-day budget sessions in even-numbered years limited to finances. But the governor is empowered to call special sessions to consider pressing matters. Such sessions, running concurrently with budget meetings, have become standard practice.

The State Constitutional Revision Commission has called the present system obsolete for a state of California's size and complexity.

It proposes a fulltime legislature—empowered to set its own pay — with annual general sessions patterned after Congress.

The governor has supported higher pay for legislators, whose salaries now are fixed by the Constitution at $6,000 a year—but has not said whether he will authorize action this year.



GETTING READY—Everett Jones, a state electrician, connnects the last of 80 microphones on the desks in the Assembly chamber at Sacramento. A complete check of the wiring system has been completed for the opening of the budget session which convenes Monday.

Any measure enacted would be subject to approval by the voters.

The State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board wants stricter laws on auto smog, including mandatory inspection of control devices every year to make sure the law is obeyed.

Another proposal would require both crankcase and exhaust devices to control emmissions on 1955 and later cars whenever and wherever they are sold. The requirement now is in effect in only 10 counties, and only crankcase devices are required.

The board also has a long-range program aimed at keeping state control of auto smog devices after a federal law requiring such equipment takes effect late next year. The board feels that state standards should prevail when they are higher.

And—a rarity in government circles — the board eventually wants itself abolished, to be replaced by a state agency at cabinet level that treats pure air as a resource to be conserved like water or wildlife.

There also may be proposals that the state take over control of fixed sources of smog such as factories and refineries. Local air pollution control districts now have jurisdiction over stationary smog sources.

After several years of negotiation and disputes, a group of legislators announced recently that they had came up with a plan to solve the pollution problem at Lake Tahoe.

The burgeoning population at the mountain lake, particularly on the casino and resort-studded south shore, has threatened severe pollution of the lake.

The lawmakers called for a $1.8 million grant to extend sewage export lines into the Diamond Valley region of Alpine County, coupled with authority for the South Tahoe Utility District to declare septic tanks a nuisance and require use of sewers.

Public health officials have warned that the Sierra lake—now one of the clearest waters in the world—could become fouled with algae if pollution is not stopped.

NEXT: Watts.

The governor also has said he's willing to submit rapid transit to the legislature if Los Angeles area leaders come up with a promising plan for a system. The Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee proposed a plan last week to pay for initial studies. The San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District also is seeking financial help which may be considered.

Mexico has 760,335 square miles.

Marinwood Foreman Hired For $475

Directors of the Marinwood Community Services District last night hired Ronald Paul Christiansen as a fireman at $475 to replace Ronald Perin, who resigned in December. District secretary Genevieve Bolding said that Christiansen was one of seven interviewed for the job.

Directors will meet again at 8 p.m. Feb. 10 at the community center to hear Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows explain a proposed county-wide bond issue for park acquisition and development.

HOOVER Canisters
only 29.95

Amazing Macy value! Hoover's sensationally-accepted canister vacuum cleaners (model #444) with full horsepower, telescopic wand, double-stretch hose and a complete one-year warranty by Hoover and Macy's. It's the home-cleaning scoop of the season with enough attachments to reduce your entire spring and year 'round housecleaning tasks to feather-light-housework. Hoover's popular canisters are so light they seem to float on air, have no hard-to-handle wheels and there's no bag-dumping drudgery, either, with Hoover's quickly replaceable, disposable bags (and Macy's has a special bonus offer on these, too). Bag Hoover's canister at Macy's today for the season's saving sensation.

MACY'S SAN RAFAEL, FOURTH AND COURT, 456-3333

BITE SIZE morsels that will go faster than candy are hors d' oeuvres made from raisin bread. Just roll up thin slices of ham and cheese in slightly flattened slices and tuck the cocktail franks in little blankets. Then bake in a brisk oven until crisply toasted.

Raisin Bread Tidbits Make Perfect Little Party Servers

If you're feeling a little jaded in the hors d'oeuvres line, buy a loaf of raisin bread and roll up your sleeves. First make up the cheese cups in tiny miuffin pans. Roll up thin slices of ham and cheese in slightly flattened slices and tuck the cocktail franks in little blankets. Bake them in a brisk oven until crisply toasted and pass them fast.

Please consider these for the young set, too. Whereas a big sandwich is often awesome, these bite-size morsels go faster than candy. You don't have to be fancy, though. Peanut butter, cream cheese, cold meats—almost anything you have around the kitchen goes nicely with raisin bread. It stays moist and fresh longer.

RAISIN BREAD PARTY CUPS

6 slices raisin bread
4 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup grated Gruyere cheese
⅓ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

Cut each raisin bread slice into quarters. Brush with butter and fit butter side down into 1¾-inch muffin pans. Brush tops with butter. Blend cheese, mayonnaise and green pepper; heap into raisin bread cups. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 15 minutes until filling is puffed and cups are toasted. Serve hot. Makes 2 dozen appetizers.

HOT HAM AND CHEESE RAISIN ROLL-UPS

6 slices raisin bread
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
6 thin slices boiled ham
6 thin slices process Swiss cheese
Melted butter

Flatten raisin bread slightly with rolling pin. Spread with mustard; top with ham and cheese. Roll up like jelly roll enclosing filling. Cut each roll crosswise into 3 pieces; skewer each with small pick. Brush with melted butter. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 8 minutes until toasted and brown. Remove picks and serve hot. Makes 1½ dozen roll ups.

RAISIN BREAD TRICORNS

24 cocktail frankfurters
6 slices raisin bread
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons pickle relish
Melted butter

Pour boiling water over frankfurters and let stand 2 or 3 minutes. Drain. Select large, evenly shaped slices of raisin bread; spread with mustard and drained pickle relish. Cut each slice into quarters. Wrap 1 piece around each frankfurter, holding in place with a pick. Brush generously with butter. Place on baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 8 minutes until toasted and browned. Serve hot. Makes 2 dozen appetizers.

Exotic Ways With Convenience Foods

If you've ever wished you could dress up canned foods to make them really gourmet fare, try these two recipes.

Morocco knows the influence of both French and Spanish kitchens—this is the cuisine which inspired the interesting "Moroccan Saute." Family and guests may not be aware, as they feast on this exotic dish midst exotic setting, that it was prepared in about 20 minutes thanks to the quick-cooking convenience of American foods.

Tomato sauce with its rich consistency and lively seasoning makes one happy family of the frozen and canned foods in this recipe. The minute steaks, sauteed in convenient oil, make the dish a hearty and staying one. Serve the "Saute" over rice or heated Chinese noodles.

"Jeweled Ham" can grace the most elegant table. A can of tomato sauce serves as both sauce and seasoner for the canned cherries, oranges and pineapple tidbits bringing the fruits into flavor harmony with the ham.

MOROCCAN SAUTE

4 frozen minute or cube steaks, sliced
2 Tbs. pure vegetable oil
Salt and pepper
1 (9-oz.) package frozen artichockes, partialy thawed
1 (4-oz.) can mushrooms, drained
1 (2¼-oz.) can sliced olives, drained
¼ cup sliced pimiento
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce

Brown slices of steak in oil; salt and pepper to taste. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes. Serve over cooked rice or crisp Chinese noodles. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

JEWELED HAM

1 (3-lb.) canned ham
1 (1-lb.) can dark sweet cherries, drained
1 (11-oz.) can mandarin oranges, drained
1 (8¾-oz.) can pineapple tidbits, drained
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce

Slice ham in half. Place one-half in a shallow baking dish and top with half the cherries, half the oranges, half the pineapple and half the tomato sauce. Cover with remaining slice of ham. Top with remaining fruits and tomato sauce. Bake at 350° F. for 20 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

MOROCCAN SAUTE is as exotic as it sounds but it's prepared with quick-cooking convenience foods—frozen artichokes, canned mushrooms, and tomato sauce added to strips of sauteed beef. Jeweled Ham is created with canned foods—ham, fruits and tomato sauce.

Filled Flowers

Roll the dough into rectangle. Spread your favorite jam or jelly over the surface of the dough. Roll the dough, starting at narrow end, sealing edges of dough by pinching it together. Cut rolls into 1 inch wide pieces. Place in greased muffin tin, cut side up. Cut into rolls with scissors. Make the cut ½ inch deep. Spread the petals. Bake according to recipe directions.

Added New Interest

Tossed salad takes on new interest when diced hard-cooked egg and crumbled crisply-cooked bacon are added along with the dressing.

Weight Control Class Series To Feature Casserole Dishes

Spring session of weight control class is announced for Thursday, Feb. 10, and will continue each Thursday evening for 12 weeks at Ross General Hospital.

Classes will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and will be conducted by Pamela Gilroy, registered dietitian.

Both men and women may register for instruction sessions and all are eligible upon physical referral, as a 1200-calorie base will be used.

Weight loss anticipated is 1½ pounds per week based on previous weight control class averages.

Class members will weigh in and chart progress throughout the 12-week course.

Instruction will focus on food preparation around the whole family meal pattern, selection of acceptable foods for varied menus and learning to adapt recipes for appetizing meals while holding to low calorie count.

In addition to class instruction, sessions will include films and tape recordings. Among scheduled speakers are a physician, physical therapist, psychiatrist and personal grooming expert.

Registrations for the course may be made with the Marin County Heart Assn., which is the sponsoring organization, or registrants may enroll during opening night of the course.

A special feature of the class will be low-calorie casseroles. Whether eaten outdoors or in, casseroles do have a place in the modern housewife's meal planning. That they can be low fat in content is evidenced in the following favorites of weight control classes:

SPANISH CHICKEN

1 3-lb. fryer, cut up
1 tablespoon salad oil
½ cup minced onions
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 minced clove garlic
1 2½ can tomatoes
½ cup white wine
½ teaspoon thyme
2 bay leaves

Oil bottom of heavy skillet, quickly brown chicken pieces. Remove to a casserole and salt and pepper to taste. In same skillet, lightly brown the onions, green pepper and garlic. Add to casserole with remaining ingredients. Bake covered in 325-degree oven until chicken is tender (about 1 hour). Makes 4 servings.

225 calories per serving

CURRIED SHRIMP IN ZUCCHINI

2 pounds zucchini
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 teaspoon curry powder
Salt, pepper, cayenne
2 tablespoon flour
¼ cup milk
2 lbs. cooked shrimps, fresh or canned
½ cup dry bread crumbs

Split zucchini lengthwise, cook in boiling salted water 5 minutes. Hollow out centers, chop it and drain shells. Heat oil, add onions, curry, salt, cayenne, flour, milk. Stir well. When thickened, add shrimps. Season to taste. Add chopped zucchini. Stuff shells and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake in 350-degree oven for 15 minutes. Serves 6.

160 calories per serving

VEAL PAPRIKIASH CASSEROLE

2 pounds boneless stewing veal cut in 1½-inch pieces
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 pound sliced mushrooms
flour
2 tablespoons paprika
1 cup sliced onions
3 beef bouillon cubes dissolved in 1½ cups water salt, pepper
½ cup plain yogurt
chopped parsley

Roll veal in seasoned flour, lightly brown. Add onions and mushrooms. Cook 15 minutes. Stir frequently. Add bouillon cubs and water, salt, pepper, paprika. Turn into 2½-quart casserole. Cover. Bake for 1½ to 2 hours in 350-degree oven. Just before serving add parsley and yogurt on top of casserole. Serve with boiled noodles. Serves 6.

415 calories per serving for casserole
55 calories per ½ cup noodles

Sandwich Combo

Bacon and tomato are old favorites for a sandwich, but the addition of liver sausage to this duet may be new to you. This sausage is very nutritious, goes well with the old favorites and when spread first on the buttered bread, it helps tomatoes and bacon stay together better.

Secret Service Men Tip Off Lady Bird's Salon Visits

By MARIAN PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Mrs. Johnson said to tell all of you that this is off the record: She is on the way to the beauty parlor," said the President to photographers outside the White House one day.

So far as it is possible, these trips remain off the record.

The First Lady's hairdresser, Jean Louis, "haute coiffure Francaise," discourages any questions about Mrs. Johnson or any special notice of her visits to the shop.

However, those who share the services of his salon with the First Lady cannot help observing. When she is there, a secret service man stands just inside the entrance. Another sits outside the door of her private room, a telephone at his elbow.

BECAUSE OF the proprietor's desire to allow Mrs. Johnson to retain her privacy, she seems almost to be treated with indifference. No one, beside the staff, appears to recognize her at all.

The opposite is true. Of course, other clients are immediately alerted to her presence by the appearance of the secret service. Swift glances are cast in her direction, taking in as full a picture as possible. Clients place themselves in the best position to see Mrs. Johnson when she comes out of her private room.

JEAN LOUIS ADMITS that he goes to the White House often to comb the First Lady's hair.

Jean Louis was a French boy who hated school. His parents operated a hotel in the resort town of Labaulle. At the age of 14, Jean Louis ran away to Paris where he learned to be a hairdresser.

"I HAD IN MY HEAD since I was very young to come to the United States," he says. His opportunity came in an ad in a Paris newspaper placed by Mr. Robert, Washington, D.C., hairdresser, asking for an assistant.

Then followed three years of working for Mr. Robert during which he dressed the hair of some of the top women of Washington society.

Subsequently he opened his own shop a few doors down Connecticut Avenue. He counted among his clients the young wife of Sen. John F. Kennedy and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy; Mme. Herve Alphand, wife of the then French ambassador; and wives of other members of the diplomatic corps.

TWO YEARS AGO, Jean Louis bought the business of Mr. Robert. And in the same location where he got his start in Washington, Jean Louis opened a most elegant salon which he decorated in French Provincial decor. The walls are of pale blue and white, and the furnishings are the same color trimmed with gold and silver.

Among the ornaments in his shop today, besides some beautiful antiques, are gold framed invitations to the inaugurations of President Kennedy and President Johnson, a full length picture of Mrs. Johnson in her inaugural ball gown, inscribed, "To Jean Louis, with much appreciation and best wishes, Lady Bird Johnson. January 1965."

MRS. JOHNSON AND DAUGHTER LUCI display the results of Jean Louis' hairdressing skills in these two views made the day President Johnson made his State of the Union address to Congress. (AP Wirephoto)

Xi Kappa Psi Will Bestow Rose Degree

Two members of Xi Kappa Psi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will receive the order of the rose, an honorary degree given to those who have belonged to the sorority for 15 years, on Sunday at the Holiday House in Hayward. Receiving the degree will be Mrs. Leo Benelli and Mrs. Wilbur Pearson of Novato.

Mrs. Benelli joined Beta Sigma Phi in Cleveland in 1950 and since then has been affiliated with the Eta Gamma chapter in San Bruno, the Xi Delta Psi chapter in San Bruno and is now president of the Xi Kappa Psi chapter in Novato.

Mrs. Pearson joined Beta Sigma Phi in Salem, Ore., as a member of Eta chapter in 1947. She has also been affiliated with the Xi Lamba in Salem, the Xi Alpha Psi in San Rafael and is currently the corresponding secretary of the Xi Kappa Psi chapter in Novato.

Party Sunday For Hundredth Birthday

An open house from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday will honor the 100th birthday of Grant Wills of San Rafael. Relatives and friends attending the affair hosted by Mrs. Gordon F. Fullerton of San Francisco, the celebrant's daughter, Mrs. G. H. Hinds and Mrs. Robert Nagel will be served cocktails, punch and a buffet.

A floral arrangement of gladiolus, delphinium, chrysanthemums and other seasonal flowers will be used in the table centerpiece and accented by tall green candles. A large rectangular birthday cake will be bordered in green and yellow with 100 appearing on each piece cut.

Former San Rafael residents attending the open house will be Mr. Wills' stepchildren, Al Nagel and Mrs. Fred Nettell of Sacramento and Robert Nagel of Sunnyvale. Also present will be his brothers, Aaron Wills, now visiting from Evansville, Ind., Donald Wills of Santa Barbara and a sister, Mrs. Letitia Bergowitz of Gilroy.

The centenarian's other children attending will be James Wills of Santa Cruz, Dr. Irving Wills of Santa Barbara and Henry Wills of Lucerne.

Designer Gres Drops Skirts To Mid-Knee

PARIS (UPI)—Skirts dropped to conservative mid-knee at the "comeback" show of veteran designer Alix Gres.

Buyers from Bergdorf Goodman, Bonwit Teller and other New York stores were in the front row to applaud street dresses which hovered at mid-knee or slightly above, a length that looks downright demure in comparison to the hemlines two to four inches above the knee shown by most other Paris fashion houses.

MME. GRES, who dresses royalty and wealthy women showed a collection that was judged one of the best in the current Paris shows.

Although she scorned bare knees, the designer followed the trend for bareness and the "nude look."

Gres' evening gowns had slits and cut-outs. A long, full navy blue chiffon evening gown showed bare skin through most of the bodice except for a couple of circles over the bustline.

COATS AND DAY suits were of Gres' usual reversible flat wools, worn with 1930-style hats. Jackets were collarless and short, shoulders natural and skirts slightly flared and simple without one accordion pleat in sight.

Gres showed more shifts with matching narrow, collarless coats and jackets than suits, following another big Paris trend. Almost everything was navy blue or ice-cream colors.

Sarah Jane Prater To Be July Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Basil E. Gordon of San Rafael are announcing the engagement of her daughter, Sarah Jane Prater, to John Robert Corcoran of Los Angeles.

The bride-elect was graduated from El Camino High School in Sacramento and is a senior at San Jose State College. She is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Richard Prater of San Rafael and John Prater of San Mateo are her brothers.

The future bridegroom, son of Mrs. Gordon Stegath of Los Angeles and the late Dr. Gordon Corcoran, was graduated from University High School in Los Angeles and is a senior at San Jose State. His fraternity is Theta Chi.

The wedding will be held on July 23 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

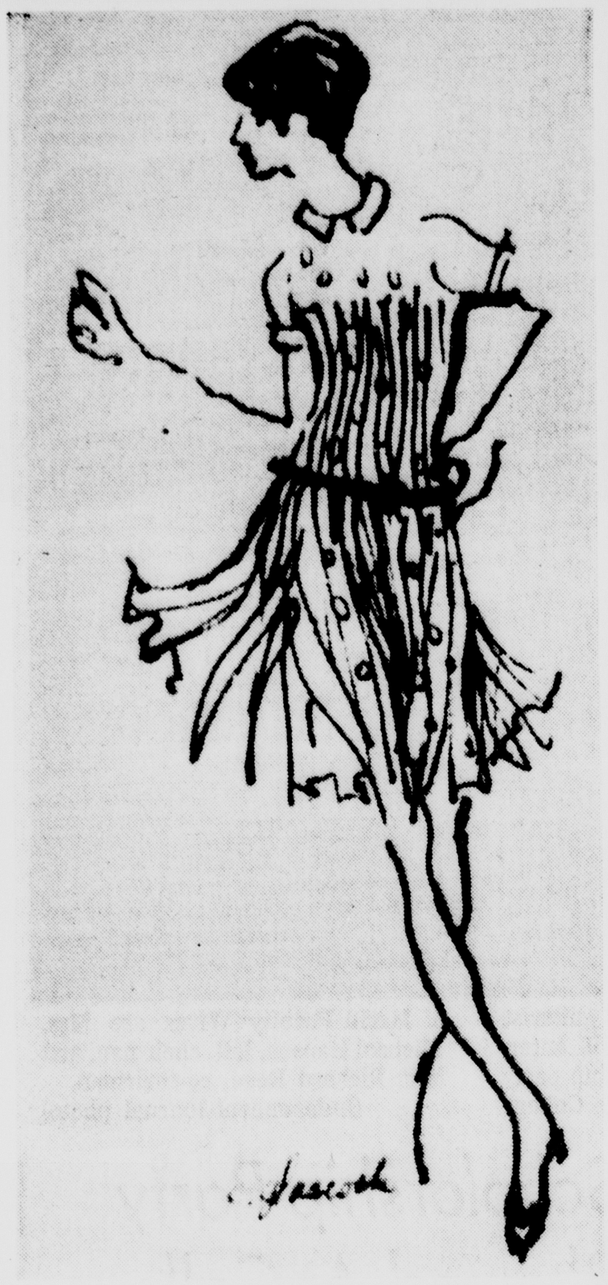
TO WED IN July at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael are Sarah Jane Prater of San Rafael and John Robert Corcoran. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil E. Gordon of San Rafael.

Overcrowding And Schools To Be Sleepy Hollow Topic

Tomorrow the Sleepy Hollow Parents Club will sponsor the second in a pair of programs to give information on current topics affecting parents in Marin. Virgil Hollis, county superintendent of schools, Robert Corlett, attorney and member of the San Anselmo school board, and Miss Anne McElfresh, teacher at Sleepy Hollow School, will discuss "The Costly Crowd"—how overcrowding and the growing population affect schools.

David Jackson, headmaster at Katharine Branson School and member of the board of Planned Parenthood Assn. of Marin, will be the moderator.

The public meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at Sleepy Hollow School.



LIKE A LADY

Capt. Edward Molyneaux, fought a battle for the return of the ladylike lady when he presented his spring collection in Paris Monday. This red and white strawberry-printed linen dress, pleated back and front from the yoke to hemline and loosely belted at the slightly dropped waistline is an example of his ammunition. Mrs. Dwyer Heads Belveron Guild

The talents in arts and crafts of the newly elected president of the Belveron Guild of Sunny Hills, Mrs. D. Douglas Dwyer, will certainly be reflected in the products of the guild's Serendipity Booth.

"We interpret serendipity to mean 'making something out of nothing,'" says Mrs. Dwyer. The members take relatively simple raw materials and with a bit of flair create interesting objects."

Working on decorated bowls, platters and candy dishes of plastic crystals, and the guild's favorite, hobby horses, they will add some new items including decorated soap and soap dishes made of sea shells, and Flemish flower bouquets.

Margie Dwyer, the wife of D. Douglas Dwyer, who owns the Mill Valley Auto Radiator Co., has been a member of the Belveron Guild for four years.

The guild plans to have a garage sale during the summer, a potluck dinner in October for members, and a Christmas party to which members and their families are invited.

The new president enjoys upholstering and refinishing antique furniture and is currently working on a 125 year old "sleepy hollow" chair. Other hobbies are oil painting, dressmaking and home decorating. She keeps up to date by taking adult classes in arts and crafts.

Margie Dwyer's favorite occupations are hunting for antiques, working with most forms of arts and crafts, and cooking.

Educated in her home state of Kansas, Mrs. Dwyer has lived in Marin for 10 years.

Other new officers are Miss Edna Salmen, vice president; Mrs. R. F. Ferguson, secretary; Mrs. B. J. Parker, treasurer; Mrs. Michael C. Brown, booth chairman; Mrs. Thomas D. Teichmann, decorations; Mrs. Ronald Rider, bargain box representative.

Teri Frohlich Will Marry Gary K. Smith In August

A family dinner party was the occasion for the announcement of the engagement of Teri Frohlich of San Rafael and Gary Keith Smith of Concord.

TERI FROHLICH

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Bari Frohlich of San Rafael and Irving Frohlich of Mountain View. She was graduated from San Rafael High School and is attending the University of California at Santa Barbara. Mrs. John Allen of San Rafael and the late Mr. Allen and the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frohlich of San Francisco are her grandparents.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Smith of Concord, was graduated from San Rafael Military Academy and College of Marin. He is attending Westminster College in Salt Lake City.

The wedding will be held in August.

SHARING CHEF'S SECRETS

Chef Jorge W. Kniegge conducted the first day of a new series of cooking classes held at 1:15 yesterday afternoon at the Ross home of Mrs. Robert C. Taylor. The Ross Guild of the Louise A. Boyd Museum is sponsoring the series which will run Feb. 8 and 15 and March 1, 8 and 15. Morning sessions will be held at 9:45 at the home of Mrs. Richard Treadwell in Ross. From left, Mesdames Richard McClenahan, general chairman, Robert Rorick and Taylor attended the afternoon session.

Pixie Parents President Enjoys Dancing, Camping

Maintenance and improvements of the pre-school playground, Pixie Place, located at Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, is the work of Pixie Parents, Inc., who have elected Mrs. Donald Olson of San Anselmo as their new president.

MRS. DONALD OLSON

Mary Jane Olson and her husband, a senior probation officer, are the parents of Laurel, 4 and Lisa, 3. They've lived in Marin more than 11 years, three of which Mary Jane has held membership in the organization.

Last year Mrs. Olson held the office of operations chairman. She is active in the San Anselmo Co-operative Nursery School. She also did social work at Sunny Hills for four years.

A University of Washington graduate in psychology, Mary Jane also holds a master's degree in social work.

Aside from rearing her children, the new president's interests include Balkan dancing, camping and sewing.

Projects planned for the coming year include the annual Easter Egg Hunt and Fair in March, an open house to be held in the spring, and a membership tea and parents party to be given in the fall.

'Insecure Person Is Unloved,' Advises Psychologist In Talk

By BETTY FROST

"People who cannot give of themselves, give things to children," said Dr. Aaron J. Ungersma, professor of pastoral psychology at the San Francisco Theological seminary, San Anselmo, when he addressed 80 women on the topic, "What Woman Are You—Parentally?" yesterday at the Westminister Presbyterian Church, Tiburon.

Advocating a middle course between the authoritarian European home and the "too permissive American Home", Dr. Ungersma spoke with warmth and humor at the church-sponsored lecture, which was the fifth in the current "What Woman Are You?" series.

"The quality of love received in childhood determines the capacity of an adult to give and receive love," said the psychologist. "An insecure person is unloved and unloving."

SPEAKING OF the case of a young patient in an institution for the mentally retarded, Dr. Ungersma said that the 16-year-old girl, who had lived in one foster home after another, showed an intelligence quotient of 50 upon entering the hospital. After a period of being treated with kindness and firmness, a later test scored her IQ at the level of 130. Her IQ had not changed, but her hostility had decreased and she was able to express her true intelligence. In extreme cases, "the patient will reject love. Love is a language which he has not yet learned to speak," the professor said.

"Love is a spectrum of many colors. It is more than affection and sentiment, but involves such elements as kindness, patience and respect," said the lecturer.

The need of an infant for love is infinite. The world to a baby is a confusion of light, color and sound. To balance the child's fears of the unknown, the love of emotionally adequate parents is important, he said.

If love is adequate in the first two years of life, it is a tremendous cornerstone for future development. An infant will develop trust or fear; an adolescent identity or confusion; a mature person, integrity or despair, Dr. Ungersma said.

SPEAKING OF the adolescent's quest for identity, the professor spoke of the authoritarian family life of Europeans, with the father the unquestioned head, and of the pioneer American family, where father and son joined in the struggle against the wilderness. The child knew his place in his family, and despite hostilities between the generations, he had a strong father to pattern himself after.

An extremely permissive home is actually frightening to a child, who really wants authority. If the father is absent from the home, too busy or evades attempts to communicate, the child may look to other adult figures for a model—a scout master, man teacher, minister or uncle. This Dr. Ungersma considers good.

"We live in an interdependent society," he said, "and nobody can really stand on his own feet."

THE ADOLESCENT also needs his "peers". A sticky family togetherness is not helpful for the young person, who needs both privacy and friends of his own age, he said. The oppressive loving influence of parents prohibits the adolescent from emerging into healthy maturity.

Parents need to be weaned away from their too protective attitudes. Youthful rebellion is inevitable and healthy. An adult parent can take such attacks without feeling threatened, and counter with an understanding reply, such as "we all feel that way at times," said Dr. Ungersma.

One Bay Area psychologist complained to Dr. Ungersma that his practice involved so many children from wealthy homes that he was sick of "Do-good auxiliary workers who had no time for their own children." Indulgence in gifts and behavior is no substitute for the kind of love which, through parental dependability and discipline brings emotional security, he said.

Noting that the scriptures are a source of great wisdom in human relations, Dr. Ungersma concluded that the quotation "train a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it," is still excellent advice.

Travel Hopes Dim For College Troupe

Plans to send 11 College of Marin students to perform at the Northwest drama conference at the University of Oregon Feb. 10 and 11 are foundering in a sea of financial worries, according to James Dunn, head of the college's drama department.

The cast of the drama department's production of "Servant of Two Masters" has been invited to perform the play at the conference. They must meet expenses for the trip, though, by drawing three capacity audiences to their benefit performance of the play in the college little theater tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., Dunn said.

Cost of the trip is $1,500. The college student body has donated $700; the rest must come from sale of tickets for the three performances, Dunn said. And advance sales are not meeting expectations.

Tickets will be sold by reservations through the fine arts division at the college or at the door on the night of performance, he said. The play is an 18th Century slapstick comedy. It played to capacity audiences during its regular five-day run in December.

Hollywood Writers Parcel Out Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Dr. Zhivago," film version of the Nobel Prize - winning Russian novel, has won five of the 14 Golden Globes awards presented annually by the Hollywood Foreign Press Assn.

Egyptian Omar Sharif, who played the title role, and English director David Lean, shared in the awards for the film Monday night at the Coconut Grove. The movie also was named best of 1965.

The 23rd annual awards were televised by NBC on the "Andy Williams Show."

Paul Newman and Natalie Wood were voted the world's favorite actor and actress.

John Wayne won the special Cecil B. DeMille award for his "outstanding contributions to the fields of entertainment."

"After 35 years in this business, I appreciate your presenting me this award half-way through my career," said Wayne in accepting.

"The Sound of Music" was declared best musical or comedy of the year.

Lee Marvin was selected "best actor" for his role as the bumbling desperado in "Cat Ballou," and Julie Andrews was named best actress in a musical for her role as "Baroness Von Trapp" in "The Sound of Music."

Broadway veteran Ruth Gordon, making her first film appearance in years, was named best supporting actress for "Inside Daisy Clover."

"Darling," the story of a grown up girl who gets ahead, was named best English language foreign film.

"Juliet of the Spirits," won the award for best foreign language foreign film.

David Janssen and Anne Francis were named top television stars.

"The Man from U.N.C.L.E." was cited as best television show.

Elizabeth Hartman and Robert Redford were named stars of tomorrow.

"Forget Domani," from "The Yellow Rolls Royce" won as best song.

"Dr. Zhivago" also won awards for its screen play by Robert Bolt, and its score.

Sausalito Sculptor To Conduct Classes

Sausalito artist and sculptor Art Grant will teach art classes at the San Francisco State College Downtown Center, 540 Powell Street, San Francisco, from 1 to 4 p.m., starting Feb. 9.

Meeting Wednesdays for 15 weeks, the course offers both classroom sessions and instruction at various Bay Area beaches, where carving sandstone cliffs, making wood assemblages and rock mosaics will be undertaken.

Marine Unit Offers Showing Of Films

A Defense Department film explaining the administration's position on Viet Nam will be previewed by the Marine Corps Reserve for invited program directors of Marin County civic, social and service organizations and high school social studies teachers.

The 32-minute film, "Why Viet Nam?," will be shown at 8 p.m. today at the Marin Corps Reserve Center in Santa Venetia. Also on the program is a 15-minute film, "The Full Blade," depicting Marine combat and civic action programs in Viet Nam.

Reading is fun.

Tam Musical Groups Due At Gathering

Twenty-one members of the Tamalpais High School choir and orchestra will participate in the annual Pacific Music Clinic Saturday at University of the Pacific, Stockton.

Representatives from schools all over California will be performing in the 1,200-voice choir, 500-piece band, and 300-piece orchestra.

Purpose of the clinic is to provide students with an opportunity to perform in large groups, with students from many areas, under direction of nationally known leaders and directors. The concert will be broadcast and recorded.

Members of the Tamalpais choir participating include Sally Luick, Lynn Jolley, Kathy Kersnar, Sue Maraccini, Louis Judson, Candy Morrow, Ann Meacham, Bonnie Hansen, Margie Stephenson, Ardith Anderson and Melissa Woultee.

Orchestra members include Gwen Brown, Curtis Baker, John Balmer, Bill Spaulding, Bill Hope, Lea Van Houten, Margaret Daly, Rae Powell and Dan Allis.

Square Dancers Set Benefit Activity

Members of the Marin County Square Dance Assn. will hold a benefit dance from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at Vallecito School, Terra Linda, to aid survivors of a Nov. 25 explosion and fire in a Keokuk, Iowa, National Guard armory.

The blast killed 21 persons and left dozens injured. Those with severe burns were sent to intensive care centers throughout the country. The Marin group, along with square dancing clubs in other parts of the nation, has helped raise more than $100,000 for a disaster fund.

Ross Painting Exhibtion Jury Panelists Announced

An exhibition of "Painting in All Media" will be held Feb. 6-27 at the Frances Young Gallery, Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Although strictly juried—with quality the only criterion—the show is open to all kinds of painting from "far out" and experimental to strictly representational, according to co-chairmen Betty Jo Norton and Maxine Fiaccadore.

Three awards of merit will be made by the jury composed of painters Janet Jones, Frank Milner, Margaret Smith, Robert Elsocht and Kenneth Potter, with Justine Carey as alternate.

Gallery hours are from 2 to 4 p.m. daily and from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursdays.

Artist Has Show

Elizabeth B. Stetson, member of the Marin Society of Artists and San Francisco Women Artists, is having a one-artist show throughout February at the Northgate Branch of the Bank of America in Terra Linda.

Catholic High School Hootenanny Dates Set

Students at Marin Catholic High School will present their annual hootenanny March 18 and 19 in the school gymnasium at 675 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

The program—ranging from Negro spirituals to folk music and rock and roll—is scheduled for two nights because of the response to last year's hootenanny. Starting time will be announced later.

A rat eats 40 pounds of food a year, according to the Department of the Interior.

Krips Due In Vienna After Marin Concert

Maestro Josef Krips' last concert before flying to Vienna to conduct performances there will be Saturday at the College of Marin.

Krips will lead the San Francisco Symphony in a program including Schumann's Symphony No. 1, Strauss' "Don Juan," and Beethoven's Symphony No. 7.

Snow Trip Slated

Members of the Pep Club at Novato High School will make a two-day trip to the snow at Soda Springs, Feb. 12 and 13, according to Karen Leech, club president.

Book Furor Was Handled With Frankness, Dispatch

Two things are noteworthy in the sequence of events which led to the removal of Jack Kerouac's "On The Road" from the recommended reading list for a special class at Terra Linda High School.

One is the refreshing frankness with which Mitchell L. Voydat, assistant superintendent of San Rafael schools, appraised the novel. The other is the dispatch with which Voydat and his committee submitted their report to the San Rafael Board of Education. Both are commendable.

The Voydat report was completed and submitted to the board while the issue was still hot. There was no stalling and no attempt to "study it to death" in the hope that the problem would go away.

Dr. Voydat's appraisal was straight and to the point. He found, in effect, that what literary merit the book has is not sufficient to counterbalance the objectionable qualities of many of the passages.

He found "an excessive preoccupation with sex" and "sensational" treatment of sex, and termed the book "generally offensive" to good taste. His conclusion: As literature for 16 and 17 year olds, the book fails.

All too often, educators seem to defend the decisions or recommendations of other educators, more out of loyalty to members of their profession, than on the merits of the issue at hand (a book, in this case).

Dr. Voydat did not say so in so many words. But we detect in his report the reasoning of an educator who can see the practical side of this particular controversy; to wit:

Why spend time and energy and, at the expense of frayed nerves, defend a book which has been criticized by many parents and which admittedly has little literary value when countless other volumes of equal or higher merit are available to students. So let's wind up this bickering and get on with the main job — basic education of youngsters.

And if that basic education were to suffer from the removal of that one volume, then we would undoubtedly find educators like Dr. Voydat fighting for its retention.

It is a rarity for an educator to take a public position in a controversy which tends to admit to a questionable choice of reading matter by another educator. As such, Dr. Voydat's comments were most refreshing.

Teachers, like members of other professions, should be able to accept, at least tolerate, criticism from the public and from each other. If all professions were to rigidly reject any and all criticisms, there would be little advancement or improvement.

The San Rafael Board of Education has set a future date, at which time the Voydat report will be on the agenda "officially." A fitting climax to this episode would be for the board of education to give Dr. Voydat a firm vote of confidence by heartily approving his report and recommendation.

Forget-Me-Nots

What a sentimental name these tiny blue flowers are endowed with! As small as one's little fingernail, they express one of mankind's deepest longings. Who does not wish to be remembered with a kind word or a pleasant thought?

By the same token, who, having seen a flower bed liberally sprinkled with Forget-Me-Nots, could forget these dainty blossoms? Sky blue? Sea blue? Blue blue? No. Just plain Forget-Me-Not blue.

These uniquely blue flowers with the contrasting yellow centers are just starting to bloom in Marin County. They are self propagating and volunteer year after year here.

Plans For Added Paper Work By Taxpayer Cut By Cranston

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — Some of the enthusiasm shown by state civil service employees for the creation of more paper work for government, with resultant impositions on business, was nipped in the bud recently by Alan Cranston, state controller.

Cranston found that the staff of the franchise board had advised individual businessmen on the 1965 state income tax forms, that statements of net worth were necessary for persons showing more than $50,000 annual income. These were to be filed with the tax returns due by April 15.

CRANSTON SAID the requirement, imposed on individuals for the first time, would be "a troublesome and expensive burden on persons who do not use rather sophisticated accounting methods."

The controller conferred with George Reilly and Hale Champion, the other two members of the franchise tax board, and agreement was reached to cancel the requirements for the net worth information on the 1965 income tax forms.

"The questions appeared on the tax forms for the first time this year as a result of a staff decision," Cranston said, "without having been submitted to the Franchise Tax Board for approval."

Cranston pointed out that partnerships and corporations have long been, and still are, required to furnish balance sheet information with their income tax reports. However, he said that requiring individuals to furnish such information would need more study.

"IF THE PROPOSAL arises again in the future," he said, "the public will of course be given ample opportunity to be heard.

"Some taxpayers have been alarmed that such a requirement might constitute an invasion of privacy."

Cranston said he wants to make certain that the board is fully apprised of changes in the future, and that it be advised of all major new steps before they are taken.

ALTHOUGH BOTH state and federal income tax returns are supposed to be private business, and in fact, disclosure of returns is prohibited by law, practices are much different and no privacy at all exists between the individual, the state and the federal governments.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has open access to state returns, and the state can and does secure information on federal returns. As a result, if a taxpayer is caught by one of the collection agencies and forced to pay an additional tax, it's not long before the other agency is on his back for more money.

Thus the much touted "privacy" of tax returns constitutes nothing more than a joke, and the joke is on the taxpayer.

This happens to be the time of year when people are more conscious of the paper requirements of government and resent these requirements for the most part. Cranston should be congratulated for saving some individuals a great deal of useless work.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Deletions Cited In Letter

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Deletions were made in my letter printed in yesterday's "Independent - Journal" (Jan. 27) which gave to the reader the impression that I had written, "There are . . . numerous 'No Dumping' signs" . . . on the county road leading to the Nike missile base.

I remember no such signs, and had simply cited the fact that signs in another area had had no effect.

I realize the need for deleting portions of a long letter for the purpose of publication, and I thank you for printing it. However, I had not intended it as a "Letter-to-the-Editor" at all, but rather, was attempting to call your paper's attention to a public matter needing its attention and coverage.

Theater Needed In County

Editor, Independent-Journal:

For the past 24 years, Junior Theater of Marin has brought professional theater to the children of this county. On Jan. 8, we opened our winter series with a sell-out performance of Lesselli Marionettes' production of "Hansel and Gretel."

Since San Rafael High School auditorium was not available this year, and this county does not have a suitable theater for our series, we are presenting our program in a new location, through the courtesy of Marin Country Day School.

Perhaps the people turned away at the door will recognize the need for a theater to be built in this county that will not only offer our children the opportunity to appreciate good theater, but a facility in which they may participate as they grow older.

Surely, other cultural groups must share our concern. We are anxiously awaiting the construction of the auditorium at the Civic Center in 1969 (?), and yet we might ask ourselves if this will be sufficient to meet our various needs.

Following our policy, season tickets will still be sold at the Feb. 5 production of "Aladdin" and holders will continue to be seated first. Individual tickets, when available, will be sold at the door.

Watch Out For Turned Worm

Editor, Independent-Journal:

So many people seem to assume that the only individuals voicing disapproval of some of the books used in the high schools are "fearful parents," anxious about the undermining of students' morals. 'Taint necessarily so! The enemies of God, including Lucifer, have been battling Him since He first conceived creatures, and He hasn't gone out of style, yet.

Many taxpayers in this district do not have children in these schools, some never have had, and some never will. This does not deprive them of their right to protest being forced, through taxation, to purchase what they consider pornography, and directly, to cause it to be distributed to minors . . .

There is no doubt that the great majority of our teachers are dedicated, indispensable members of the community, too often not sufficiently appreciated, or compensated, by those of us who would not, even if we could, tackle their job for all the tea in China. But to suppose that every teacher, everywhere, justifies the trust placed in him would be naive.

Many references have been made to "fear" . . . "fearful parents." If the truth were known, they often speak out in spite of, not because of, fear—fear of harrassment, fear of ridicule, fear of the classic "smear," (sometimes freely provided by an obliging writer), fear of having their reasonable, not Puritanical, or extreme, protests labeled as the product of lecherous minds.

Someone also mentioned an atmosphere of fear in the classroom. If the fear is there, it isn't generated by parents, and it isn't directed at teachers, and it isn't something that should be counted on too much for too long. It has been said that "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," but I wonder if a really exhaustive study has been made of the potential in a "turned worm."

Treason Meaning Needs Defining

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Mrs. Weymouth's suggestion (Jan. 24) for an essay contest on "What Is Treason" should be given serious consideration.

Definite guidelines should be established as to what constitues "aid and comfort" to enemies in a "cold" or "hot" war, declared or undeclared.

I say any American who donates his blood to an enemy who is at the moment killing his fellow Americans is a traitor and should be convicted as such. Our government obviously does not agree.

The question comes to mind as to just how many officials of the United States government had their fingers crossed when they had to take the following oath of office: "I do solemnly swear or affirm that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to same; that I take the obligation freely without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter, so help me God."

How can any thinking person doubt that decisions are being made every day by the policy makers in our government that are anything but in the best interest of our country? They accommodate Communists at home and collaborate with them on our foreign policy. Through trade we bolster our enemies' economy, and they arm themselves with our foreign aid.

Meanwhile, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency of our government carries forward its incredible program for total (and, if needs be, unilateral) disarmament while a Russian-armed Cuba lies 90 miles off our shores!

We are sorely in need of guidelines for treason.

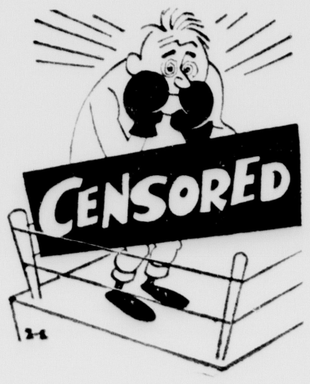
TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

ALLAN SHERMAN recalls in his salty autobiography, "A Gift of Laughter," that within a month after his TV production, "I've Got a Secret" went on the air, he was receiving over four thousand letters a week from would-be participants. A St. Louis gent wrote, "My freckles are green." An Air Force sergeant confided, "I parachuted into a nudist colony." There were people with hearts on the right side, livers on the left, and one benighted soul who swore he had four kidneys. And a professional boxer mailed in a news clipping to prove that one night he had walked into the ring, removed his bathrobe, and discovered, along with the audience, that he was stark naked underneath.



"DARLING," wailed a husband over the phone, "the boss is making me work late again tonight, so don't wait up for me." Back came Friend Wife's gentle voice, "Get out of that bar at once, you big bum, and come home. This is a recording."

Lindsay, Who Eschewed Party In Race, Shows GOP Interest

WASHINGTON—Two significant facts concerning the future of Mayor John Lindsay of New York are coming into focus:

1. He is showing himself actively concerned with what the Republican Party should be and do.

2. Republican leaders are convinced that he can and will play a positive role in the national affairs—and decisions—of the GOP.

Lindsay assigned his closest aide and chief polilitical adviser, Deputy Mayor Robert Price, to take part in the Republican conference in Washington last week on how the GOP can get back into business in the big cities.

Lindsay himself has decided that he is going to speak out on national affairs as a Republican.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS, except the most conservative, are delighted at these developments.

At the off-the-record session of the GOP big-city meeting here, where he was scheduled to appear for only a half-hour, Price held forth for nearly two hours at the insistence of his audience. He discussed at length how Lindsay won in a city 3-to-1 Democratic and how the Republicans can do the same elsewhere.

There was no visible hostility to the mayor's political representative because Lindsay shunned his party label in the New York campaign. In fact, Price made it adequately clear that Lindsay's experience shows that the GOP can break into the Democratic city strongholds only by playing down sharp partisanship and exhibiting a modern awareness of what the big cities require to free themselves from incompetence and neglect.

ANOTHER FACT which emerges from Lindsay's experience is that Republicans can make effective headway in the cities only when they win back a substantial portion of the Negro voters. Lindsay did it in New York by getting 40 per cent of the Negro vote. President Eisenhower won 39 per cent of the Negro vote in 1956; Richard Nixon, 21 per cent in 1960; Goldwater, only 6 per cent in 1964.

Price's appearance at the conference in Washington was gratifying to Republican national chairman Ray Bliss, not only because Price was saying persuasively many of the things Bliss himself believes, but because it marked the first open evidence of a partisan loyalty on the part of the Lindsay administration.

Republican leaders are also pleased by both the toughness and wisdom with which Lindsay handled the harassing transit strike in New York. To the extent that national politics entered the picture, by President Johnson's unwillingness to criticize the strike while it was in progress and eagerness to criticize the settlement after it was reached, they feel that Lindsay came off very well.

NONE OF THIS suggests that Lindsay is going to depart from his intention to conduct himself as a non-partisan mayor. He isn't.

And there is no sign he is going to make a move toward seeking any office other than the one he has. He was elected for four years—which goes to 1969—and few expect him to consider either a presidential or a vice-presidential bid in 1968.

But it is significant that Lindsay is not going to take a non-partisan attitude toward Republican party affairs. He is going to be a voice and a force in the party of considerable weight. He is going to speak out—and stand out—as a Republican.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Investigation Ends Without A Hearing

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—That much-touted House Labor Committee investigation of the $1.5 billion anti-poverty program is being "concluded"—without holding a single hearing or doing anything else of any apparent import.

Orders to drop the probe have been quietly issued by Rep. Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., committee chairman, who launched it last fall with the loudly-avowed intent of continuing through March and possibly longer. For that purpose, he wangled $230,000.

Powell's unannounced ditching edict directs the large staff of investigators to wind up their work forthwith and to submit final reports. That's a joke to Rep. William Ayres, Ohio, senior Republican on the committee.

"THERE IS NOTHING to report," he contends. "The investigation hasn't dug into anything nor uncovered anything. The staff investigators went to a number of cities, but all they brought back were clippings from local newspapers. The committee has quite a file of these, but no solid investigation reports."

According to committee insiders, less than $20,000 remains of the $230,000 voted for the investigation. Where and how the rest was spent awaits accounting.

THE HOUSE Judiciary Committee has decided to take a searching look at the cultural exchange agreement between the U.S. and Russia.

Behind this unannounced decision is word that Sol Hurok, prominent New York ballet and concert impresario, is strenuously pressuring the State Department for special permission to allow the Bolshoi Ballet to tour the U.S. in the spring.

Hurok has a contract for the tour—which would net him and the Soviet a lot of dollars.

The cultural exchange agreement between the U.S. and Russia expired Dec. 31. The Kremlin is dragging its feet on renewal because of Viet Nam, and the U.S. is demanding more latitude and control over artists and productions selected to go to Russia.

LAST YEAR the Soviet refused to accept the widely acclaimed musical comedy "Hello, Dolly" and a number of jazz musicians.

In pressuring the State Department, Hurok is arguing that ballet lovers should not be made to suffer because of the strains and stresses of foreign policy.

The Soviet intimates special permission should also be granted for a countrywide swing by the famed Moscow Circus. Both tours undoubtedly would net the Kremlin several or more million dollars.

THE JOHNSON administration's year-long loudly ballyhooed campaign to curb U.S. investments abroad to reduce the balance-of-payments deficit is taking a paradoxical turn.

With official approval, a Canadian "Business Opportunity Mission" is touring the U.S. soliciting businessmen to invest in Canada.

As inducements they are being offered "labor-wage levels 25-30 per cent lower than in the U.S., entrance into British Commonwealth markets with preferential tariffs, seven and one-half per cent premium on the American dollar, a stable economy."

Members of this mission are five top Ontario government officials. How and why they are being allowed to conduct this dollar-wooing drive is conjectural.

When Rains Come To Belvedere, Newell Family Moves Upstairs

"When the rains come, we start moving things upstairs."

This was Mrs. John H. Newell of 35 Cove Road, Belvedere, speaking about her home, which has been flooded three times since moving to Belvedere six years ago.

When the Newells moved to Belvedere from Los Angeles, they thought they had found a pleasant new home: Nice community, good neighbors and a substantial house.

Then the rains of February, 1961, came.

"We suddenly found we had five inches of water in the living room, the utility room, one of the bedrooms and the outside storage room.

"WE FELT SUNK but passed it off as one of those 'unusual years.' When it happened again in January of 1963, reality began to sink in: We were stuck and wanted some action.

"We began to work for the establishment of a flood control district for the area but after several months of effort the whole thing 'went down the drain.' As Tiburon Mayor Gordon Strawbridge said at the last council meeting, 'It's a shame people somehow stop thinking about flooding when July rolls around'."

The Newells have two children, Kyle, 5, and Jason, 3. Newell is an advertising man in San Francisco.

"WE HAD TO EVACUATE Jason from his room during the recent flooding," Mrs. Newell said. "He either sleeps upstairs with Kyle or with us when the water is on the floor.

"The house? We'd like to move out, but feel it has become a problem of ethics. We couldn't, with good conscience, sell this house and risk putting someone else through the troubles we've experienced.

"When the house flooded again on Jan. 6, we felt trapped. We can't sell the house and the situation is worsening. This time the water put out the pilot light in the furnace and we had to leave the house for two days because the gas and electricity had been turned off."

BUT THERE is some slight hope.

On Jan. 24 the Tiburon City Council instructed City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to meet with Belvedere City Mgr. William L. Cavalli and George Bitter of the Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Assn. to discuss the Cove Road flooding problem.

They met informally on Jan. 27 and agreed that all parties were responsible in part for solving the problem. The matter has been placed on the Feb. 7 agenda of the Belvedere City Council.

"This year is lost," said Rose, "but perhaps if we really get working on it, some solutions can be found before the next rainy season."

YOU CAN BE SURE the Newells will be in the audience when the Belvedere City Council next meets.

Let's hope for the Newells and others on Cove Road that we have a dry spell until then —and after.

ART BUCHWALD

It Was Just A Friendly, Little Non-Political Banquet In Boston

BOSTON—The one thing I have discovered about Boston is that people here have no interest in politics whatsoever. They are much more interested in social events, and almost every week they will throw a testimonel dinner for a Massachusetts personality to honor him for all the non-political things he has done.

FOR EXAMPLE, the friends of Kenneth O'Donnell gave a dinner in his honor and 1,400 of his dearest intimates, from every precinct in the state, came to Boston to do him homage and to say what a wonderful guy he is.

Seated on the dais with O'Donnell, who was the late President Kennedy's closest aide, were such non-political personalities as Sen. Mike Mansfield, former Gov. Mike DiSalle of Ohio, Speaker of the California Assembly Jesse Unruh, Sen. Robert Kennedy, Sen. Teddy Kennedy, and Joseph D. Keenan, international secretary of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

WHILE CITIZENS all over the state were discussing who would be the Democratic nominee for governor, not one person at the dinner mentioned a word about it.

"We honor a guy here in Boston for himself," a friend of Kenny O'Donnell's said to me, "and I don't think one person would have shown up tonight if he thought this dinner was politically motivated."

"You don't see dinners like this anymore," I said, "where people just come out for fun."

"Kenny wanted it that way. He doesn't get to see his friends much anymore and he felt this would be a good way to get together."

AFTER DESSERT each speaker got up to give a non-political tribute to O'Donnell. Senators Robert Kennedy, Teddy Kennedy, and Mike Mansfield told how close Kenny had been to President Kennedy. Jesse Unruh told how close O'Donnell had been to California, Jack Conway of the AFL-CIO told how close O'Donnell had been to labor, former Gov. DiSalle told how close Kenny had been to Ohio, and Gov. John King of New Hampshire told how close Massachusetts was to New Hampshire.

EACH SPEAKER pointed out that Kenneth O'Donnell was a great administrator, a man who could get things done, a man in the tradition of other great Massachusetts leaders, and a man who would fight for the things he believed in.

Then, since it was a non-political dinner, the speakers all ended by saying they didn't know what O'Donnell had planned for the future, but they would be willing to support him in anything he wanted to do.

O'DONNELL GOT UP and made his non-political reply to the speeches. As a private citizen he said he was worried about the state of Massachusetts which had been drifting for so many years. He felt that more things had to be done on a state rather than a Federal level.

He spelled out his non-political philosophy about education, urban renewal, the war on poverty, air and water pollution, and honesty in government. He called for new aggressive leadership wherever Massachusetts could find it.

"You know," I said to the friend of Kenny O'Donnell's who was studying a map of the districts in the state, "Kenny ought to run for governor."

The friend looked at me horrified. "Perish the thought."

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION

Under the provisions of the Act of September 13, 1962 (76 Stat. 538; 16 U.S.C. 459c), Land-Air Research, Inc., 2412 Wilshire Boulevard, Santa Monica, California 90403, filed application Riverside 06713 on May 10, 1965 to select the following described lands: $SE\frac{1}{4}SW\frac{1}{4}$, $E\frac{1}{2}SE\frac{1}{4}$, $SW\frac{1}{4}SE\frac{1}{4}$, section 32, T. 12 N., R. 10 W., SBM., California, containing 160 acres, in exchange for the following described offered lands:

That certain real property situate in the County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

A—PARCEL ONE:

LOT 44, as shown on the map entitled, "Map of Drakes Beach Estates, Subd. No. One", filed for record November 1, 1960 in Book 10 of Maps at page 86, Marin County Records.

EXCEPTING THEREFROM the interest in and to any water rights, water service rights and the water system as conveyed to the Inverness Water Company, by Quit Claim Deed recorded February 28, 1962 in Liber 1545 of Official Records at page 519.

PARCEL TWO:

An easement for roadway and utility purposes, 60 feet in width, over that certain parcel of land as described in the Quit Claim Deed to Drakes Beach Estates, Inc., a corporation, recorded on December 30, 1960 in Volume 1425 of Official Records at page 268, Marin County Records.

B—PARCEL ONE:

BEGINNING on the Northwesterly line of the parcel of land described in the deed from California Pacific Title Company, Marin Division, to H. A. Collins, et al, recorded February 6, 1959, under Recorder's Serial Number 3224, Marin County Records, distant thereon South 32° 22' West, 181.5 feet from the most Northerly corner thereof; thence from said point of beginning South 32° 22' West, along said Northwesterly line, 181.5 feet; thence South 78° 13' 30" East, 120 feet to the Southeasterly line of said Collins parcel; thence North 32° 22' East along said Southeasterly line 181.5 feet to a point which bears South 78° 13' 30" East from the point of beginning; thence North 78° 13' 30" West, 120 feet to the point of beginning.

Bennett Blisters Delay In Reopening Rail Tunnel

California Public Utilities Commissioner William M. Bennett blistered "deliberate delaying tactics" of Northwestern Pacific Railroad in an opinion concurring with the PUC's order yesterday that the road reopen the Puerto Suello Tunnel in San Rafael by June 30.

Wrote Bennett:

"This applicant persists in a philosophy of ignoring its public responsibilities and takes no cognizance of the fact that it is endowed with fixed legal obligations towards the public. The entire north coastal area of California has long been denied proper rail service simply because this common carrier disregards its historic public utility obligation.

"It is to be hoped, although not expected, that this admonition and deliberately strong criticism of the instant carrier would have the effect of reminding it of its special place in our economy conferred by the public of the State of California and that this carrier might give heed to its public responsibilities . . .

"Northwestern Pacific should get on with it and allocate some of its surplus funds to employing such engineering resources and personnel as is required to open the Puerto Suello Tunnel and as promptly as possible."

The PUC yesterday reinstated its order of September, 1964, giving the railroad 150 days to reopen the tunnel, which has been closed — thereby cutting mail service ot San Rafael — since a fire on July 22, 1961. It made yesterday the effective date of the order.

The previous order had been challenged by the railroad with a claim the PUC lacked jurisdiction. The U.S. Supreme Court threw out the challenge. However, Northwestern Pacific has another appeal winding through the federal courts, seeking to abandon either the San Rafael or Tiburon portion of its main line.

Casady Critical Of New Bombing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A telegram criticizing the decision to resume bombing in North Viet Nam has been sent to President Johnson by Simon Casady, the controversial president of the California Democratic Council.

Casady revealed contents of his telegram last night at a reception here for Julian Bond, the young Negro civil rights worker who was refused his seat in the Georgia legislature after his loyalty was challenged because he endorsed a protest of U.S. policy in Viet Nam and urged men to seek alternatives to the draft.

The reception was jointly sponsored by Casady's group and the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

Youth Found Guilty Of Stealing Truck

A Marin Superior Court jury yesterday found Fred Richard Jones, 18, guilty of theft of a pickup truck. Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled sentencing Feb. 23.

Jones, of 251 Drake Avenue, Marin City, stole a vehicle owned by John Friend, 25 Rocklyn Court, Corte Madera, last Sept. 1. He was arrested in San Francisco.

VIET NAM'S LITTLE SOLDIER

Though only 12, Rmah Del is a seasoned veteran of the South Vietnamese Army and member of the elite "Red Cap" platoon of tough Montagnard mountain fighters at the embattled outpost of Plei Me in South Viet Nam.

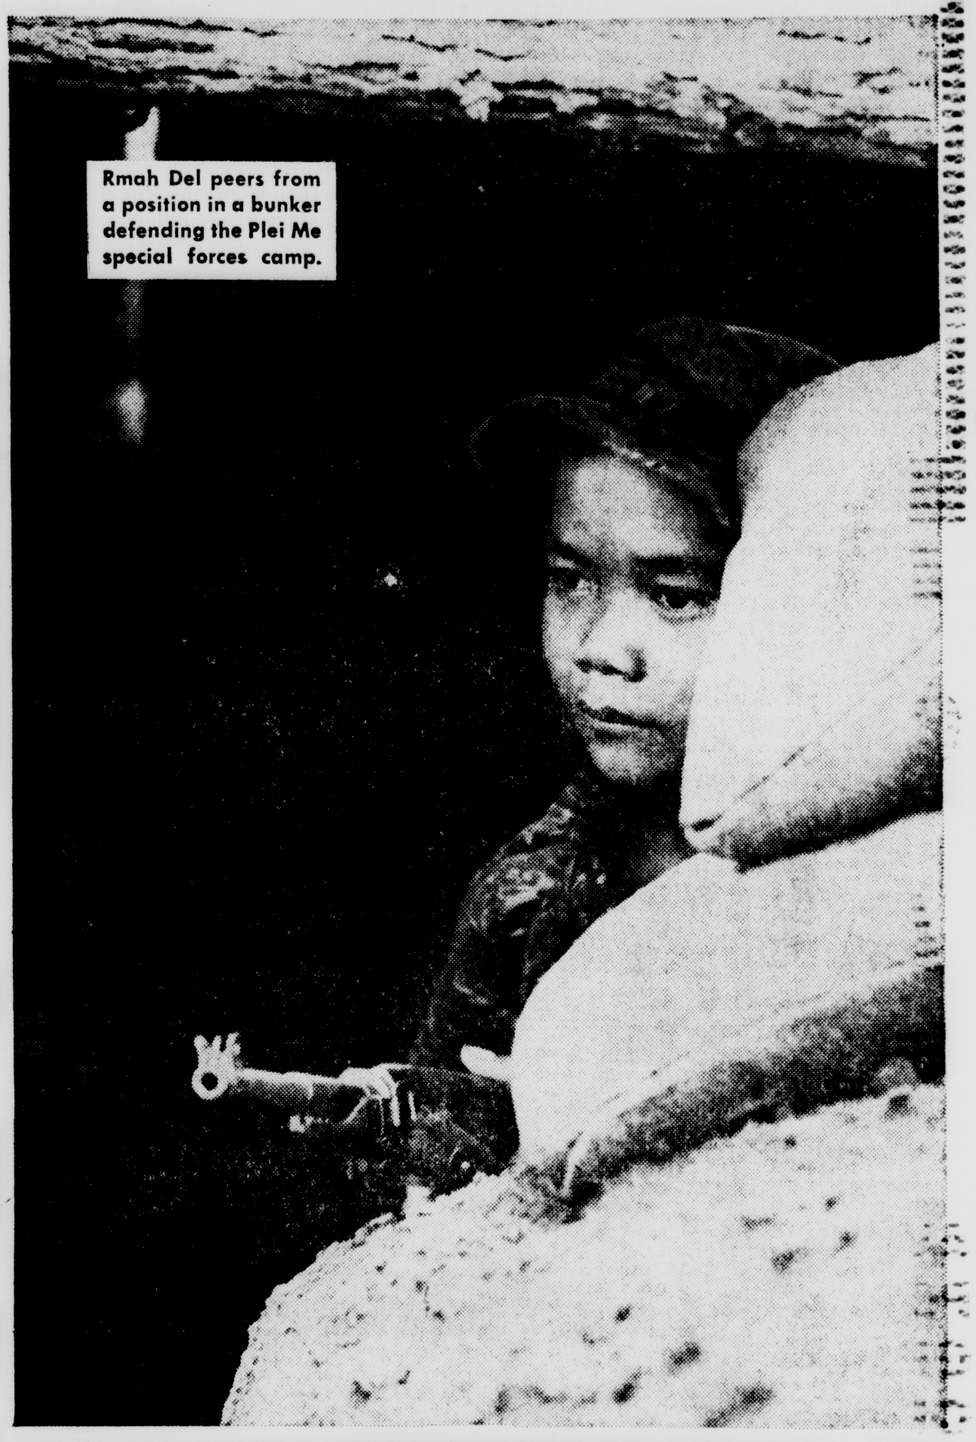
He can use a machine gun or automatic rifle as expertly as the carbine he always carries. He's already killed at least one enemy soldier, perhaps more, during recent sieges of the special forces camp by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regular troops.

Like his father, who is in the same heavy weapons platoon, Rmah Del is a regular Army private, one of the youngest in the South Vietnamese army. As such he's paid $20 a month.

The young Montagnard tribesman, who weighs only 60 pounds and stands four feet five inches tall, says he likes being a soldier. Asked why he became a soldier he answered that the Viet Cong kept coming to his village and "killed many people for no reason at all. They kept me from going to school and working." Upset by it all, he enlisted.

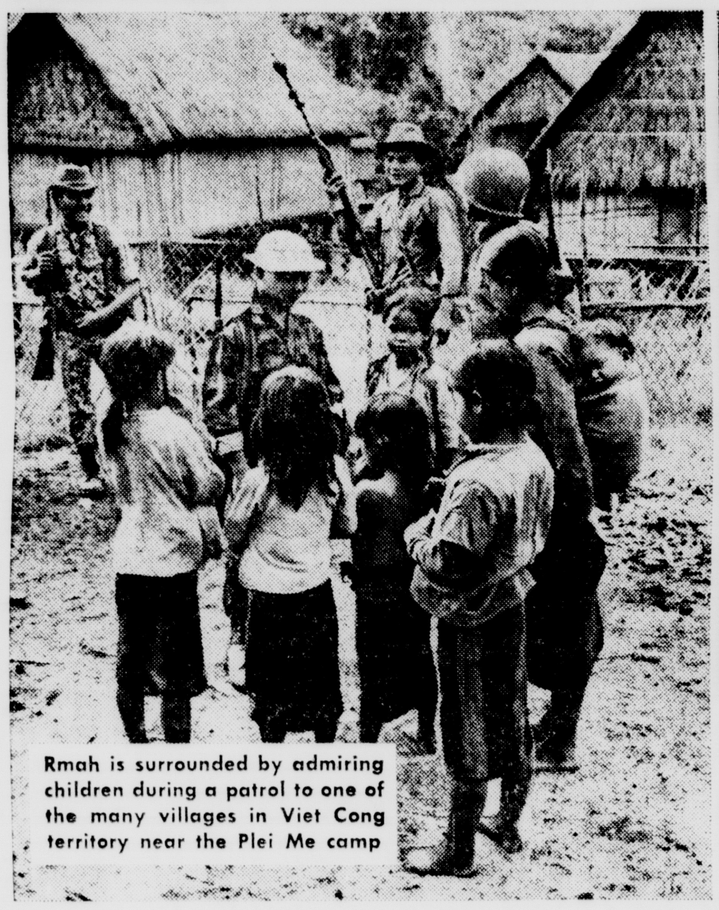
Rmah is a good soldier too, according to his fellow platoon mates. He goes on patrols, pulls guard duty and has fought side by side with men twice his age. During one recent siege he went for days with only a few hours sleep.

But when there is a lull in the fighting, Rmah reverts to boyhood again to fly a kite or play with his dog.

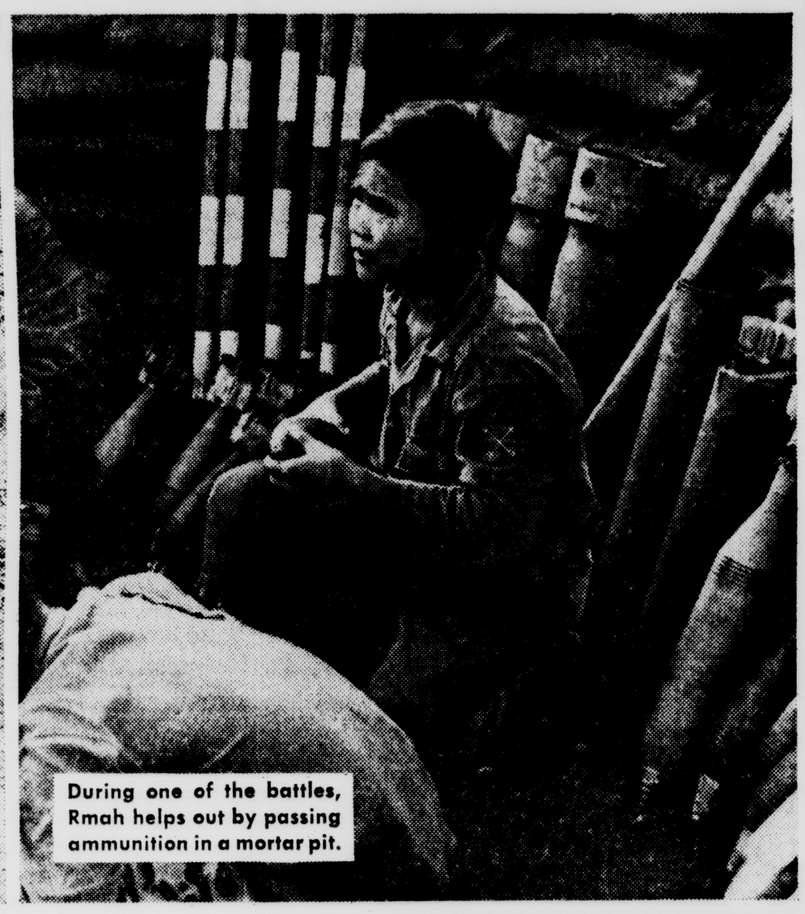


Rmah Del peers from a position in a bunker defending the Plei Me special forces camp.

A sandbagged trench leads to the tip of a triangular-shaped defense position where Rmah Del sits on guard.



Rmah is surrounded by admiring children during a patrol to one of the many villages in Viet Cong territory near the Plei Me camp



During one of the battles, Rmah helps out by passing ammunition in a mortar pit.

With his father, left, Rmah visits his mother at their home in a village just outside the Plei Me camp.

The 4 foot 5 inch Rmah Del walks with 6 foot 5 inch special forces Sergeant Everett Hamby of Fayetteville, N. C.

During a lull in fighting, while the camp was surrounded by Viet Cong forces, Rmah reverts to boyhood to fly a kite from a lookout post.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase; the morning star is Venus; the evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

In 1848, Mexico signed a treaty giving Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California to the U.S. for $15 million.

In 1876, eight baseball teams banded together to form the national league.

In 1943, Radio Berlin acknowledged the end of the Battle of Stalingrad, a siege in which the Russians claimed 503,000 Germans were killed or wounded.

In 1953, President Dwight D. Eisenhower announced the U.S. Seventh Fleet would no longer block Nationalist Chinese raids against the mainland.

A thought for the day—American Poet Thomas Parsons said: "In order that people may be happy in their work, these three things are needed: They must be fit for it; they must not do too much of it; and they must have a sense of success in it."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Hands Show A Perfect Case For Students Of Bridge Crime

Students of bridge crime will do well to study today's hand. Only one player could hold up his head after the play had come to an end.

Opening lead — ♣ 9

East took his two clubs and led a third club to dummy.

Declarer led to the ace of diamonds, ruffed his other diamond in dummy and then returned dummy's remaining trump.

West took his ace of trumps and returned his singleton spade to dummy.

South tried to reach his hand by ruffing a low spade, but West over-ruffed, defeating the contract.

If you think about it, you'll see that dummy made no mistakes in the play of the cards.

Can you see the mistake that each of the others made?

BETTER LEAD

West should open his singleton spade instead of the nine of clubs. West would get in with the ace of trumps and could then lead a club.

East would take his two club tricks and then lead a spade to give West a trump trick.

When West actually led the nine of clubs, East should win with the queen of clubs and return a spade. It was quite possible that West was void of spades.

UNLIKELY VOID

It was very unlikely that South was void of spades since, with such unfavorable distribution, he would either bid four hearts immediately or bid only three hearts at his second turn.

After the defenders muffed two chances to defeat the contract South gave them a third chance. South must cash one of dummy's top spades before leading trumps.

Then West cannot put declarer back in dummy. No matter what West returned South would be able to gain the lead and draw trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♥ K Q J 9 8 5 2
♦ A 7
♣ 6 5 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

You should win six heart tricks and one diamond so that there cannot be anything wrong with opening the bidding. The hand is somewhat too strong for a shutout bid of three hearts.

TWA Readies Anniversary

SAN FRANCISCO — Trans World Airlines has begun 20th anniversary celebrations commemorating the inauguration of the first scheduled commercial passenger service between the United States and Paris, Feb. 5, 1946.

Over the weekend observances of TWA's 20th international year will be marked by special events in New York, Paris and Washington, D.C.

From San Francisco, Mayor John F. Shelley has designated Charles S. Hobbs, TWA board member, and vice president of Broadway Hale stores, to represent the city in presenting commemorative letters to civic leaders and representatives of TWA.

Recovery Under Way After Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—A strong recovery drive was under way as the stock market closed today. Final trading was heavy.

Late gains ran from more than a point for U.S. Steel to 2 for Jones & Laughlin and 5 for Lukens. Industrials rose in the afternoon.

Here was the picture toward the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 7.8 million shares compared with 9.09 million yesterday.

The market was lower in the morning but gathered support in the afternoon.

All leading motors showed plus signs; some of the airlines electronics and aerospace defense stocks snapped back from yesterday's sharp losses, and electrical equipments rose. Steels were steady to a shade higher. Chemicals, nonferrous metals and rails remained lower.

Sperry Rand, up a fraction, was leading the pack on volume. American Motors was up nearly a point in brisk dealings as its annual meeting was held. American Telephone, after touching a new low, was off only a shade.

Boeing and Fairchild Camera were ahead about 3 each. National Airlines, KLM, Northwest Airlines, Gulf and Western and Texas Gulf Sulphur about 2 each.

Ahead about a point were Anken Chemical, Delta Air-Airlines, Magnavox, Motorola, General Electric, Zenith and General Dynamics.

Down about a point were Eastman Kodak, McIntyre-Porcupine, American Smelting, International Nickel and Homestake. Off around 2 were American South African Investment, IBM, American Home Products.

General Motors erased an early loss and edged to the upside. Other leading motors were up slightly. Steels were steady to a shade higher.

Losses of rails were mostly fractional, Southern Railway dropping about 1.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged in light trading.

Union Earnings Up For 1965

LOS ANGELES — Union Oil Co. of California's earnings for 1965 increased for the seventh consecutive year and set a new high, according to president Fred L. Hartley.

Preliminary 1965 net earnings were $119 million, up 21 per cent over the $98.6 million in 1964. Revenues in 1965 likewise reached a new high of $1.51 billion compared to $1.45 billion in 1964.

After deducting the $25 million dividend requirements on the company's outstanding preferred shares, earnings per common share were $3.46 in 1965 compared with $2.46 in 1964, based on 27.2 million shares of common stock outstanding at the end of 1965 and 29.9 million shares outstanding a year earlier.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Richard Godfrey Opens Office; Name To Be Don Collins Buick

There are a number of Godfreys in the directory, but I am sure many Marinites do not realize that among them Richard M. Godfrey of San Anselmo, who has been around here for something like five years, is the son of Arthur Godfrey of radio and television fame.

Godfrey—Richard, that is—has recently opened his own real estate office as Richard M. Godfrey Realtor at 801 D Street, San Rafael (Second and D Streets) — located in with William Brannan Realty. Except for the past year, during which time he has been on a leave of absence, he spent four years at William Timmer's real estate office learning the ropes.

Previously he was with the Columbia Broadcasting System as an account executive. He moved here from Massachusetts, and like his father has been a licensed airplane pilot.

MRS. S. I. HAYAKAWA of Miss Valley has been re-elected to a three-year term as a director of Consumers Cooperative of Berkeley, Inc., which expects to open a Corte Madera food market and shopping complex next fall. Mrs. Hayakawa was also elected vice president of the board. She drew the largest number of votes of any of the 12 candidates at the board of directors election.

CHINESE NEW YEAR is being celebrated at Strawberry Town and Country Village next Sunday. Village shops will be decked out with paper dragons, lamps and flying fish, and there will be a two-hour parade from 2 p.m. Consul General Yin-Shou Che from San Francisco will be grand marshal. Miss Chinatown, Lion Dancers, the St. Mary's Drum Corps and other entertainers will be on the program.

ABOUT THE FIRST OF MARCH, Stenstrom Buick Co., San Rafael will have the new name of Don Collins Buick. Since the death of Samuel A. Stenstrom three years ago, son-in-law Don Collins has been president of the automobile agency. Collins has delayed making a change in the name, but Buick Motors prefers to have all agencies identified with the names of the owners and has requested the alteration.

Charlat

MAURICE M. CHARLAT of Kentfield has been appointed director of brand management for California Canners and Growers. He moves up to this newly created position from brand manager in the marketing department, and will be responsible for planning, pricing, merchandising and advertising all of the company's brands of fruits and vegetables.

I'VE HEARD from Joel B. Goldfus, former manager of Strawberry Town and Country Village, that he has been appointed manager and promotion director of the 10-million dollar Mayfield Mall shopping center scheduled to open this fall at the Palo Alto-Mountain View dividing line.

EVERETT'S QUALITY MEATS and Casassa's Gourmet Foods in the Montecito Shopping Center, San Rafael, are teaming up to give away a 19-inch television set and many other prizes in a drawing to be held March 5. Usual rules apply: It is not necessary to buy anything when picking up your entry blank, and it won't be necessary to be present at the drawing to win.

Thomas Everett recently opened his new meat department at Casassa's and this is in the nature of a grand opening promotional event.

Passenger, Cargo Traffic Increases

Substantial increases in passenger and cargo traffic resulted in new records for United Air Lines at San Francisco during 1965, according to J. J. Hartigan, sales manager here.

United handled a total of 3,155,511 arriving and departing passengers at International Airport, a 44 per cent gain over the previous year. The company handled 88,326,300 pounds of freight, up 27 per cent; 29,801,000 pounds of express, up 20 per cent.

Auto Industry Takeover Denied

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit industrialist-sportsman Robert B. Evans, who bought over 200,000 shares of American Motors stock in recent days, said today, "I have absolutely no intention of trying to take over the company."

The millionaire industrialist, 59, made his comment as he arrived for AMC's annual stock holders meeting today.

"I have some very definite ideas about how the company should be run, but I have no plans to ask for a seat on the board of directors at this time," he said.

New Notary Public

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan today announced issuance of a notary public commission to Jean E. Briones, 32 River Oaks Road, San Rafael.

Steaks Scarcer, May Cost More

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Beef is going to be a little more scarce and more expensive, some cattlemen believe.

John H. Guthrie, Porterville, Calif., first vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Assn., said the demand is catching up with the supply.

Guthrie told the association's convention yesterday that five per cent more beef was slaughtered last year, reducing the herds and producing three per cent less meat because there was less fattening of the animals at feedlots.

THE WORLD'S A FUNNY LOOKING PLACE

A tiny new-born Koala or "Teddy bear" clings to its mother's fur recently at the San Diego Zoo, taking its first look at the world. San Diego and San Francisco zoos are the only places outside their native Australia where the fuzzy marsupials seem to thrive; their diet consists exclusively of certain types of eucalyptus leaves.

Britons Lack Much Heating For Homes

By PAUL R. ALLERUP

LONDON (UPI) — "Yep, it's back to the land of central heating and air conditioning for me."

This was a newsman talking in a Fleet Street pub, confirming to a group of colleagues that after half a dozen years on assignment in Europe.

It didn't strike anyone strange that central heating and air conditioning came first on the list of things the man was going back to. In Britain today, although most people now know what central heating is and more homes are getting it, central heating remains a relative rarity.

And air conditioning still is something foreign.

Of all Europe, Britain continues to be the firmest holdout against central heating. Almost everywhere on the continent central heating is as much a way of life as in the United States. But not here.

Exact figures are hard to come by but the best estimates are that in 1965 not more than one British home in 10—if that many—has central heating. Coal and wood burned in fire places, electric heaters toted from room to room, kitchen stoves and bed warmers provide the only heat in the great majority of British homes, even in some of the newer ones.

The Institute of Heating and Ventilating Engineers estimates that about 11 per cent of the nation's 18 million homes had central heating "of some kind" by the end of 1963. But this estimate includes homes equipped with what is laughingly known here as "part central heating."

This means, for example, that in a home or apartment of six or seven rooms, two or three rooms—and never the bedrooms—may have a radiator or two to give what is euphemistically designated as "background" heat.

Back Yard Chefs Help End Canners' Huge Problem

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI) — Until Robert T. Collier came along, California peach canners had a terrific problem:

What could they do with their yearly output of 120 million pounds of peach pits?

They buried them, loaded them on barges and dumped them in the ocean. They tried feeding them to animals, and pulverizing them to flush into sewage systems.

But always there were more peach pits.

Collier, a Santa Clara manufacturer, took on the problem and decided they would make excellent charcoal briquets. Today his plant here converts more than 500 tons of pits into charcoal for outdoor chefs each day.

Upon death, in primitive times, bodies were dried by the sun or a stove.

Tourist Handed Instant Retort

LEBANON, Ky. (AP)—Judge Joe Jarobe, noted for his dry humor, was riding a bus with a tourist who insisted upon belittling everything he saw in Kentucky.

Kentuckians, the man said, are slow; never get anything done.

About that time, the bus passed the 351-foot-high Jefferson David monument in Fairview.

"What's that?" the man asked.

"Beats me," replied the judge. "I was through here the other day, and it wasn't built then."

The capital, Nuku'alofa, of Tongatapu Island, Tonga, suggests a quiet American resort at the turn of the century. Neat, white frame houses stand amid palm-thatched cottages.

SHE WANTS CATNIP ON THE ROCKS

Chiquita, a 100-pound mountain lion, stands up to the kitchen counter in the Gordon Campbell home near Minneapolis, Minn., recently, to see what Mrs. Campbell plans for dinner. The pet, raised from a kitten, eats one and one-half pound steaks for snacks. The owners say they'll soon have to turn their pet over to a zoo, but then they want to try raising a wolf. Gas Flash Tubes Will Save Ships

BOSTON (UPI) — Lighthouses of the future will be equipped with beacons that are basically xenon flashtubes, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientist believes.

Dr. Harold E. Edgerton, professor of electrical measurements at MIT, made this prediction as plans were announced for installing the first such beacon in a U.S. Coast Guard lighthouse in territorial waters. The beacon is scheduled to be installed later this year in a new light tower at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay, off Cape Henry, Va.

He said the biggest advantage of the xenon flash beacon for ships at sea is its attention-getting aspect. It flashes in short, sharp, brilliant bursts of light, controlled by its automatic timing and energy system.

Gracer Has Faith In Clients Restored

CLAY, Ky. (AP)—W. W. Johnson, operator of a grocery here for nearly 50 years, has learned it's never too late for a customer to settle an account.

On Jan. 1, 1925, a customer gave him a $75 note to cover a charge account he was unable to pay. The note was worthless since the customer left the state and couldn't be traced.

Recently, Johnson received a check to settle the account.

Motel Caters To Horses

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Ever hear of a horse motel?

There is such a place on the New Mexico State Fair grounds in Albuquerque.

The facility provides quarters and a training and exercise area for owners and trainers of race horses who want to get their animals ready for future meets at tracks throughout New Mexico.

The facility offers housing for race horses in regular racing barns, along with use of the fair's one-mile track.

The horse motel also provides overnight quarters for animals being transported across the country, giving the trainers a chance to exercise them.

DANNY KAYE HIT NOW AN OPERA

German author Franz Werfel's popular play "Jacobowski and the Colonel," which later became a hit film starring Danny Kaye—has undergone another transformation. Now known simply as "Jacobowski," the work forms the libretto of an opera, the sixth and latest work by young composer Giselher Klebe. An interesting production requirement calls for a real car to rumble on stage at various times. The opera, musically a compromise between the 12-tone and Serielle schools, received a hearty ovation in its premier at Hamburg's State Opera House recently.

Mutation Mink Colored Pink

WADSWORTH, Ill. (AP)—The mink is pink at the Edward Slobe mink ranch.

He says he is one of the first in this area to successfully produce the latest in a long line of natural colored mutation minks.

The pink mink, officially known as Emba Rovalia, is pale rose in color and represents the result of a complicated series of cross-breeding and genetic control.

Hot Under Collar Over Formal Dress

NITEROI, Brazil (AP) — There's a great undressing movement underway in this state capital across Guanabara Bay from Rio de Janeiro.

Suffering state employees facing the long, hot summer are collecting signatures for a petition to the state governor asking him to dispense with the traditional coat and necktie for the summer months. Instead they want to wear open-necked sport shirts to work.

Night Shelters

NEW DELHI (AP) — The municipal government said it had completed "night shelters" which would accommodate 4,500 persons who otherwise would have to sleep in the streets. This is a small percentage of the number of homeless in the Indian capital.

London Bridge Isn't Falling Down Again

By MARIE ROSS
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — "London Bridge is falling down, falling down, falling down . . . "

Well, it hasn't, at least not in the last 950 years. But it certainly has changed, as has so much of London in the past centuries.

London Bridge in the old days used to display the heads of executed criminals on poles above the span over the River Thames. Houses, shops and even a chapel were built on the bridge — all supported on narrow arches that severely limited the size of river traffic that passed underneath.

Today it is all much changed. London Bridge, once the only overhead crossing of the Thames as it wound through London, was pulled down in 1832 after having served for 600 years, and was rebuilt much as it is now.

Nor is London Bridge any longer alone as a Thames crossing. Today London has 17 road and eight rail bridges across the Thames. They are a commonplace part of the city scene. Few natives bother much about them any more — but the wise tourist and the historian take a closer look.

The first bridge across the river probably was built by the Roman invaders around the first century, but the first mention of one in writing is not until 984 a.d. in that year it was recorded that a woman found sticking pins into the image of a man was taken to London's Bridge and drowned for witchcraft.

The old rhyme, "London Bridge is Falling Down," origidon, were under attack from nates from a battle in 1014 when the Danes, holding Lonthe Saxons under King Ethelred the Unready and the Vikings under King Olav.

"Between the Castle and Suthwirki, (Southwark, on the Thames' south bank) there was a bridge, so broad that two wagons could pass each other upon it . . . now when the attack was made the (Danish) troops stood on the bridge everywhere and defended themselves . . . King Olav and the Norsmen's (Viking's) fleet with him, rowed quite under the bridge, laid their cables around the piles which supported it, and then rowed off with all the ships as hard as they could down the Stream."

So that first London Bridge fell down, or was pulled down, and the Danes lost.

The bridge was rebuilt in wood and then in stone. The stone one, started in 1176 and completed in 1209, was the famous London Bridge with the chapel dedicated to Thomas a Becket, the martyred Archbishop of Canterbury, who was murdered in 1170. A priest, Peter of St. Mary Cole Church, built the bridge at the order of King Henry II.

The houses on the bridge were constantly rebuilt but eventually knocked down when more passage space was needed. Finally the 18th century traffic jams became so bad that work started in 1730 on the city's second bridge, Westminster, a graceful stone structure which was replaced in 1862 by the present iron one in front of the Houses of Parliament.

In 1824 work started on the present, five-arch London Bridge. Nearly half the 1.5 million pound ($4.2 million) cost went for buying the land for it.

Tower Bridge, completed in 1894 for 830,000 pounds ($2.32 million) is now the most distinctive of London's bridges and the only movable one. The hydraulically-operated drawbridge between its massive Gothic towers is raised a dozen or more times a day to let ships through. It acts as the river's gateway to London.

A development company has put forward a futuristic project for another bridge at Vauxhall in concrete and glass, with a hotel, shops, a skating rink and an open air theater as part of the structure.

This may turn out to be London's next bridge — but no one is thinking of building it before the 21st century.

House Trailer Thief Lives Pretty High

CRAVAT, Ill. (AP)—Persons who broke into a house trailer paused long enough to take a frozen chicken out of the ice box, thaw it, cook it, fix coffee and eat dinner.

County officers said a .22 caliber rifle, a shotgun, a fishing reel, a quilt and two blankets were stolen by the uninvited guests.

Havana Youths Like Smuggled U.S. Discs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana teen-agers swing to the black market rock 'n' roll records, says a 14-year-old airlift refugee.

Such music, frowned on by Cuba's Communist government, sometimes costs as much as $40 per album, the youth said. Records are smuggled into Cuba, he added. The boy declined use of his name.

His Version

OSIJEK, Yugoslavia (AP) — Emil Suh wasn't even fishing when he caught the big one. He was just out rowing on the Danube when the eight-pound fish jumped out of the water — and landed in his boat.

Good Fishing Discovered In New Mexico's Deserts

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)—The amazing thing about New Mexico's desert is that it's considered a fisherman's paradise by neighboring residents.

That's because the desert area which lies between Arizona and Texas contains two of the Southwest's largest rivers — the historic Rio Grande and the Pecos River.

Along these rivers and their tributaries are numerous small dams built in recent years as irrigation or flood control projects. In northern New Mexico, where both rivers originate, the Rocky Mountains provide streams for trout anglers.

One of the big New Mexico lakes is Conchas Lake, 30 miles north of the cattle town of Tucumcari. Twenty-three miles of water is backed up behind Conchas dam — more water than the state's founders ever dreamed existed in this arid land.

Crappe, bass and catfish are the big catches at Conchas Lake, as in most of New Mexico's lakes. Water skiers also use Conchas as their eastern New Mexico headquarters.

About 50 miles south of Conchas is Alamogordo Reservoir, another lake backed up on the Pecos River. Alamogordo, which means fat cottonwood trees in Spanish, draws thouands of Texans over the line each year for boating and fishing.

In southern New Mexico, on the Rio Grande, are Elephant Butte Reservoir and Caballo Reservoir, twin lakes in a landscape of cactus and sand. Elephant Butte is about 30 miles long and offers record bass and lots of space. Caballo Reservoir, a few miles south of Elephant Butte on the Rio Grande, holds the same attraction.

SALVAGE CREW DEFIES DANGER

Three years ago, the stormy North Sea betrayed the British freighter "Ondo," sinking her near the mouth of the Elbe River. All salvage attempts failed, but 54-year-old expert Helmuth Wulf, head of a West German salvage firm, has bought the hulk for $12,500 and is living aboard the tilting vessel with a crew of seven helpers. They're patching leaks; hope to pump air into the compartments and float "Ondo" free to earn a fortune of up to $2.5 million. Meanwhile, they live on temporary wooden platforms serving as horizontal floors in the crazily-tilted ship

Southern Criminals Like Their Warmth

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Police Sgt. Robert Montana believes cold weather puts a freeze on crime.

During one chilly weekend, he said, the city had only 13 major crimes during a 14-hour period. Usually Miami has 45 to 50 such crimes on a Saturday or Sunday.

Warplanes Never Die In Yemen

SANAA, Yemen (AP)—Yemen's air force is being turned into automobile license plates.

The former royalist regime bought 50 Russian-made fighters seven years ago, but left them exposed to the weather until rain and sun ruined the machines.

After the republican revolution of 1962, the number of cars in the country increased, but there was no suitable material from which to make license plates.

The government dismantled the planes and sent wings, fuselages and fuel tanks into a new foundry where they were melted down and cast into license plates.

The idea is not new in Yemen. The late Iman (king) Ahmed once used the aluminum from a plane which had crashed in Yemen to make coins.

The money with withdrawn from circulation a year ago.

Jail Closed

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A shortage of prisoners forced the city fathers of Soa Bento in the Brazilian Northeast to close their jail and convert it into a school.

Sentence Worth Horses, Cart

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—A South Africa gangster "hired" a man to do his nine-month prison sentence, police reported.

The plot was discovered when a sharp-eyed detective spotted the African gangster walking down a Cape Town street. Only a few weeks earlier the man had been sent to jail for nine months for the illegal possession of a firearm.

When police checked the cells they found a switch had been made. News reports said the gangster offered the substitute two horses and a cart to serve his sentence for him.

Puppets Spoof James Bond In British Video Series

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI)—If you were Lady Penelope you would have at your command a shocking pink Rolls Royce with a hidden machine gun, a two-way radio in a teapot and five heroes name after American astronauts.

But you would only be two feet high and have a dozen heads — one for laughing, one for crying, one for being angry, and so on.

THE HOOD
His eyes light up

LADY PENELOPE
Pink Rolls Royce

For Lady Penelope is a puppet, like all the stars in the science fiction "Thunderbirds," one of the most expensive television series ever made in Britain. It has been filmed in color —even though there is no color television here yet —because the owners aim to make millions of dollars on the American market.

The 26 one-hour episodes, which each cost 35,000 pounds, ($98,000) to make, follow the adventures of International Rescue, a secret organization run by retired astronaut Jeff Tracy and his five sons, Scott, Virgil, Alan, Gordon and John. Tracy named them after the first Americans to orbit in space.

Blonde, glamorous Lady Penelope is London undercover agent for International Rescue, which has its headquarters inside a mountain on a remote island somewhere in the pacific.

A vital element in the series is to keep this HQ a secret from the chief "bad guy," an evil villain called the hood, whose eyes literally light up when he is casting spells on people from his exotic Eastern temple.

"Thunderbirds" is the brainchild of husband and wife team Gerry and Sylvia Anderson, both 35, who picked up plenty of adult as well as child viewers with their previous puppets production — "Supercar," "Fire ball XL5" and "Stingray."

This latest one uses all the technical tricks of the trade.

The island HQ of International Rescue has a moving cliff so its space-age rescue craft can enter and leave the hiding place. Electronic devices warn of intruders.

Lady Penelope's six-wheeled Rolls Royce outdoes James Bond's car for gadgets. Its design was officially approved by the Rolls Royce Company.

The car — license number "Fab I" —has a television monitor instead of a driving mirror. A machine gun can hurtle out of the radiator. It can spray oil and tacks on the road to foil followers and rods can shoot out to form a tire slasher. Retractable handcuffs can hold prisoners to the back seat. Hydrofoils can be lowered so the car can clear water at high speed. It can park crabwise and go at more than 200 miles per hour. The windows of course are bullet proof.

The driver is a droll cockney chauffeur with a prison record and a talent for blowing safes.

Scott, the fast-talking, quick-thinking eldest son of Tracy, is the pilot of Thunderbird I. This is a 7,000-mile per hour, vertical take-off craft that always speeds to the rescue scene first.

Steady, reliable Virgil pilots Thunderbird II, a giant freighter that carries heavy and ingenious rescue equipment, including Thunderbird IV, an underwater scout car.

Gordon, the joker of the family, accompanies Virgil in Thunderbird II and takes over the underwater Thunderbird IV when undersea rescue is called for.

John, the ever patient brother, circles the earth in Thunderbird V, a satellite used as a monitor station and always on the alert to spot trouble.

The family's equipment includes a 2-passenger "mole" which burrows into the ground, a lesser beam which can cut through anything, and mobile platforms which can race along the ground and allow a crippled plane to land on them.

"Thunderbirds" has already started on British television but contracts for selling the series in the United States will not be arranged until January, so it will not appear on American screens before next year.

Lew Grade, managing director of Associated Television, the owners, said prints of the series have been shown in the United States.

"The reaction has been fabulous," he said. "This series will be sold for many millions of dollars."

About 125 peopie work on "Thunderbirds," making scenery and props about one-third normal size and hundreds of hand-made miniatures costumes. The characters have electronic heads so their lips synchronize with the dialogue.

Tiny Singapore Ranks As Key Asian Nation

SINGAPORE (UPI) — The world's newest nation, Singapore, cannot help being important despite its tiny size.

The island state's position as one of the major communications centers of southeast Asia makes it at once a strategic military base and an important ideological prize.

Singapore is located almost on the equator at the tip of the Malay peninsula. By air it is 911 miles southeast of Bangkok, Thailand, 562 miles northwest of Djakarta, Indonesia, and 644 miles southwest of Saigon, South Viet Nam.

The island is only 26 miles long and 14 miles wide.

But Singapore practically controls the two-way shipping between east and west through its position at the southeastern end of the Straits of Malacca, shortest sea link between the Pacific and Indian oceans. It is the world's fifth largest port.

Singapore's population is about 1.8 million, of whom three quarters are hustling, hard-working overseas Chinese. Their loyalties and political leanings exert a strong influence on neighboring Malaysia and Indonesia.

A communist Singapore almost certainly would undermine pro-western Malaysia and endanger Indonesian security.

Ancient "Singapura" was a prosperous trading city before American was discovered. It was sacked and destroyed near the end of the 14th century.

Britain's Sir Stamford Raffles then began eying the island, reduced to an obscure fishing village, as a base to thwart Dutch aspirations.

In 1819, Raffles, an officer of the British East India Company, rented the island for 3,000 Spanish dollars paid annually to a local native chief.

In 10 years, the population grew to 15,000 and it has been growing ever since. Most of the newcomers were Chinese looking for a better life. Many found it and began Singapore families.

Singapore has remained basically a Chinese city beneath a British facade.

Raffles decided Singapore would live or die by her trade and decreed the island a free port to increase the flow of goods. The port is still free today although industrialization gradually is forcing the erection of some tariff barriers.

The British made Singapore a major military base to stand guard over India and Hong Kong. The island's defenses were built in the traditional way, facing the sea.

When Singapore's test came in 1942, the Japanese approached the other way, from Malaya, across the Straits of Johore. Singapore, Britain's Far East fortress, fell in 16 days.

Britain rebuilt after the war and today has three air fields and a naval base besides army installations on the island. The immediate future of the bases will be decided in negotiations with the new Singapore government.

Britain's hold on the island was badly weakened by the Japanese conquest. The years following World War II were punctuated by the drive for independence.

Limited home rule began in 1955. In 1959, Singapore became a crown colony.

Independence was achieved in 1963 when Singapore joined the Federation of Malaya and the Borneo states of Sabah and Sarawak to form Malaysia.

Differences in policies between the strong-willed Singapore state government and the central government led to the surprise break of Aug. 9 and the announcement of Singapore's independence.

The island is ruled by the Peoples Action Party (PAP) which has a two thirds majority in the state assembly. The PAP's key leader is Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, 42, a British-educated socialist whose government during the past six years has been tough on Communists and surprisingly cooperative with businessmen.

Singapore in 1965 is a handsome city of wide streets, tall business buildings and soaring government housing projects. Its people enjoy one of Asia's highest standards of living with a per capita income second only to Japan.

Once a wide open town of sin, opium dens and pretty prostitutes, Singapore today is prim and proper.

To many, Singapore is a dynamic living creature which has had its ups and downs but always has come back strong.

One of the rituals observed on Jan. 6 is the blessing of the Greek sponge divers at Tarpon Springs, Fla., and the casting of a gold crucifix into the waters to signify the baptism of Christ.

Steel Longevity To Be Tested

NEW YORK (AP)—Motorists in New York state are steeling themselves for six years of driving when they apply for their 1966 auto license plates.

Each motorist will receive two blue and golden yellow plates made of rust-resistant steel intended to last for six years.

Plates for other than passenger cars will be made of lightweight aluminum.

THE MAIL MUST GO THROUGH

Delivering mail along West Germany's North Sea coast becomes a chore in winter, when ice prevents boats from reaching many inhabited islands. Many postmen trudge miles across the ice; others have it luckier, travelling aboard sail-propelled railroad cars along tracks laid temporarily on the ice.

Historic Oregon Trail Marked For Posterity

By MICHAEL ANDERS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A historic road through Wyoming and Idaho, once the rugged highway for westward bound immigrants, is being reblazed for posterity.

It is known as Lander Road. In the mid-1800s it was part of the equally historic Oregon Trail and was in the area where in 1847 Brigham Young and his little band of Mormons held their famous "feast in the wilderness."

The Interior Department is taking steps to save the road from oblivion. Its Bureau of Land Management and Wyoming state officials have joined to place commemorative bronze plaques along the highway, beginning at Gilbert's Station, Wyo.

The plaques, four inches in diameter, will be imbedded in concrete at one-mile intervals, to the terminus point at Rock City, Idaho.

The road, once 346 miles long, was authorized by Congress in 1856 to be used by the military. It was named for the Interior Department's chief engineer, Frederick W. Lander, who surveyed and staked the route.

Laying it out to bypass a difficult section of the Oregon Trail, Lander traveled 3,000 miles on horseback, discovered 16 mountain passes, and charted the Bear and Salt River mountain ranges.

Little more than a trail at first, the route was a rest stop for Concord stages, pony express riders and wagon trains at South Pass, a later name for Gilbert's Station.

South Pass also doubled as a station for the first transcontinental telegraph line in 1861.

Bee Crossing Failure Has Deadly Result

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—Several men fishing near the interior city of Araraquara were attacked recently by a swarm of bees. One of the men died.

About the same time, a child in Franco de Rocha was stung by a swarm of bees. He, too, died after several hours of tremors.

On the outskirts of Marilia, farmer Jose Comino Coral lost 250 chickens and 20 ducks in an onslaught by a swarm of bees. Many other fowl were blinded.

In each case, the villain was the African Bee, unknown in the western hemisphere until a university professor imported 48 queens from Tanganyika in 1956 in an attempt to increase the honey production of local bees.

The professor, Dr. Warwick E. Kerr, a Brazilian born of Irish parents, knew the African bee, officially "apis mellifera adansonii," was ferocious and attacked in swarms. However, he tried to cross them with milder European species.

Not only did the African bees manage to surpass all other strains because of their higher rate of fertility and attacks on the hives of other bees, but they became more vicious than ever, possibly because of the climate.

"As things are at present, it seems likely that the rest of tropical and sub-tropical South America, and possibly even the southwestern United States, may be subject to an invasion by the 'adansonii,'" said Dr. Paulo Nogueira Neto, assistant professor of zoology at Sao Paulo University.

Skilled Swiss Workers Keep Nation Thriving

By JOHN MORKA

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—It's fun and mostly play for millions of visiting tourists and for Hollywood stars who make their homes in Switzerland's Alpine setting.

But for the nation's labor force of about 3 million-approximately half the population—the accent is heavy on work.

Otherwise landlocked Switzerland, with one-third of its land unproductive, would not be able to sustain its high standard of living. Sadly lacking in raw materials, it must export to survive.

To keep its economy humming, Switzerland banks heavily on its highly skilled workers and its astute industrialists.

Sharing in Western Europe's postwar economic revival for the past two decades, Switzerland now is a country of total employment.

Jobs go begging, so much so that, over the past 10 years, about 1 million foreign workers have had to be recruited.

But despite its visible prosperity, Switzerland has not been without its share of economic troubles, not the least an inflationary spiral which has forced the government to take drastic steps aimed at curbing credit and expansion, and holding price levels in line.

Government and industry officials are hopeful that these measures, taken in 1964 and extended for another year, will ease some of the pressures that have posed a threat to the country's economic equilibrium.

The nation's consumer price index rose by 2.3 per cent in 1964, compared with 3.9 per cent in the previous year.

Although the problem of inflation is the No. 1 target of the country's leaders, the question of the impact of foreign workers is easily the No. 1 topic of conversation among the multilingual Swiss.

Their presence in such large numbers has engendered new problems and tensions in the field of education, housing, language, religion and labor unions.

This year the government decreed that the numbero of foreign workers—those on temporary permits—must be cut by 10 per cent within the next 16 months. Some groups would like to see the foreign labor force reduced to 500,000 in five years.

Short as Switzerland has been of labor, this new drive toward de-foreignization is forcing many Swiss industrialists to do some new thinking about automation.

Switzerland is no novice in the field of automation.

As an example, the watch industry about 10 years ago employed from 60 to 80 people on some of its semi-automatic operations. These same operations now require less than a dozen, in some instances.

No small factor in the country's economic surge has been the diligence and skill of the national Swiss working and managerial force.

The traditional American coffee breaks is only now catching on in scattered plants. For most Swiss it's normally a 44-hour basic work week spread over five or five and a half days.

ANTIQUES PATIENTLY WAIT NEW GLORY

Antique works of art—some dating back to classing Greek days — are standing amid the rubble of the "antiquarium" in the "Rezidenz," the 600-year-old Bavarian kings' palace in Munich, West Germany. The huge, many-roomed structure was badly damaged during World War II bombing raids; Germans are half-way through a 20-year restoration project. Statuary shown had to be left in place when Germans removed to safety some 40,000 other art treasures now being restored to the palace.

Overeating's Mostly Due To Emotions

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Modern science has found that, like so many other afflictions, the problem of overeating is all in the eater's head, according to the California Medical Assn. (CMA).

That is to say a little bunch of cells in the brain, collectively called the hypothalamus, automatically regulate the appetite to balance it with energy output so the body remains in normal weight bracket.

However, despite constant messages from this small clump of tissue, its overeating master usually manages to ignore the advice one way or another, the CMA reported.

In short, the CMA maintains, there is no mystery about being overweight. It's a simple reflection of what you eat.

Dot Weight?

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A scale so sensitive it can weigh a pencil dot is used by Omark Industries Inc. here to measure industrial diamonds for the diamond-impregnated blades and drills it manufactures for use in cutting concrete, masonry and stone.

NOT GNUS, BUT NEWS FOR ZOO

The Portland, Ore., zoo has won fame for being the birthplace of baby elephants; San Diego's zoo seems to be specializing in production of the rare and strang-looking Okapi. Here's the third such youngster born there, Bili, as he tries out his legs recently while being watched by his mother, Lizette. Okapi's are the only living relatives to the towering giraffes. Not All Motorcyclists Wear Ragged Jackets

NEW YORK (UPI)—For anyone under the impression that leather-jacketed or beatnik-type groups like California's "Hell's Angels" are the only people who ride motorcycles, the motorcycle and scooter industry has come up with some words and figures.

Solid citizens, say industry sources, are joining the two-wheel motoring fraternity in droves these days. They include doctors, lawyers, businessmen, bankers, legislators, school teachers, students and secretaries.

The Motorcycle and Scooter Information Bureau reports that 950,000 two-wheelers were registered in the United States at the start of 1965 and predicts there will be 1,250,000 by the end of the year.

California currently sets the pace in cycle and scooter travel with 203,000 owners. Texas is second with 48,500, followed by Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Washington. New York and Massachusetts are tied for 11th place with 23,000 each.

The Bureau attributes the growth rate of two-wheelers to economy of operation, ease in parking and their versatility for both work and play.

Some examples, according to the Bureau:

A prominent Hartford, Conn. surgeon and a state representative often pass each other near the state capitol while traveling to and from their work.

A Baptist minister in Wisconsin travels to the homes of ailing parishioners and to Bible conferences on his motorcycle.

Ever-increasing numbers of New York businessmen are beating the traffic and parking problems to get in and around Manhattan more easily.

A suburban New York housewife, having taken on the PTA presidency, rides her two young sons (separately) to school each day on a scooter.

And then, of course, there are the collegians from coast to coast who cover the campus and environs — and even home for an occasional weekend — on their two wheelers.

Many college campuses regularly have more than 1,000 motorcycles and scooters for students and professors.

MUFFS FOR THE MONKEY

Most of the nation east of the Sierra has been suffering recently, in weather cold enough—well, to freeze the ears off a monkey. So Mac, a one-year-old chimpanzee in the zoo at Lincoln, Neb., was outfitted with a muffler and furry earmuffs—a bit outsized but warm. (AP Wirephoto)

Coed Tells Peace Corps How To Meet Its Quota

By GEORGE WEEKS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It took a pony-tailed blonde coed to tell the Peace Corps it was doing a bad job of recruiting.

The same young lady told the corps directors how things might be changed and they heard her out. Now, the corps has redesigned its fall recruiting program to include the recommendations of 77 college interns who came to Washington this summer to learn and ended up teaching the government something.

Barbara Helfgott, a 21-year-old Boston University senior from Margate City, N.J., started it all.

"Barbara plunked herself into the chair by my desk and announced that we were doing a lousy job of recruiting," Associate Peace Corps Director Donovan McClure told UPI. "She organized a "recruiting committee" that met several times with me telling us how to re-write our literature and redirect our informational efforts to properly communicate with the university campus."

Last year, the Peace Corps fell 500 short of its recruiting goal of 9,100 volunteers and one reason was that they weren't "connecting" with the kids on the campus.

Two interns from Virginia, who thought they knew how to reach their contemporaries, submitted recruiting ads which so impressed Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver that they will be used in a nation-wide advertising campaign to help the corps meet a recruiting goal of 10,500 volunteers for 1965-66.

One ad shows a group of sign-carrying campus protesters with this messsage: "Isn't it about time to DO something?" It notes that the Peace Corps volunteers are making changes in 46 countries around the world. Another ad shows a computer card and the words ask, "are you content with being computer fed? In the Peace Corps an individual can still do things."

The ads were submitted by interns George Jones, 18, a University of Maryland freshman from Arlington, Va., and Bill Bradford, 21, a senior at Swarthmore College from Falls Church, Va.

Mc Clure says the recruiting effort is not limited to the campus. It is also conducted at factories, in farm groups and nursing schools and among "people of all ages who have skills that can be utilized overseas."

But the emphasis, this time an emphasis determined by college students themselves, is on the campuses because that is where the Peace Corps get the bulk of itsh volunteers.

WARM WELCOME FOR BILLS

George Atherton, who lives in the rural outskirts of Hartford, Ky., on U.S. 231, has found a pretty unusual use for an old pot-bellied stove. He admits it's only a temporary solution, though, to the problems which beset most folks, particularly with income tax time approaching again.

WRAP-AROUND CRASH AT MARIN CITY

Coast Guard Seaman Curtis J. Thomas Jr., 19, of the Point Bonita Light Station escaped with cuts and bruises when his southbound car swerved off Highway 101 near the Marin City-Sausalito turnoff at 8:20 a.m. today and wrapped itself around a metal light post. He was treated at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco. Officer Robert Erickson of the California Highway Patrol inspects the wreck.

Father Says Police Harass Negro Youths

Sausalito Council Tells Police Chief To Wear Uniform

A Sausalito father last night called police "identification checks" a "systematic harrassment," particularly of Negro boys.

The Sausalito Citizens council board urged establishment of an "efficient foot patrol" and asked that Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck be required to wear his uniform.

Dr. John S. Wellington told the Sausalito City Council by letter that his son and three friends, one a Negro from Marin City, were detained recently for questioning on Buckley Avenue in the early afternoon.

They were asked to give names, addresses, telephone, height, weight, age, color of hair and eyes.

HAD DONE NOTHING

Asked what they had done, said Wellington, they were told "Nothing—we don't recognize you and want to know who all the boys in town are."

Wellington said he spoke to police and was told their practice is to stop juveniles from Marin City and elsewhere for questioning.

He said the boy from Marin City reported he is frequently stopped on the street by police when he visits Sausalito.

FLOUTING RIGHTS

"The implication to me is that there is a systematic harrassment, particularly of Negro boys, which takes shape as perfectly proper 'identification check,'" wrote Wellington. "If it is important that our children

Terra Linda May Fight Annex Try

By FRANK FARRARA

Terra Linda Community Services District directors started drawing battle plans last night to fight annexation of a key parcel of district land to San Rafael.

At issue is 54 acres at the southwest corner of Lucas Valley Road and Highway 101, where 9.25-acre Lucas Green shopping center is slated to be developed.

There was mention of the possibility of San Rafael annexing the entire community services district. And there was some speculation about incorporation of a city covering the Terra Linda-Marinwood area.

Directors, however, centered the discussion on their most immediate problem at a special protest meeting attended by about 50 residents of the community center.

They termed possible loss of the valuable commercial area "a critical situation" that threatens the economy of the district.

Vice Chairman Melvin Warenback, who presided in the absence of Chairman M. W. Beckstead, said that if the area is annexed to San Rafael and deannexed from the district, the loss of tax revenue will mean the district must increase its tax rate or reduce its services.

FIRST GOAL

The board's first objective, Warenback said, is to get a postponement of annexation proceedings, scheduled before the Marin County Local Agency Foundation as the first item on its agenda at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Civic Center.

He urged all present who opposed annexation to appear before the commission to try for at least a 30-day postponement.

During the 30-day period, petitions could be circulated and letters written protesting the annexation, Warenback said.

WOULD FORM ISLAND

Annexation of the area would leave the community services district as an island of unincorporated territory surrounded by the City of San Rafael.

Warenback said the district board would challenge the law which permits this, and would be "willing to go to court to be a test case."

Creation of such islands by annexation was illegal until last September, when new legislation gave local agency formation commissions the option of waiving the prohibition.

The city of San Rafael's annexation policy in the Terra Linda area and its planning practices in general were roundly criticized during the discussion.

Warenback charged that San

Head Bears Marks

The body of Mrs. Margaret Rudolph, wife of manager Leroy Rudolph of main San Rafael branch of Bank of America, was found submerged in the bathtub of the family home at 19 Carroll Court, San Rafael, today.

Mrs. Rudolph had been struck twice on the head with a sharp instrument, according to Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa and Coroner Frank J. Keaton. One blow, over the right temple, may have fractured her skull, Keaton said. The second blow was on the back of the head.

There were spatters of blood on carpets and on an overturned chair in a front room.

The coroner said results of an autopsy would be necessary to know whether she was killed by the blows or by drowning.

IN HOUSE COAT

She was clothed in a house coat over a slip. Her body, lying on its left side, was almost completely submerged.

Her watch had stopped at 7:55. Coroner Keaton said other evidence indicated the time was last evening; not this morning.

Mrs. Rudolph had been alone in the home. Her husband is in Marin General Hospital, recovering from a hernia operation.

PAPER THERE

Mrs. Jane Johnstone, who lives next door at 23 Carroll Court, returned about 11 a.m. today from shopping and noticed the morning paper had not been taken in from the Rudolphs' front steps. She picked up the paper and rang the doorbell, intending to deliver it. There was no response.

Mrs. Johnstone said she was about to turn away when she heard the telephone ringing. The phone rang insistently for some time, but no one answered it.

Alarmed, Mrs. Johnstone went home and got her husband, Gordon H. Johnstone, a state police officer stationed at University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, who was home on his day off from work.

Together, they returned to the Rudolph home. They found the front door was unlocked, and entered.

Immediately, they noticed the blood-stained, overturned chair in the living room. Blood was spattered on the wall-to-wall

Snowstorms Blamed For 145 Deaths

The worst snowstorm in nearly 50 years pounded southern Ohio today and spread into Virginia after weaving a snow-strewn path across Kentucky from the Plains.

Deaths attributable to the severe weather across the nation the last few days reached 145, including 47 persons who died in fires and heating accidents. Another 33 perished from exposure to the cold. The others died in traffic accidents on slick roads and from heart attacks caused by overexertion.

The storm dumped more than 12 inches of snow along the Ohio River to southwestern Illinois.

The storm struck southern Ohio with a fury yesterday, jammed traffic, closed schools and stranded workers. The snow fell at the rate of 2 to 3 inches an hour part of the day.

The Weather Bureau said 13 inches of snow covered Cincinnati, including 10 inches which fell Tuesday.

Cincinnati stores closed in midafternoon. The University of Cincinnati suspended classes and many southern Ohio schools were shut down early.

Major hotels were jammed by midafternoon by workers who couldn't get home. Basketball games and meetings were canceled.

Sausalito Police Return Funds Donated For Station Furnishings

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Sausalito police have returned to the donors $885 collected to help furnish new police headquarters at 29 Caledonia Street.

A few donated coffee mugs and ash trays will be paid for out of police department cash, since some have names of users printed on them.

There will be no more solicitation for police station furnishings.

These reports were made last night to the Sausalito City Council by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown and Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck.

Solicitation for furniture for the new headquarters was questioned Jan. 18 by A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., speaking for the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce board of directors. He said directors were disturbed over the practice.

Chief Huck acknowledged that "any approval for solicitations, no matter how restricted . . . demonstrates an error in judgment for which he offers his apologies to the council and to all those who had been contacted," said Brown.

Attached to Huck's report to Brown was a letter signed by him which was sent to all contributors expressing regrets of the department and returning donations.

Where ash trays, coffee mugs, etc., were donated, the department will return the items or pay for them, Brown said.

The city manager reported difficulty in placing responsibility for authorization of the solicitation.

Brown said he had suggested to Huck that some source of usable furniture other than surplus civil defense property be sought. One officer thought he knew where he could get a desk or some other furniture. This led to the suggestion that others who had previously given to the fire department might also wish to participate.

"Inasmuch as the individual officers were not directly bene-

Helicopter Looses Rocket Salvo At U.S. Combat Unit

SAIGON (UPI) —U.S. jets bombed North Vietnamese targets for the third consecutive day today but bad weather saved the Communists from greater devastation. In the ground war Communists forces were trying to flee into the mountains from deadly Allied ground offensives.

Troops of the 1st Cavalry Division who have killed an estimated 504 Communists in their massive sweep through Viet Cong coastal regions 300 miles northeast of Saigon, suffered one dead and nine wounded today when U.S. helicopters accidentally fired 2.75 inch Zuni rockets at them.

An Allied spokesman said the 1st Cavalry Division carrying out "Operation Masher" with the aid of South Koreans and Vietnamese had inflicted more than 1,500 casualties on the Viet Cong including dead, wounded and captured.

In fighting only 15 miles from Saigon, U.S. 1st Infantry Division forces overran and wiped out two Viet Cong machine gun bunkers that had inflicted moderate casualties on one company of about 180 Americans.

The sounds of battle and the flash of artillery fire could be seen and heard from rooftops in the capital.

U.S. Air Force planes ranged over Communist North Viet Nam for the third straight day since President Johnson ordered the bombing of the north

Johnson Wants Millions For World's Health

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson asked Congress today for a $524 million international health and education program "to rid mankind of the slavery of ignorance and the scourge of disease."

"We bear a special role in this liberating mission," Johnson said in a special message to the House and Senate. "Our resources will be wasted n defending freedom's frontiers if we neglect the spirit that makes men want to be free."

The special message was a followup to the request Johnson sent the lawmakers yesterday for $3.4 billion in military and economic assistance for the fiscal year 1967, beginning July 1.

Johnson was scheduled to send a third aid message, on world food problems, to the lawmakers tomorrow.

The health and education aid message includes a 50 per cent increase in education aid, raising it to an annual level of more than $200 million. It also

Bel Marin Probe Asked By Citizen

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Possible grand jury investigation and a chance of prosecution for violation of the California Government Code looked today in the wake of an auditor's report on the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony said violation of the Ralph M. Brown act banning secret meetings, irregularities in keeping minutes, and lack of elections might result in misdemeanor charges against directors of the district.

Directors are developers of the Bel Marin Tract, Jack H. West Sr., his wife Lerona West, and Jack H. West Jr.

Anthony ruled out a felony violation of the self-interest ban in the government code, saying he could find no evidence of this

State leader dies

Publisher Joseph Knowland Dies At 92, Of Pneumonia

OAKLAND (AP) — Joseph R. Knowland — newspaper publisher, political reformer and conservationist—died of pneumonia yesterday at his home in suburban Piedmont. He was 92.

Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, served five terms in the U.S. House of Representatives, two terms in the California Assembly and one in the State Senate.

He also had been president of the California Park Commission, the State Automobile Assn. and the State Chamber of Commerce.

In Congress, he was a leader in the drive for Panama Canal construction, the establishment of the Interstate Trade Commission and the building of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915 in San Francisco.

As a private citizen, he persuaded the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to advance $62 million for construction of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

His son, William F. Knowland, former U.S. Senate majority leader, has succeeded him on The AP board of directors and as publisher of the Tribune, which now has a circulation of 225,000.

Joseph Knowland attended every Republican Party national convention from 1908 to 1952, either as a delegate or newspaperman, and criticized them as "boresome, ear-splitting, time-consuming and nerve-wracking."

From 1937 to 1960 he served on the State Park Commission and is considered the father of California's extensive parks system. He also headed the California centennials commission, which commemorated the discovery of gold, the gold rush and California statehood.

Knowland was born in Alameda, Aug. 5, 1873.

In 1914 he ran for a U.S. Senate seat from California as a Republican. Theodore Roosevelt's Progressive Party split the California Republican vote and Knowland was defeated.

He turned to his newspaper.

Knowland graduated from the College of the Pacific, then in San Jose. The school is now the

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Belgians Face Two Strikes

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Government ministers conferred into the early morning hours today in an effort to solve a twin crisis involving striking coal miners and doctors threatening to walk off their jobs. Apparently they failed.

New violence erupted in the "Black Triangle" mining area of eastern Belgium as the ministers met yesterday. Two persons were killed Monday in clashes between striking miners and police.

Reports from the mining area of Zwartberg said police were forced to fire warning shots in the air last night to disperse scores of demonstrators.

No new casualties were reported, but demonstrators threw up roadblocks near the mine and pelted police with bricks and cobblestones.

Prophet Fears More Winter

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (UPI) — This mountain city's famed groundhog came out of hibernation today, just long enough to predict six more weeks of winter.

The groundhog saw its shadow on emerging above ground at 7:21 a.m. EST, and scurried back in its hole.

Members of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club were not as impressed as in past years, however, because to a man they were sure the groundhog could make no other prediction.

Pennsylvania has been rocked by three snow storms in the past 10 days and by a long spell of sub-zero temperatures.

Long Distance Call

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A truck hurtled out of control down a steep hill 12 miles from Perth today, uprooted an occupied telephone booth and flung it 20 feet along the highway. A 75-year-old woman struggled out of the phone booth with only a small cut on her leg. The truck driver was killed.

Filipino Reds Kill Each Other

MANILA (AP) — A top Communist-trained leader of the once powerful Huk movement was slain today in a gun battle between rival factions of his own band.

He was Cesareo Manarang, 52, who fought under the name "Commander Alibabas" and had a $5,000 price on his head.

Police said nine other Huks died in the half-hour battle that broke out after an argument over surrendering to police. Manarang was opposed to surrender, surviving members said.

Plan Offered To End Abuse By Assessors

Echoes Much Of Unruh's Earlier Tax Reform Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Three Democratic assemblymen offered a 45-point revision of property taxing procedures today with the aim of restoring public confidence in the scandal-hit system.

The proposal came from Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh of Inglewood, Nicholas Petris of Oakland and Leo J. Ryan of South San Francisco. Petris is chairman of the lower house revenue and taxation committee.

OFFERED EARLIER

Much of the program was contained in a $1 billion package of tax revision, increases and reductions unsuccessfully pushed by Unruh and Petris in 1965.

Unruh said the 1966 package "is not a substitute for major property tax reform. We will continue to work for a major reduction in the property tax."

The speaker contended the new plan "will materially benefit every property owner in the state."

BILLS' GOALS

Among the proposed legislation:

Return by the state of part of the local property taxes paid by poor elderly persons, helping them keep their homes on fixed incomes.

Application of a publicly announced uniform ratio of assessment to all property in each county, aiming to end favoritism by assessors of certain property owners, mainly big business.

Requirement that assessors notify taxpayers of any increase in their assessment, and a longer period for the property owner to appeal.

Creation of independent appeals boards, taking the job away from county supervisors, who now do it everywhere except in Los Angeles.

Increased supervision of local assessment practices by the State Board of Equalization.

Tougher penalties for assessors breaking the law.

Cutting the number of organizations exempt from the property tax.

High Wire Fall Hurts Circus Ace

DETROIT (AP) — The Great Murillo, an aerialist with the Ringling Brothers Circus, never used a balancing pole or a safety net — a feat which "separates the boys from the men," a circus official said.

Luis Murillo, 32, was hospitalized in critical condition with a fractured pelvis and head injuries received yesterday when he fell 45 feet to the sawdust floor of Detroit's State Fair Coliseum.

Murillo, of Hollywood, Calif., was performing at the annual Shrine Circus. He was walking up a 45-degree slanted wire toward his main performing wire when he fell.

Some 8,000 persons saw him fall.

Gang-Buster Shot

PARIS (UPI)—A holdup suspect shot and killed the head of the Paris police department's gang-busting squad today on a fashionable street near the Arc de Triomphe. Christian David also wounded two detectives before escaping. Hundreds of police began a house-to-house search. Dead was Commissioner Maurice Galibert, 34, chief of the anti-gang squad of the city's first mobile brigade.

NAVY EXPELS PACIFISTS

Military police drag demonstrator Robert Meriweather, 27, of Oakland, out of Treasure Island Navy Base yesterday after he and five other pickets invaded the base to protest resumption of bombing in North Viet Nam. One of the six, 20-year-old AWOL sailor Clifton P. Curran, was arrested by the military. Other demonstrations took place in San Francisco, Berkeley and Stanford. (UPI Telephoto)

State Supreme Court Studies Pay TV Ban

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's Supreme Court is deciding the constitutionality of a law prohibiting pay television.

After hearing oral arguments and accepting briefs, the court yesterday took over the study of Proposition 15, a state iniative measure that passed by 4,515,013 to 2,286,775 in 1964. It was enacted as a constitutional amendment by the last Legislature.

A judge in Sacramento has ruled the proposition, which prohibits a firm from charging to pipe television programs into a house, is unconstitutional.

Attorneys for the state and for Fox West Coast Theaters argued that the lower court judge should be reversed.

William L. Scott, attorney for Subscription Television Inc., told the court: "The so-called Free Television Act is no different from a law which might prohibit newspapers from charging for subscriptions or book publishers charging for books or theater owners charging those going to movies."

Justice Mathew O. Tobriner referred to the case as a "matter of free speech, a very precious right."

Charles Barrett, assistant attorney general, contended the proposition is "not a complete ban on the subscription television business. It prohibits a company from charging for programs sent into the home, but it does not prohibit the sale of television in restaurants, hotels, bars, theaters or other public places."

Herman Selvin, Fox West Coast Theaters attorney, said the "object is to save a great and free form of communication."

Scott answered there was no evidence that pay-TV would damage or destroy free television.

Subscription Television, which ceased operations after the proposition was approved by voters, had sent its programs into several thousand homes in San Francisco and Los Angeles, charging a $5 membership fee, plus varying monthly fees. It was headed by Sylvester Weaver, former National Broadcasting Co. president.

Voters Approve San Jose Bonds

SAN JOSE (AP) — San Jose voters approved about $26 million in municipal bonds Tuesday but turned down $31 million more.

Approval was given to six bond issues providing funds to improve traffic and sanitary sewers, expand storm drains, increase fire protection, add to parks, playgrounds and library facilities.

Six other bond issues failed to receive the required two-thirds majority. They would have provided funds for a convention hall and sports arena, airport approach protection and new municipal buildings, including new police headquarters.

Train Slams Farm Hands Bus; 18 Die

MIAMI (UPI) —A bus carrying 34 Puerto Ricans from a strawberry field to a migrant labor camp was smashed dead center by a freight locomotive at a rural crossing last night. Eighteen workers were killed and the others injured.

Bodies were strewn along the railroad tracks and the bus was dragged 150 yards from the crossing, where a railroad warning light had been installed recently but was not working.

The dead were left while the injured were taken through a snarl of traffic caused by sightseers and homeward bound motorists to South Miami and Jackson Memorial Hospitals.

Alejandro Cato, 54, mumbled through cut lips of the horror of the crash.

"There was no warning, no whistle, no nothing," he said.

Another of the injured, 18-year-old Manuel Acosta, said that he had heard a warning.

"I heard the horn of the bus. I heard the train horn. But the train couldn't stop and the bus couldn't stop."

The train, pulling only a caboose and with three crewman aboard, rammed the bus at dusk in southwest Dade (Miami) County and bulldozed it along the tracks for 150 yards.

ROME (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy, obviously enjoying a Roman holiday, postponed her departure today. She had been skiing in Switzerland prior to her Roman visit.

Russ Ship Snoops On A-Bomb Hunt

PALOMARES, Spain (UPI) —U.S. Navy warships kept a sharp lookout today for a Soviet trawler which was sighted near the area where the search for a missing 20-megaton H-bomb was being conducted.

The trawler pulled out of the area during the night. But sources said it never remains too long in one spot and was outside Spanish territorial waters and could not be prevented from observing the search.

Part of a two-man submarine was being flown from the United States today to help recover the missing H-bomb, believed lying in 200 fathoms of water off the southeast coast of Spain.

The submarine, named "Alvin," was to arrive at Torrejon Air Base, near Madrid, aboard two cargo planes. A C-133 Cargomaster was preparing to carry the craft's fuselage, while the conning tower was already en route aboard a C-141.

The 13-ton sub, 22 feet long, is equipped with windows, spotlights and a clawlike arm capable of retrieving objects from the ocean bottom. It can operate under water for eight hours on a battery and can descend 6,000 feet.

There has been no official comment whether the Soviet trawler was spying on the operation to recover the missing H-bomb. In the past, Soviet trawlers have been sighted frequently observing NATO naval exercises.

Defense Avers Mossler Had Many Enemies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A defense attorney says Jacques Mossler was a ruthless businessman and a sexual deviate with thousands of enemies who could have killed him.

The State of Florida says Mossler was murdered by two persons — his wife, Candace, and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers — because of hatred, love and money.

It was on these lines that the battle was drawn yesterday for a trial that could be one of the most sensational in Florida history — and the longest.

"If each one of the 39 knife wounds in Jacques Mossler's body was inflicted by a different person," defense attorney Percy Foreman told the jury, "There still would be many times that number of people left with real or imaginary justification."

The Houston, Tex., trial lawyer charged in a 70-minute opening statement that Mossler "was as ruthless in business as any pirate who ever sailed the seas of commerce."

Foreman also said that Mossler, 69, head of a banking and loan company empire, practiced "every conceivable sexual deviation in all psychiatry."

In the worlds of business and homosexuality, he said, Mossler encountered thousands of people who could have killed him.

Before Foreman spoke, Asst. State Atty. Arthur Huttoe told the jury the state woud present evidence that there were three motives for Mossler's murder.

These were, he said, a personal hatred Powers felt for Mossler, "a sordid, illicit love affair" between Powers and Mrs. Mossler — and money.

Desert Air Base Strike Is Off

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—United Auto Workers Union members have voted to call off a strike against North American Aviation's Rocketdyne Division.

The company and union leaders agreed yesterday, and members voted approval, to move the negotiations to Washington, D.C., after it was requested by federal mediator William Simkin.

Simkin asked both sides to honor wages and working conditions held before the strike, and to fly to Washington and open negotiations Thursday in an effort to avoid further walkouts.

CENTURY OF MEMORIES — Grant Wills sits in his San Rafael home turning the pages of his memoirs that span 100 years. Still looking to the future, he declared: "My namesake General Grant was a fighter, my father was, and I am a fighter too." After establishing a successful building and architectural design business in California from almost nothing, Wills now lives in San Pedro Road where family and friends will gather for a party Sunday.

HE'LL SOON BE 100

San Rafael's Grant Wills Retains His Zest For Life

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

Grant Wills of San Rafael will be 100 years old on Feb. 10, and it seems the most natural thing in the world for a man like this to tuck a century under his belt.

For he is made of the same stuff of life, the same zest for success that formed the driving force for the youthful emigrants who set California along the road to last 10,000 years.

He arrived in the state aboard an emigrant car in 1887 with no more than $3.60 jingling in his pocket. Before he retired, he had a successful business as architectural designer and building contractor.

He also dipped into the lumber and building material fields, spent a period in real estate, dabbled in oil and gold prospecting—and spent his spare time fishing.

"I seem to have got mine the hard way," he said, his weather-beaten face breaking into smile. "I never got a single Buffalo Bull nickle that I didn't work for.

"I have a comfy, pleasant home and good companions and can see my children occasionally. I can enjoy life, even if I haven't got a coon dog or a million."

The house he designed and built on San Pedro Road overlooks the boats tied up for the winter in the San Rafael Yacht Harbor. Here, he spends the days remembering with a vivid memory his first days at school in Evansville, Ind., in an age which is lost forever.

"School teacher's system was to pour education on the back and let it work up to the brain. Some of us needed it that way, too," he said.

"While growing up, we boys didn't wear shoes until we got to about 15 years old, and we wore denim pants that our mothers made—held up, sometimes, with one suspender."

Lincoln had been dead a few months when Wills was born in 1866. His father, James Wills, a carpenter, had returned from the Civil War a year or two before.

"Dad was a soldier under General Grant and saw him rally his men in raging battles," said Wills. "He so admired the general that he vowed that if he ever had another son, he would name him Grant."

He recalled that when he was about three, a chubby, freckle-faced, red-haired youngster, his mother was fond of him "but Dad wasn't so sure that I'd grow to be a big general like Grant."

Wills was enthralled when a brother, John, returned to his hometown after 10 years in California and told him "about the big things, especially the 32-mule team on a 16-foot harvester that threshed as it cut."

He put his corn crop in a bin, left his horse and buggy, and on Thanksgiving Day, 1887, jumped aboard a Louisville and Nashville train for St. Louis and Omaha. His mother cooked him a good stock of eats, including chicken and cookies.

"The emigrant car had a small coal stove at one end to heat and serve for cooking for 36 people," he recalled. The train ran so slowly at times, that he and a friend could run alongside and shoot prairie dogs and rabbits. Two weeks later he arrived at Roseville, Calif.

He apprenticed himself as a carpenter and studied construction engineering and architectural design by correspondence. During this period, he sent for and married his schoolmate and sweetheart, Anna Kretschmar. A few years later, the family moved to Hollister, where he launched into building contracting.

As the business prospered, he took on a partner and was left more time to study further his architectural interests under the San Jose architect, Jacob Lenzen.

When ill health forced his retirement 36 years ago, he and his wife spent a lot of time traveling throughout California, camping and fishing. One day he passed through San Rafael, liked it so much that the decided to live here.

On one trip north, it rained continually, so he set to writing his memoirs down on paper. One day, he expects to leave them to his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

When anyone asks: "How come you've lived so long, Grant?", he smiles and re-tells a story he has told many times.

"Old St. Peter has called on me two or three times, examined my record and found me short on fish, so he let me stay to fill in my quota," he said.

"I may be over the limit when he calls again, so I'll not mention the big ones that got away."

Wills remains active as a Mason and is the oldest living member of Marin Lodge 191, Free and Accepted Masons. He holds the 32nd degree and is a member of the California Bodies of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite. Recently, when he responded to the roll call at the Marin Lodge he was given a standing ovation.

Among the relatives who will attend a party Sunday at his home will be his brothers, Aaron Wills, 87, of Evansville, Ind., and Donald Wills, 78, of Santa Barbara; his sister, Mrs. Letitia Bergwitz, 83, of Gilroy; and his daughter and sons, Mrs. Gordon F. Fullerton of San Francisco, James Wills of Santa Cruz, Dr. Irving Wills of Santa Barbara, and Henry Wills of Lucerne, Lake County.

Rudolph Still Fair

Leroy Rudolph of 19 Carroll Court, Terra Linda, manager of the San Rafael branch of the Bank of America, remained in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital, where he underwent surgery Jan. 24.

Thieves Break Window, Get $2,300 Loot

Burglars broke a front window of the Miracle Music Store at 2066 Fourth Street, San Rafael, to loot it of $2,125 worth of musical instruments and $100 in cash, police reported today.

Robert W. Olney, owner, discovered the break-in yesterday.

Police Inspector Thomas F. Cheetham said a three-foot square window in the store front was broken. The window is eight feet above street level, indicating one burglar must have boosted another up to it, Cheetham said.

Six guitars, two amplifiers, and a saxophone were taken, in addition to the cash, he reported. The merchandise was carried out a back door, he said.

"They must have known what they were looking for. They took some of our best guitars," James Joyce, a partner in the store, said today.

fitting, Chief Huck decided to make an exception and permitted what he assumed to be a limited solicitation," Brown reported.

He noted that there had been "two specific instances in the past where donations for public buildings had been condoned, apparently without direct authorization by the city council."

About 35 telephone calls were made and one personal contact, Brown reported. About seven checks were obtained by officers in uniform. Huck stopped this practice when he learned about it, said the city manager.

"The city owes a debt of gratitude to the chamber for bringing this to our attention so as to permit whatever could be done to rectify the situation," he added.

He emphasized that the soliciting was done "openly" and in an honest attempt to perform a constructive service for the city.

Brown also noted that "the police department's dedication is exemplified in that over 150 man hours were spent by off-duty patrolmen in preparing the new quarters for occupancy."

Mayor Jan Paul Dyk commented: "I go on record that we want no future solicitations of any sort by anybody of any department in the city—no matter how noble the purpose. If they want something, they should come to the council first."

"I have always opposed this type of thing," said Councilman Earl F. Dunphy.

Dyk ended the discussion saying he wanted to invite all Sausalitans and guests to an informal dedication of the new police station at 10 a.m. Saturday. The open house will last until 2 p.m., he said.

Anti-Bombing Faction Foiled In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) —Critics lost a fight in the Senate today to reopen before the Foreign Relations Committee their attacks on administration policy in Viet Nam.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois blocked a request by chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., that the committee be excepted from the rule which prevents all except the appropriations group from meeting while the Senate is in session.

Fulbright joined Mansfield today in urging the administration to accept what they interpreted as a willingness of Hanoi and Peking to reopen the 1954 Geneva Conference. They were supported by Sens. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Ga., both members of the Foreign Relations Committee.

The senators based their fresh hope for negotiations on a North Vietnamese statement transmitted by Radio Hanoi and Peking's New China News Agency. The statement said the Viet Nam question "falls within the competence of the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina."

Led by opposition from the Soviet Union and France, the 15-member U.N. Security Council delayed until today a vote on a U.S. request or peace discussions. Observers said the opposition virtually killed any chances for immediate U.N. action.

carpet there and in the connecting family room.

The Johnstones went through the house, room by room. They came upon Mrs. Rudloph's body in the bathtub and called the police.

Chief Chiesa said there was no evidence of burglary, other than one drawer open in a chest of drawers in the bedroom and a few articles of clothing scattered on the floor — which may have been left there by Mrs. Rudolph hereself.

Neither of the Rudolphs' two daughters had been at home last night.

grow up with respect for the rights of others, then, it seems to me, it is desirable to seek methods of police protection that recognize and champion these rights rather than flout them."

Terming this a "serious and sensitive" matter, Mayor Jan Paul Dyk, with council approval, appointed Councilman Alexander R. Imlay and Melvin S. Wax to meet with City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, Wellington and Huck to study the subject. Wellington, in the audience, said "very good."

"Apparently there is an indication," said Dyk, "that when a boy comes from Marin City he is more frequently questioned than a boy from another city. And that, of course, is wrong. We can't have that."

"Aiside from this particular case, I feel the police are doing a good job in that respect," said Councilman Earl F. Dunphy. "I have no objections to them stopping anybody, including myself. If they thought I was in the wrong place or wanted to question me, I would have no objection myself."

Mayor Dyk requested Brown to advise Chief Huck he must henceforth wear his uniform except when on out-of-town duty or while engaged in activities where it would not be practical. "I think it is good in a small town that we have more public image," said Dyk.

The council asked the manager and police chief to report to the council on how foot patrols can be increased without endangering other parts of the law enforcement program.

The citizens council letter, signed by President Arie Slikkerveer, stressed that the foot patrol is more necessary since the police station has been moved from downtown. Brown said that there is a foot patrol now but he could not give the exact hours.

Raymond G. Gergus, in the audience, suggested that walkie-talkies might be used by police to improve communications on foot patrol. Brown said the police department has a walkie-talkie.

resumed. Details of the raid were not immediately disclosed.

A U.S. military spokesman said the jet bombers conducted 20 armed reconnaissance missions over the north.

B-52 bombers of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) pounded suspected Communist positions in support of the 1st Cavalry Division troops involved in "Operation Masher" near Bong Son. It was in this region that the American helicopters accidentally fired on the 1st Cavalry troops.

The aerial artillery helicopters were on station preparing to attack Viet Cong targets along the coast. A plume of yellow smoke from a flare was to have been the signal marking the Communist positions for the U.S. aircraft.

A radio operator accompanying Col. Harold G. Moore, commander of the Cavalry's 3rd Brigade, accidentally dropped a smoke grenade while cutting through some brush. The pin dropped out and the nearby troops froze as yellow smoke rose into the sky.

OBITUARIES

James E. Cruise Dies At 46

Merchant seaman James E. Cruise, 46, of San Geronimo, fell from the boarding ladder of the cargo ship Truman Kimbro Jan. 20 and drowned in the heavy current of the Saigon River in the capital of South Viet Nam.

Cruise, retired after 20 years of service in the Coast Guard, had been with the Merchant Marine since 1960. He had sailed aboard ships serving Viet Nam for the past three years.

A native of Wesley, Iowa, he had been a California resident for 20 years, for the past four years at 90 Tamarac Road, San Geronimo.

He was a member of Court Marin 1950, Independent Order of Foresters, and was a veteran of World War II and the Korean War.

Mass of Requiem will be said Friday at St. Cecilia's Church, Lagunitas, at 9:30 a.m. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Cruise is survived by his wife, Shirley A. Cruise of San Geronimo; a son, Jeffery Cruise, and a daughter, Susan Cruise, both of San Francisco; a brother, Vincent Cruise of Wesley, Iowa; and four sisters, Mrs. Phyllis Mullin of Britt, Iowa; Mrs. Patricia Myhr of Fort Collins, Colo.; Mrs. Evangeline Kelly of Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Jean May of Columbia City, Ind.

asks a two-thirds increase in health programs to more than $150 million.

Johnson's education proposals ranged from establishment of an "exchange peace corps" with an initial goal of 5,000 foreign volunteers who would serve in this country, to expanded U.S. aid for promoting construction of facilities and development of techniques to fight illiteracy throughout the world.

His suggestions for a world wide health program ran from eradication of malaria within 10 years and elimination of smallpox by 1975, to an enlarged cooperation in efforts to deal with the worsening problem of population growth.

"We call on rich nations and poor nations to join with us—to help each other and to help themselves," Johnson said. "This must be the first work of the world for generations to come . . ."

The President said his proposed "international education and health act of 1966" would cost a total of $524 million in the coming fiscal year. He said this would include $354 million in the foreign aid program; $103 million for the Department of Health Education and Welfare; $11 million in the Peace Corps program and $56 million in the State Department cultural and education program.

even though the district directors are the tract developers.

Meanwhile, Fred G. Morrill of 60 Montego Key wrote grand jury foreman George R. Scott today complaining about apparent violations of the government code, including Section 61302 entitled: "Self-interest of directors and officers is prohibited."

The section reads as follows:

"Directors and officers of the district shall not be interested in any contract made by the district and shall not be purchasers at any sale nor vendors at any purchase made by the district."

Anthony said the section is not given the broad interpretation suggested by its title, but refers only to actual transactions by individual directors or officers.

District taxes have been paying for street lighting in the West's tract for two years.

In his letter to Scott, Morrill complained that repeated efforts by him and a committee of the Bel Marin Keys Home Owners Assn. to find the date and location of the district meetings had failed.

Section 61221 of the government code states that the board of directors at its first meeting "shall provide for the time and place of holding its regular meetings."

The Wests have not met regularly since the district was formed in 1961, and there are no minutes of any meeting since December, 1963, according to the county auditor's report.

Morrill's letter urged investigation of the community services district.

"As homeowners, taxpayers and voters we feel that our rights in this matter have been abridged to say the least, and that an airing of this situation is long overdue," he wrote.

Scott was in a meeting of the full grand jury today and could not be reached for comment on Morrill's letter.

Anthony said the directors' actions appear "to fall short of what's required," but he was not prepared to say what he would recommend.

J. J. CASSINA

James J. Cassina, bartender at the Mission Inn, San Rafael, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness. He was 53.

A native of Brunswick, Tenn., Cassina came to California with his family as a child and grew up in the Fresno area.

During World War II, he served as an Army sergeant with the 606th Material Squad ron in Asia. He participated in the China offensive and the India-Burma campaign.

Cassina moved to Fairfax in 1946. In recent years he resided at 22 Francis Street. He had been a bartender here and in San Francisco for 20 years and was a member of Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union, Local 126.

He is survived by his wife, Gladys; two stepsons, Edward Rodgers of Fairfax and Rolza Rodgers of San Rafael; two daughters, Alice Kulman and Millie Cassina of San Rafael; his mother, Emilia Madden of San Francisco; three brothers, Edward of St. Helena, John of San Leandro and John Doughty of Redwood City; two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Wright of San Francisco and Mrs. Mary Harsha of San Leandro, and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

DOROTHY FROST

Private funeral for Mrs. Dorothy Grace Frost, 81, of Guerneville, Sonoma County, stepmother of Mrs. Bernice Fowler of San Rafael, was held yesterday in Guerneville.

Mrs. Frost died Sunday while shopping in Guerneville, apparently of a heart attack.

She was born in Covelo, member of a Potter Valley pioneer family. She taught school for many years in Potter Valley and Willits.

She is survived by three stepdaughters: Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Urla Pauli of Potter Valley, Mendocino County, and Mrs. Harriet McCracken of Portland, Ore.

ANNA MILLER

Anna Miller, a resident of San Rafael since 1957, died today at a local hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 78.

Mrs. Miller was born in Yugoslavia and came to the United States in 1912. Her husband, George Miller, a retired gardener, survives at 9 Granlee Road, where the Millers had made their home since coming to San Rafael nine years ago.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Miller is survived by two sons, Thomas Sibalich of Sunnyvale and George Sibalich of Massillon, Ohio, and a daughter, Mrs. Julia Kich of San Rafael.

Friends may call at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Funeral and burial will be at Massillon, Ohio.

ROSE E. RAVANI

Mrs. Rose E. Ravini, 83, wife of Charles Ravani, at 87 California's oldest fireman, died last night after being taken ill at her Fairfax home. Death was due to natural causes, said Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley.

Her husband said Mrs. Ravani had complained of feeling ill all day at their home, 26 Acacia Road. She went to bed about 7:25 p.m. When he could not rouse her, he called a neighbor who called police and firemen.

Mrs. Ravani was pronounced dead on arrival at San Rafael General Hospital at 8:05 p.m.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Ravani had been active with her husband in firefighting circles in Marin County for 50 years.

She wasp ast president of the auxiliary of the Marin County Assn. of Fire Departments and a member of the auxiliary of the California State Firemen's Assn.

Her husband retired in 1944, after working 30 years in the public works department of the City of Fairfax. He is the oldest member of the California State Firemen's Assn. The couple had been married 64 years.

Surviving besides her husband, are two sons, Raymond Ravani of Fairfax and Ernest Ravani of San Francisco; five daughters, Mrs. Henriette Leonard of Petaluma, Mrs. Cecille Ott of Millbrae, Mrs. Georgette Rilla and Mrs. Leontine Damazio of Point Reyes Station, and Mrs. Carmel Murphy of San Anselmo; 14 grandchildren, and 11 great-grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered in St. Rita's Church, Fairfax, Friday at 10 a.m. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

ELLA B. ALLRED

Ella Bevan Allred, wife of Bishop Wallace N. Allred of the Novato ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, died yesterday after a sudden illness in Novato. She was 63.

Mrs. Allred was born in Tooele, Utah, and educated in schools in that state. She came to San Francisco in 1922, where she married the future bishop in 1926. As first counselor of the San Francisco Stake presidency, her husband was for many years the second-ranking Mormon in San Francisco. He has been a bishop for 20 years, in San Francisco and Novato.

The Allreds moved to Novato in 1956. The family home is at 90 Corte Ariba, Loma Verde.

Mrs. Allred was very active in church affairs. She was a member of the church's Women's Relief Society, taught Sunday school, and worked with the Mutual Improvement Assn., church youth group.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Allred is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank J. Wheelwright, and a son, Wallace N. Allred Jr., both of San Jose; her mother, Annie E. Bevan of Utah; four brothers, Floyd Bevan of San Mateo, Leo and Lavar Bevan of Utah and Rulon Bevan of Sacramento; a sister, Mrs. Randall Wood of Utah, and six grandchildren.

Funeral will be at the Chapel of Marin, Novato, at 10 a.m. Friday. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Will Parallel Parking Hurt, Help Downtown San Rafael Problems?

By WAT TAKESHITA
(Second of three articles)

Will a switch from diagonal to parallel parking on San Rafael's main street cause more congestion or less?

Will such a changeover encourage more shoppers or drive them away to outlying shopping centers?

Proponents and opponents of parallel parking are slugging away at each other on these questions.

In one corner is the Committee Against Parallel Parking, which is circulating a petition to keep the status quo.

And in the other corner is a group for parallel parking, headed by merchant Irving Chapman.

Here are some of the arguments advanced by the Committee Against Parallel Parking:

1. Most women drivers, who will not park parallel, will be driven away fro San Rafael.

2. San Rafael is in a desperate struggle to survive in the face of new shopping centers, which have diagonal parking spaces. Parallel parking might be a death blow at this time.

3. A seemingly reasonable estimate of loss of business by barring 139 cars from San Rafael during peak hours would be $75,000 to $100,000 per year.

4. Parallel parking will increase double parking, especially by trucks.

5. It takes up to 10 times longer to park parallel. Although Fifth Avenue is narrower, traffic is often backed up more than two blocks while only one car parks parallel. Fourth Street is not that much wider, and cars trying to swing out and past would be a definite hazard.

6. Most people prefer diagonal parking.

In other words, parallel parking would drive away shoppers, especially women. It would congest traffic even more than now, and the city would lose heavily in sales tax revenue from a drastic drop in sales.

These are the arguments of the Committee Against Parallel Parking.

Not so, says the group in favor of parallel parking and opening up Fourth Street. Those for parallel parking give these rebuttals:

1. Licensed drivers have passed parallel parking tests. Many women drivers can and do park parallel. The one block in front of the courthouse where one side is parallel provides an example. Drivers stop and back into paralell spaces while traffice continues to move.

2. Yes, San Rafael is struggling to survive in the face of new shopping centers. With tail fins sticking out into the street from both sides, no wonder shoppers stay away. Paralleling parking will open up the street and encourage shoppers to Fourth Street.

3. Parking spaces will be reduced by 89, not 139. The loss of 89 will be more than offset by a wider street that will attract shoppers. Other parking spaces are available on cross streets and on city parking lots, a block away, which are not used to capacity.

4. Parallel parking will not increase double parking. Traffic patrols will see to that.

5. True, parallel parking takes longer than pulling into a diagonal stall. But how about getting out?

Objections to parallel parking were more valid before power steering. Now, most cars can be maneuvered with two fingers.

6. Most people oppose diagonal parking on Fourth Street because it makes the traveled lane too narrow. Parallel parking would permit cars to double park while backing into a space, while traffic continued to flow in the middle lanes. The difference has been noticeable on B Street, before and since parallel parking.

Hospital Aides Get Pay Boosts

Marin Hospital District directors last night raised, by $1,500 each, the annual salaries of William W. Turner, Marin General Hospital administrator, and Robert Mathews, assistant administrator.

Turner's salary was increased from $22,800 to $24,300; Mathews' from $12,000 to $13,500. Both raises were made retroactive to Jan. 1.

Directors took the action after evaluating the administrators for over an hour in closed session and for half that time again in open meeting.

Directors last week raised salaries of all other hospital employees and hiked the average hospital room rate by $3 a day.

Marin Hospital District directors also:

1. Authorized Turner, Dr. T. Scott Strathairn, chief of staff, and Dr. Donald Barbour, president of the staff, to begin screening and interviewing applicants for the job of medical coordinator. Directors have budgeted $25,000 for the position, for a doctor who will coordinate between Turner and the hospital staff.

2. Rejected a proposal by Director Hadden W. Roth that the board meet twice monthly and adjourn each meeting by 10 p.m., deciding to continue with one meeting a month.

3. Received a complaint for $10,000 damages from John Robert Nelson, who claimed his son walked into a hospital door and lost some teeth. The claim was refered to the district's insurance carrier.

4. Instructed Turner to request that the federal government consider the hospital eligible to participate in the Medicare program.

5. Agreed to hold their regular meeting on Feb. 23, instead of Feb. 22, which is a holiday.

Marin College Gets Fuller Accreditation

College of Marin has been given four-year accreditation by the Western Assn. of Schools and Colleges, President Stephen E. Epler announced today.

The accreditation allows College of Marin students to transfer credits to any four-year college or university. An inspection team from the association inspected programs and facilities at the Kentfield campus in November.

Personnel Board Role To Be Topic

The function of the Marin County Personnel Commission will be discussed on the KTIM radio program, "Marin Sounding Board," tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Taking part will be Margaret Lucas, a member of the commission and personnel supervisor for Bechtel Corp.; Alan Bruce, county administrator; Paul A. Brusseau, vice president of Marin County Employees Assn., and County Supervisor Thomas T. Storer.

A recording of the discussion will be re-broadcast Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Annexation Letter Form Is Approved

The North Marin County Water District board last night approved a form letter asking for views on the proposed Northwest Marin annexation to the district.

The letter will be sent to 450 owners of 700 parcels of property in the 44-square mile area of the proposed annexation.

It will have three blanks to be checked:

(1) Favor annexation, (2) Will not oppose annexation if the district and county feel it should go through, and (3) Oppose annexation.

It will also ask for comments.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

1. Approved a change order on the Wild Horse Valley tank site which calls for moving more dirt because of a slide at an additional cost of $550 and added a safety fence on top of the Black Point Improvement District crest tank at a cost of $720.

2. Postponed until its next meeting discussion of a plan to improve water service in the Black Point area.

Marine Graduated

Marine Pvt. Richard Ward, son of Mrs. Geneva J. Ward of 709 Cherry Street, Novato, has graduated from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at San Diego.

Medicare Confusion Told To Supervisors

Marin County supervisors learned yesterday that the impact of the medicare program on county finances and the manner in which medicare will be administered remain in a state of confusion.

Betty L. Presley, directors of the Marin County Social Services Department, submitted a letter explaining the situation as she understood it. Supervisors had trouble understanding the explanation, and Miss Presley said the situation had so many conflicts and was changing so rapidly that she would probably have an entirely new report in a week.

She wanted to know if supervisors had any questions.

"It's so confusing. I don't know what questions to ask," Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said.

The confusion seems to be in conflicts between the federal bill and the state bill that is to implement state administration of it.

The new federal law will take effect March 1. Miss Presley said some state officials have told her there will not be much change in county medical aid for indigents until June.

Supervisors agreed to discuss the problem again next week, hoping it will be less of a muddle by then.

Truck Driver Outpaces Stork

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Robert Thesken is thankful that Willie Dubose, a truck driver, came along when he did.

The expectant mother was being taken to the hospital yesterday by her husband. Their car became hopelessly stuck in snow on a hilly street.

Thesken flagged down Dubose. Mrs. Thesken finished the trip in the cab of his huge truck, and gave birth to a son an hour later.

New Scandal Hits Italian Leaders

ROME (AP) — Premier Aldo Moro's government grappled with a new scandal today — charges that 12 officials embezzled more than $1.6 million in state funds.

Those named yesterday by prosecutor Giulio Franco and ordered to stand trial included a former Christian Democratic deputy, Giuseppe Rapelli, president of the state agency for trade worker assistance, and Corrado Bertagnolio, director of the National Institute for Industrial Accident Assistance.

The prosecutor charged that the officials spent state funds improperly on a variety of businesses, instead of organizing schools only for workers.

The 12 contended their activities were legal and known to the Labor Ministry.

Novato Asks Officially For Park Site

The Novato City Council last night officially requested the Novato Unified School District board to allow the Little League to put a baseball park on the Rancho School site, to be maintained by the city.

City Mgr. J. Julien Baget said the little league proposes to construct the facility and turn it over to the city to maintain and the city would construct rest room facilities on adjacent land it plans to acquire.

The school board last week delayed action on the proposal to check into its legality.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack estimated it would cost the city from $2,000 to $4,000 per year to maintain the park. No mention was made of the cost of constructing rest rooms on the adjacent land, or the fact that the Novato civic foundation had been requested to buy the land before the city gets its money from a 30-cent special parks acquisition tax this year.

Soaring Court Costs Jolt Supervisors Into Queries

Marin County supervisors yesterday approved a transfer of $16,250 from reserves to cover unpredicted court costs, including increase in reporting and transcribing and a big jump in jury trials.

In the last half of 1965 there were 28 jury trials in municipal courts compared with seven in the same period the previous year.

"I'm just amazed," Supervisor Thomas T. Storer declared. He ask that County Administrator Alan Bruce look further into the records to seek the reason for the increase.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr wondered whether a saving could be made by having court reporters on salary, rather than on a per diem basis with extra charges on transcripts. Bruce said he had already been looking into this side and would soon have a recommendation.

Board members also learned that there is proposed legislation under study which would take minor traffic cases out of the jury trial option for defendants.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

1. Approved preliminary plans prepared by Kaplan and McLaughlin on the $1,350,000 community mental health center at Marin General Hospital which will include federal financing with $150,000 each from the county and the hospital district and another $150,000 to be raised through private donations. The board learned that the drive for private donations is under way. Architect Ellis Kaplan said that final plans must be completed May 2.

2. Saw a mockup on rearrangement of the tables in the planning commission and supervisors' hearing rooms, designed to let members see each other better at meetings. Supervisors have explained their tendency to interrupt each other by saying they cannot see each other with the present seating. No decision was made yesterday.

3. Declared Feb. 16 "League of Women Voters Day" in Marin. The league plans to launch a fund-raising drive then.

4. Approved planned residential zoning with a density maximum of 3.3 dwelling units per acre on 10.5 acres owned by George Sandbach on San Marin Drive north of Novato. The property was in agricultural zoning.

5. Approved residential zoning to allow the 68-lot Oceana Marina subdivision at Dillon Beach where average lot size will be 8,000 square feet.

6. Authorized contract with Fairfax for a $23,292 general plan study for the city and surrounding area to be done by the county planning department. Cost will be borne largely by state and federal contributions with the city and county putting up $3,930 each.

7. Set hearing next Tuesday on a proposed ordinance that would require undergrounding of utility lines in connection with major street improvement projects.

8. Set hearing next Tuesday on a proposed ordinance setting standards on private drives entering public rights of way.

9. Agreed to discuss next Tuesday a department of public works policy on disposal of heavy equipment based on equipment use factors.

10. Hired Ronald E. Taylor as a fire warden at $486 a month.

11. Adjourned at 5:50 p.m.

Father Held For Beating Of Daughter

Airman 2-c Harold Dean Pennington, 27, was arrested by sheriff's officers yesterday on a complaint charging misdemeanor beating of his 3-year-old daughter.

Juvenile Deputy William Johansen said Pennington, stationed at Mount Tamalpais Radar Station, allegedly bruised the girl, Ada, and caused her to break her left arm while disciplining her for bed-wetting.

He said Pennington is accused of holding her under a cold water tap at their home in Hilarita Housing, Tiburon, Jan. 7, when she slipped from his grasp, fell and broke the limb.

He took her to Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital, Johansen said, told hospital authorities the girl fell out of bed.

Merger Studied By Youth Groups

Marin Youth for Action and the Marin Youth Council, whose members are high school and college students throughout the county, will merge, it has been announced.

The merger will take place after March 19 Marin Youth Conference at the College of Marin, sponsored by the Marin Youth for Action. More than 1,000 teenagers are expected to attend.

The name of the new combined youth group has not yet been decided, according to council head Randy Homrig of Redwood High School and the action group's leaders, Joe Friedman of Tamalpais High School and Peggy Blackmore of Dominican High School.

Marin Artists' Show Variety Of Works

The Storm Center Gallery in Forest Knolls is presenting through March 30 a "Variety Show" by Marin County artists.

The exhibit includes batiks and metal sculpture by Miriam C. Rice, oil paintings by Jane Berg and paintings in mixed media by Poppee and Dennis Patton. Hours are noon to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Only Party Lines To Be Phased Out

Party line phone service, not telephone service, may soon be eliminated in Marshall.

An omission of words in Monday's Independent-Journal led to the erroneous statement that Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. was seeking to "eliminate phone service" in the area.

Sausalito May Assist Lawsuit Over Zoning

The City of Sausalito may enter a suit filed yesterday challenging the legality of planned community zoning by Marin County.

The city council last night asked City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to study the suit and make a recommendation on whether the city should support it.

"I think it is quite clear that Sausalito feels and the council has expressed itself to be vitally affected in the area known as Marincello," said Mayor Jan Paul Dyk.

"We feel residents of Sausalito are in harmony with those who have brought the suit," said Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for plaintiffs, Marin Assn. for Planning and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Van der Male and Mr. and Mrs. Hal McIntyre of Sausalito.

"It is not an attack on Mr. Frouge or Marincello. It is an attack on improper exercise of a public function—namely the power of zoning."

Jordan told councilmen that it is legally possible for the city to share in expenses of the suit which might run to several thousand dollars.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

1. Took no action on a resolution proposed by city planning commissioners urging delay in widening Bridgeway between Princess and Richardson streets until work on the central waterfront plan has progressed farther, but agreed to support the commission's resolution asking liaison with Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District in order to be informed of any plans for additional bridge approaches.

2. Heard Mayor Dyk proclaim Mar. 5-11 as "Sister City Week," honoring the sixth anniversary of the sister city relationship between Sausalito and Vina del Mar, Chile.

3. Adopted resolution calling for the municipal election April 12.

4. Adopted a community television antenna ordinance — the fifth draft of the ordinance, but deferred action on request of Sausalito Community TV System to extend its system from Richardson Street to the northern city limits.

6. Approved plans and specifications for widening Glen Drive between Santa Rosa and Currey avenues and called for bids. Cost is estimated at $9,000.

7. Named councilmen Melvin S. Wax and Eleanor O'Hara Chapin to screen candidates and recommend an architect to design a corporation yard building.

8. Approved claims of $6,324 for repairs to new police headquarters at 29 Caledonia Street.

9. Asked Jordan to prepare an ordinance for Feb. 15 proposing a four per cent hotel tax, Wax saying the money might be earmarked for some special cultural or recreational activity and that the state is expected to impose the tax and would get the revenue unless the city places the tax.

11. Asked Jordan to pursue with Albert K. Engel, owner of the Glad Hand restaurant, and San Francisco Bay Construction Development Commission, an agreement for Engle to dedicate 45 feet of his lot to the city in exchange for a city lease of land farther out in the bay, since the city is contemplating widening Bridgeway.

12. Adjourned in respect to Royal J. Conner of 10 Glen Drive, who died Jan. 25.

Three Marinites At Marine Recruit Base

Three Marin County men have enlisted in the Marine Corps and are at present undergoing basic training in San Diego.

They are: Jeffrey E. Love, 24 Alderwood Way, San Rafael, a graduate of the College of Marin; Timothy R. Witt, 1411 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, a graduate of San Rafael High School, and Larry E. Ross, 153 Kelly Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base, a graduate of Booker T. Washington High School, Montgomery, Ala.

Convicted Burglar Draws Nine Months

Ellis Mannell Billings, 35, was sentenced to nine months in county jail and placed on three years probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for a June 12 burglary at the Fairfax Veterinary Clinic and four counts of forgery.

Billings, of San Francisco, had completed 90 days observation at California Medical Facility in Vacaville prior to the sentencing. He was convicted of the felonies last October.

Span Discussion

The insurance committee of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board will meet in the district offices in the administration building at the toll plaza on Feb. 11 at 10 a.m.

Marinwood Recreation Is Reviewed

Members of the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission last night reviewed the recreation program with its new director, William A. Gordon.

Gordon, formerly with the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District, was asked to review building rules and teen rules. He suggested that a trip to the snow and a trip to an ice hockey game be included in the program. Commissioners approved.

The commission agreed to start the Monday and Friday tennis lessons on Feb. 28. Mrs. Roberta Carlson will be instructor.

Other programs approved last night include an adult art class to start March 2, and a children's arts and crafts course to start soon, according to Mrs. Genevieve Bolding, secretary for the Marinwood Community Services District board, which operates the recreation program.

Heart Fund Drive Plans Announced

The 1966 Heart Fund Campaign which opened yesterday in Marin will continue through Feb. 28, campaign chairman Fred Brylka has announced.

The drive will be climaxed Feb. 27 by a residential canvass of county homes by some 3,000 men and women volunteers.

Yesterday, 18 Marin County town chairmen of the drive previewed the new heart film, "Why a Heart Fund?" The film is available to all clubs and organizations upon request to the Marin County Heart Assn.

Master Plan Due Further Study

The Novato City Council agreed in general on the Novato Master Plan at its hearing last night, but made minor map changes and postponed action on adoption until next Tuesday night.

The council agreed on land use, public facilities, and parks and recreation elements. The streets and highways portion of the plan was not discussed, on recommendation of Robert Lagle, city planning director.

MORE STUDY

"We would like a make a further study of the streets and highways plan," Lagle told the council. He said that the Ignacio Boulevard route through the Marin Junior College site, the Hill-Mill road connections, and the freeway through San Marin needed more study.

The council deleted land use designations for four areas, marking them for future study.

Among these is the central business district between Grant Avenue, Highway 101, Diablo Avenue and South Novato Boulevard. Councilman William Jack Adams said it might be 40 years before businesses are ready to move in to make this actually the central business district.

CENTRAL DISTRICT

He urged making the area from Grant Avenue north to Olive from Highway 101 to Seventh Street as the central business district. On this, however, he got no support from other councilmen.

Also marked for further study were the area south of Novato Boulevard from Diablo to Tamalpais Avenue, the Nave Gardens area, and the area between Virginia Avenue and Novato Boulevard, from our Lady of Loretto Catholic Church to Simmons Lane.

George a. Amaroli of 11 Rebecca Way sked what would become of agricultural land surrounding the city.

Lagle said land in steep hills would probably always remain agricultural.

Wayne F. Sartain of 141 San Felipe Way asked about green belts, such as were in the San Marin Master Plan.

Lagle said no definite provision had yet been made for green belts.

He suggested the city council should consider adopting a policy soon on what it would do with green belt lands dedicated to the city in San Marin and Bahia.

"We cannot tell the developers whether they will be accepted by the city or whether they will stay on the tax rolls at the expense of the owner," he said.

Lagle was instructed to have the new land use map of the master plan and changes in the text prepared for the council's consideration next Tuesday.

Mayor Robert D. Carrow asked City Mgr. J. Julien Baget to also prepare for next Tuesday a report on the effectiveness of the Novato Green River ordinance, which outlaws house-to-house salesmen.

June Election Shunned By CMSD Board

Corte Madera Sanitary District directors last night voted unanimously not to consolidate their district election with the primary elections in June, saying they feared the effects of the "lame duck" period which would result.

Robert M. Haight, attorney for the district, said the county supervisors suggestion that the election be combined with the primary would mean directors elected would not take office until January, as provided in the government code for county officers.

Directors wrote the board of supervisors that they would consolidate the election if newly elected directors could take office in July. District elections have been held in September.

Directors also sent back to Roemer and Estes, developers of Madera Park tract, a petition to form an assessment district to provide sewer service to their tract. The directors suggested they get the signatures of six property owners in Chapman Park so service could be provided to that area at the same time.

In 1965, signals received by radio astronomers at Arecibo, Puerto Rico, indicated that Mercury turns on its axis once every 54 to 64 days. Today the concensus is that Mercury rotates once every 59 days.

Worker Suing Over Accident

A Novato construction worker, whose hard hat reportedly saved his life, is suing a Santa Clara County bricklaying company for $20,000 damages.

Frank Novak, 45, of 4 Fabian Court, alleges negligence by the firm of Grosken Inc., last Nov. 16 resulted in concrete blocks falling on him at the building site of McGraw-Hill Book Co. near Novato.

He suffered head and neck injuries. His boss, Glen Glasgow, superintendent for McDonald and Nelson, Oakland contractors, said Novak's hard hat prevented a fatality.

Novato Police Find Runaway Youngster

James Allen Price, 16, was picked up by Novato police last night and booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall as a runaway.

The boy's father, Paul J. Price of 35 Crescent Lane, Novato, had reported James ran away from home Sunday evening.

San Quentin Convict Gets Execution Stay

William Earl Cotter Jr. celebrated his 25th birthday today with a light heart. His execution in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber, scheduled for next Wednesday, had been postponed pending an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Cotter was convicted of stabbing to death a 63-year-old woman in Los Angeles in October, 1963. He has been on Death Row since March, 1964.

He was told of the stay of execution last week but public announcement was held up until confirmation was received from the U.S. Supreme Court, Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today.

The execution date of only one other inmate remains in effect. Dovie Carl Mathis, 29, convicted of the murder of Vernon Ray in the San Jose area in 1963, has been scheduled to die March 1. He has filed an appeal.

Prison Stab Trial Drawing To Close

Closing arguments are expected tomorrow in the Marin Superior Court jury trial of three San Quentin Prison inmates charged with assaulting a fellow prisoner, Myford G. Duncan, 24, on Jan. 21, 1965.

The case, which started last Dec. 27, could then go to jury deliberation Monday, according to Michael Dufficy, deputy district attorney. John and James Schrekengost, brothers, and Russell Dillard are defendants.

To Buy Video

Members of the Marinwood Volunteer Firemen's Assn. last night agreed to finance repair of the television set in the firehouse, put up $25 for California and U.S. flags for a Girl Scout troop, and agreed to sponsor a Little League ball club, Fire Chief James Cameron reported.

Education Board Due New Leader

Carl J. Brown, senior member of San Rafael Board of Education with service since 1963, appears in line for president of the board if he decides he wants the position.

Two members indicated yesterday they would support Brown if he wished to fill the chairmanship created last week with the resignation of Walter J. Doll.

Mrs. Anita C. Strom said: "I would be in accord with that proposal. Mr. Brown, by reason of his seniority and experience, would seem to me to be quite efficient in that post."

"I supported him as vice president," said Laurence L. Kramer Jr., "and I would vote for him as president if he wanted it."

The third remaining member, Walter R. Castro Jr., said: "Protocol might dictate that Brown automatically goes into the job, but I have not discussed this with anyone yet. I am keeping a completely open mind."

CARL J. BROWN
In line for presidency

San Rafael City Council has until Feb. 16 to appoint a new member to the school board, now reduced to four members by the resignation of Doll.

The board chooses its own officers. Brown has been vice president.

Glover Defense To Close Case

Testimony for the defense in the assault trial of Robert Gene Glover, San Quentin Prison inmate, is expected to end late tomorrow in Marin Superior Court.

Five witnesses have been called thus far by William O. Weissich, attorney for Glover, a lifer who allegedly stabbed Henry L. Wolfenden, 28, at San Quentin on Sept. 18, 1963. He was convicted, but the new trial was ordered by First District Court of Appeals.

Defense witnesses have testified Glover feared Wolfenden was going to injure him.

New Rates Prepared For Fairfax Pavilion

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission last night prepared a new set of rates and regulations for use of the Fairfax Pavilion.

The commission's recommendations will go before the city council for approval Feb. 14.

Supervisors Vote To Repair Airport, Ask Federal Cash

Kettenhofen Objects That Site Isn't Worth $300,000

Marin County supervisors yesterday voted 4-1 to improve the county airport at Novato to Federal Aviation Agency standards, at initial county cost of $175,929.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who cast the dissenting vote, argued that the eventual county cost will come to $300,000 and the investment is not justified at the Novato location.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss, representing the Novato area, moved first that an application for $206,144 in federal funds be reactivated. This is the Federal Aviation Agency's estimated share (54 per cent) in the project.

Kettenhofen tried to put a substitute motion on the floor calling for expenditure of $140,000 in county money only, to realign and improve the runway. He got no second and Gnoss's motion passed 4-1.

Gnoss then moved that the county department of public works and county counsel start negotiating for the additional 65 acres needed for the improvement plan. This also passed 4-1 with Kettenhofen again dissenting.

Gnoss also moved that $58,421 be transferred from unappropriated reserve to the airport fund. This again was a 4-1 vote.

The county must have its share of the funding earmarked before the application for federal aid can be approved, County Administrator Alan Bruce explained.

Need for the transfer was due partly to the necessity of buying out the exclusive airport lease of Harry O. Tollefson at $17,500, and partly because $18,000 in state contributions to the airport fund from gasoline taxes has been frozen by the county auditor pending a state audit.

Both state and federal funding programs have been blocked by the exclusive lease to Tollefson.

Gnoss next moved that the County Aviation Commission, which voted 6-1 in favor of proceeding with the federal program, be thanked for its work. This passed unanimously.

Benjamin R. Ostlind, chairman of the aviation commission and the dissenter in that group's recommendation, drew a rebuke from Gnoss, who thought Ostlind was making a face while Gnoss was pleading for approval of the federal project.

"I demand respect," Gnoss said, interrupting his plea.

Ostlind explained that he had a new tooth and was not making a face, and intended no disrespect.

After approving the project, supervisors discussed at length Kettenhofen's plea that the City of Novato promise not to annex the airport and take the sales tax revenues to city rather than county coffers.

Supervisors eventually agreed that this would be an impractical requirement, and suggested instead that the city of Novato agree to rebate enough sales tax to cover cost of county services at the airport should it be annexed. The board asked Bruce to see what kind of agreement could be arranged with the city.

Sig K. Herzog Jr., president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, presented a resolution urging that the county approve the $140,000 plan that would realign and improve the runway, but not involve federal funds. However, Kettenhofen was the only board member to endorse the suggestion.

STATE EYES COST OF PRISON MOVE

San Quentin Replacement Study Going On Almost Without Notice

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—An unpublicized study is being made in Sacramento to see how much it would cost to relocate San Quentin Prison.

Although no one at the capitol is willing to be quoted on exact cost figures, the study is expected to show that the cost (perhaps as much as $65 million) would make relocation economically unfeasible.

The study, which will go to the legislature during the coming session, will point out that three 1,200-prisoner institutions would be required to replace San Quentin.

The cost of such replacement is high because San Quentin has highly-developed industrial and vocational training facilities.

Ten thousand dollars for the study was authorized in the budget passed by the legislature last year, but it went almost unnoticed because the item came as an addition to the main budget.

Item 342 in a little pamphlet that lists changes in the main budget notes that $10,000 is set aside for a "study of the economic feasibility of replacing the state prison at San Quentin in a new location."

The office of the legislative analyst requested the study, said C. Ed Ohlsson, senior administrative analyst. "Several legislators had been talking about it, and so we thought it would be a good idea to study the cost."

Neither Sen. John F. McCarthy nor Assemblyman William T. Bagley of Marin was aware that the study was being made.

The study was assigned to the office of architecture and construction of the Department of Finance.

Glen Brunson, construction analyst in the Department of Finance, said the report should be completed this week. He declined to reveal the specifics until the report is turned over to the legislature.

Brunson said 1,200-prisoner institutions are considered by Department of Corrections officials as best for effective control of inmates. He noted three such prisons would be required to replace San Quentin.

(The inmate population of San Quentin was 3,630 today, reported Associate Warden James W. L. Park. Additional facilities elsewhere have enabled the Department of Corrections to reduce the San Quentin population in recent years. In the past, it has gone as high as 6,000.)

George Oakley, field representative in the Department of Corrections in Sacramento, said he was aware of the study being made. The Department of Corrections has taken the stand that replacement of San Quentin is unfeasible because of the cost.

Meeting Rescheduled

Directors of the Marinwood Assn. will meet at 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the Marinwood Community Center. A meeting scheduled last night was cancelled.

ROSS VALLEY PRINT OF THE YEAR

"Day's End," a photograph entered for competition by new member Mrs. Lucie F. Butterworth, of 2130 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, has been selected the top print of 1965 by the Ross Valley Camera Club. The picture also won third place this year in the interclub competition of the Northern California Council of Camera Clubs and first place in the interclub competition held in August by the Ross Valley club.

Broemmel Tells Farm Preserve Tax Savings

Reduction in assessment of land placed in agricultural preserves in Marin could range from 8 to 57 per cent, according to County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel.

Broemmel submitted a table to county supervisors yesterday, emphasizing that it should be considered only a guide on assessments.

As unrestricted land values rise, the percentage of reduction on land restricted for agricultural use under a 10-year contract would go up, he noted.

For instance, land valued at $100 an acre without restriction would still be at $100 an acre with the restriction. Broemmel explained that the only use possible for such land would be agricultural and the restriction would make no difference.

However, land at an unrestricted value of $175 would be valued at $161 an acre, with the restriction, or a reduction of 8 per cent.

Land at $10,000 an acre unrestricted would be valued at $4,330 an acre with the restriction, a reduction of 57 per cent.

Other factors such as topography, nearness to utilities and markets also must be considered, so each property is an individual case and the guide cannot be laid down as a strict rule, Broemmel said.

Supervisors had urged last week that Broemmel give some indication of possible reductions so ranchers could decide if they wish to enter the 10-year preserve contract prior to the March 7 tax lien date.

District Seeks Federal Funds

The Lagunitas School District Board last night voted to apply for $961 under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The money would be used to purchase library books, according to Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff.

The board heard reports on preparation for the Feb. 15 election, which will decide whether the district will issue $200,000 worth of bonds and borrow another $400,000 from the state for site purchase and construction of new schools.

A report was also given on the second grade curriculum in the Lagunitas School.

Guide Dog Helps Out At Work, Too

Electrician's Assistant Gets Extra Training

By THERON A. NEWELL

Guide dogs who lead their blind masters through traffic are a common sight, but a dog who helps his blind master perform his daily work is a rare one.

Such a dog is Robbie, a German shepherd that will graduate from Guide Dogs for the Blind Saturday with his master, Jack Polston, an electrician from Santa Ana.

Robbie not only will lead his master around the city, but will take him around on his job as an electrician on construction jobs. Such work takes added training for the dog, as well as his master. Robbie is the second such dog trained by Guide Dogs for Polston.

It is the story of the courage of a man who wants to earn his own living at his chosen trade, even after he has lost his sight. Polston had worked as an electrician for 13 years when he lost his sight in an industrial accident. He was using a grinder when the wheel broke and blinded him. That was 10 years ago.

For a year and one-half, he was off work, but he knew that he could still be useful if he could get around on a construction job. He applied to Guide Dogs and was given a dog.

In addition to the usual training, Larry Henegar, the instructor, gave the dog special training to help Polston find his way around on construction jobs.

It took some convincing to get the union to assign him to a job. But he proved he could do it.

"I do not want charity. I want to earn money for the man who hires me, or I do not want to work for him," Polston said.

He installs an average of 200 electrical outlets per day when other electricians average 150, he said.

The dog maneuvers him around loose lumber, roofing, sheet metal, objects not installed, or anything which could be a hazard to him. He and his first dog worked together for six years.

Last September, tragedy struck. His dog was run over by a hit-run car.

Now he is working with Robbie, under Henegar's instruction again. They have been training at the Pleasant Valley construction site of Roberts and Aguirre in Novato.

Robbie is being taught to stand still beside the electrical boxes while Polston installs a switch or outlet.

The dog also is being taught to jump ditches with him and take him up steep banks to the house or around piles of dirt and other objects which are always around a construction area.

Polston hires out through the union hall, the same as any other electrician.

"I insist that the union tell the contractor that I expect to do as good a job and work as fast as his other electricians. If I cannot, I do not want the job," he said.

Usually he works in tract houses. The men dump a supply of electrical switches, plugs and cover plates at one house. He puts these in his apron and goes from house to house. He knows that the switches will be near the doors and the wall plugs near the floor. He knows the general layout of the houses, so finding the outlets is not difficult.

Polston, who is divorced, supports twin daughters and himself with his work. Henegar will accompany him to Santa Ana for two weeks additional training with the dog.

"Did you ever think about getting apprentice wages for the dog?" he was asked.

"I never thought of that, but it might be worth a try," he grinned.

Polston will be in a graduation class of 12 on Saturday from Guide Dogs for the Blind at Los Ranchitos. The date also marks start of the annual fund-raising drive for Guide Dogs.

NO SLOW-DOWN HERE—Robbie, the Guide Dog, and his blind master, Jack Polston, leap a ditch at Pleasant Valley tract site in Novato. Polston, a Santa Ana electrician, uses dog to help him make his way around construction sites as he installs electrical outlets and switch boxes. Robbie will be the second such dog trained especially for him by Guide Dogs for the Blind.

Terra Linda Planning To Resist Annexation

Rafael is greedy for land that is developed and produces income. "They don't want Santa Venetia and would bypass San Rafael Meadows, but want us badly," he said.

One resident remarked: "We are faced again with the threat of the spreading mess of San Rafael. San Rafael has the type of government it wants. They want the mess. They got it and they're stuck with it."

One man said, "San Rafael has had 550 city planners in the past two years, and now it's going to be either a janitor or shoemaker."

Warenback said that although the Lucas Green development plan calls for a 10-acre shopping center, the developers want 50 acres of commercial zoning. "They can't get it from the county, but they feel they can get it from the city," he said.

Director Sesto Lucchi said building restrictions in the county "are higher than in the city." He suggested the area be developed first, then the question of annexation discussed.

Warenback said that when the LAFC approved San Rafael's annexation of 200 acres south of Lucal Valley Road for a Permabilt Homes subdivision, it was with the understanding that it would be the last piecemeal annexation in the area.

The Lucas Green area is now zoned for commercial and apartments, but if it went into San Rafael, it could be re-zoned all commercial, he said.

When questions arose about possible incorporation of the Terra Linda - Marinwood area, Jack Brandon, chairman of the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks Commission, said he felt discussion of incorporation "would be premature at this time."

The Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District Board will discuss the proposed annexation at 8 p.m. today at the Community Center, Brandon reported. He said he has requested the LAFC to postpone the matter. The recreation district board has not yet officially acted, he said.

Previous to tonight's session, the CSD distributed meeting notices to about 1,000 homeowners in the district which were headlined "Your Taxes Might Increase."

At the meeting, Warenback read a report by John F. Barrows, executive officer of the LAFC, on the proposed annexation, which included a recommendation that there be a study on annexing all of Terra Linda to San Rafael.

Part of Barrows' recommendation is that the LAFC postpone its hearing on the Lucas Green shopping center annexation tomorrow until March 3 to give time for representatives of the city, CSD and Terra Linda recreation district to get together "on a mutually agreeable annexation proposal" for all of Terra Linda that could be presented to Terra Linda residents for a vote.

Record Snowstorms Go On; Death Toll Rises To 145

was posted on the Ohio Turnpike from Fremont-Port Clinton to the Pennsylvania line.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain covered a large section of Kentucky and parts of eastern Tennessee and south-central West Virginia.

The heaviest snowstorm in more than 40 years moved into Kentucky, closed one-fourth of the schools and choked off traffic.

Communities which escaped the snow were pelted with freezing rain. The storm dumped 9 inches on Lexington and 10 on Covington. Louisville had 12 inches, bringing most business to a standstill. Downtown stores did not open and factory workers were sent home early.

The snow in Louisville was the worst since Jan. 14, 1918, when 10.4 inches covered the ground.

Two Army helicopters from Ft. Belvoir worked through the day Tuesday in Loudoun County delivering basic supplies to isolated areas and evacuating ill persons.

All primary roads were open in Virginia, but are still dangerous, and air and train schedules were back to near normal.

Most Virginia schools were closed.

The storm blanketed southern and central Indiana and closed hundreds of schools, industries and retail stores. Several main highways were closed.

Up to a foot of snow staggered much of southern Illinois. Schools closed, airports suspended operations and trains ran late, if at all.

In Sullivan, Ill., Lynn Swango took a bite out of the Farmers Almanac. Swango told his Sullivan High School class last fall that he would eat the almanac if its prediction of a blizzard on Feb. 1 came true.

Prediction became fact and schoolteacher Swango ate.

Entire counties of upper New York State were buried under drifts of up to 30 feet. Oswego, in the Lake Ontario area, had 102 inches on the ground.

Industry was shut down and schools and stores closed. Some newspapers didn't publish and others couldn't be delivered.

A shortage of bread and milk threatened and streets were impassable to emergency vehicles.

The streets of Syracuse, N.Y., which has a population of 216,000, were drifted in some places 10 to 15 feet deep.

In the South, freezing weather plagued Arkansas. Hazardous-driving warnings were in effect after a freezing rain and snow, the fourth significant snowfall in a dozen days. The snow measured 3 inches in northern Arkansas, closing many schools.

Thieves Siphon Gas

Mrs. Sherman W. Marble of 138 Floribel Avenue, San Anselmo, complained to police yesterday that thieves siphoned a tank full of gasoline from her car while it was parked in her driveway during the night.

Ex-Klansman Raps Burning Churches

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former McComb, Miss., Ku Klux Klansman testified today he got out of the Klan because he didn't want people to think he had anything to do with church burnings.

John E. Thornhill, 57, a farmer and oil man who said he made "millions of dollars" leasing oil rights from white and colored persons in the area, answered almost all questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., was preparing to ask the House to vote contempt of Congress citations against Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton and six other Klan officials who had refused to furnish subpoenaed documents. The committee has recommended the citations.

The citations would require the Justice Department to present charges before a federal grand jury here.

Thornhill said he didn't believe at the time that fellow members of the United Klans of America were responsible for church burnings, or for later bombings of the homes of Negro civil rights workers in the McComb area.

He said he wasn't convinced until 11 Klansmen were arrested and pleaded guilty to the dynamite bombings.

Thornhill said he got out of the Klan long before the bombings started in 1964. He said he quit after several colored churches were burned.

Fairfax Trustees Pick New Chief For Schools

William Trevethick, 51, superintendent of Susanville Elementary School District in Lassen County, was named the new superintendent of Fairfax School District last night, to succeed Homer L. Sisk on his retirement June 30.

A screening committee interviewed six candidates for the post last Saturday and recommended Trevethick be appointed.

Trevethick has been given a three-year contract, subject to annual review, with starting salary of $14,000 per year. He will take over the post July 1.

Educated at the University of California and University of Southern California, he has had experience as a teacher, a principal and superintendent. He was consultant in the Lassen County superintendent of schools office before taking the job in Susanville seven years ago.

He is married and has a family of four; three daughters aged 20, 14 and 11, and a son aged 12.

Bagley, McCarthy Meeting With Brown

Both Marin legislators, Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, were among a handful of Republicans who were invited to meet with Gov. Edmund G. Brown this afternoon to discuss the coming budget.

Senator McCarthy, who suggested that the governor call such a meeting to get Republican ideas on keeping the budget down, said he would have a statement to make after the conference.

All potatoes aren't Idahos

(only those grown in Idaho)

A climate of warm days and cool nights, high altitude, mineral-rich volcanic soils, pure mountain water—these make Idaho potatoes great. You can't get flavor, quality, and cooking versatility by simply calling any potato an Idaho potato. It has to be grown in Idaho. That's why we identify our displays and packages with our "Grown in Idaho" seal. Look for it. Buy with confidence.

Look all you want, you won't find better potatoes than those we're sure they're grown in Idaho

GROWN IN IDAHO

the frenchiest fries are Idaho potatoes

This is a packet of new Instant Quaker Oatmeal. It lets you make good hot oatmeal right in your bowl. And there are 9 more like it in every box.

Just add boiling water, it's ready to eat. Try it the next hurried morning.

Venturi Doesn't Forget Help From A Hockey Boss

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ken Venturi, back on top again after a torturous hand-over-hand climb, repaid a two-year old debt today clear across the country.

He did it with a long distance telephone call to a man who may be responsible for changing the course of his entire career.

"No matter what happens," Venturi said to his benefactor, "I'll always remember what you did for me."

The 34-year-old former U.S. Open champ, calling from California, was speaking to Bill Jennings, who is best known as president of the New York Rangers hockey team. Venturi said a few other things also before teeing up in the Bob Hope Desert Classic at Palm Springs, Calif.

"I'm back on my game again and have never been more pleased with it in my life," he said happily. "What pleases me most is the fact I missed only one fairway during all the holes I played in San Francisco."

That particular reference was to the Lucky International Tournament which Venturi won Monday for his first victory in two years.

The other reference was a rather private thing between Venturi and Jennings which now can be made public.

It happened back in June of 1964 when Venturi was in about as much demand as small pox because everyone figured his game was shot.

Jennings, as chairman and sponsor of the Thunderbird Classic in Harrison, N.Y., was in a position to grant five invitations to golf pros. He invited four local players; Herman Barron, Claude Harmon, Tony Manero and Bob Watson, and had one invitation left.

Venturi called Jennings and begged for it.

"That's right, I begged," recalls Venturi. "I needed the money."

Although Venturi did not actually qualify because he had failed to finish among the first 60 in the previous tourney at Indianapolis, Jennings invited him to the Thunderbird, where Ken wound up in a third place tie with Billy Casper and earned $6,250.

"If I hadn't gotten that invitation, I woud have packed up and gone home," Venturi said after.

Not ony would he have missed the Thunderbird, but he might have also skipped the U.S. Open at Washington which he won that year.

But after 1964, came another near disaster. Suddenly victimized by a circulatory ailment which left his hands numb and lifeless and eventually required a delicate operation, Venturi managed to win only a paltry $295 all last year.

That comes to less than a dollar a day and it also came to a point where his mother, Mrs. Fred Venturi, was picking up more prizes than her son while playing in amateur tournaments around San Francisco.

Not only did Venturi's on-the-course earnings nose-dive drastically last year, but so did his off-the-course income. Sponsors, taking advantage of a clause which obliged Venturi to participate in at least 20 tournaments, would call up and start their conversations the same way.

"We're sorry, but. . ."

If they were sorry, you should have seen Venturi.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

Golf Mismatch Is Scheduled; Blue Chip Fence In Novato

FORE: The golf mismatch of all time is expected to unfold on the greenery of San Geronimo's new course next Monday.

Mrs. William May, one of Marin's better golfers, will oppose Nicasio sportsman Nick Kobseff in an 18-hole match for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

If I know my golf, Mrs. May should beat the dickens out of big Nick. At least I hope she does because the winner will receive a prize from Mrs. Helen Gray, who owns the Modern Eve women's shops and, well, Nick just wouldn't look very good in the latest fashions.

Nick is Marin County chairman of the March of Dimes and will do ANYTHING for his pet charity, including subjecting himself to ridicule in a golf match against a woman! I have never seen him play—frankly, I've been afraid to watch—but they tell me he plays golf like the idea of the game is to swing a club as close to the ball as possible without touching it.

Anyway, Nick says a full-fledged March of Dimes tournament is planned for next year. If anyone would want to watch next Monday's exhibition, they'll tee off at 10 a.m.

THE COMPANY that advertises "You Can Get Almost Anything With Blue Chip Stamps" may now add a new item: A baseball fence.

Yes indeedy, Novato High School's new head baseball coach, Bob Aune, is working on a project to acquire a badly-needed outfield fence at the high school ballyard through the Blue Chip Stamp Co.

Well, dearies, I guess you can imagine such a project is going to take a helluva lot of Blue Chips. Aune can't possibly collect enough himself, so he's asking anyone willing to help on the project to mail stamps to him at the Novato High Physical Education Department.

If you don't have any stamps, you might donate your tongue. There's quite a licking job to be done.

WHAT DOES Warrior rookie ace Rick Barry do on his day off? Why, he goes to a church gym near his apartment and shoots baskets. And who with? Why, with his bride, Pam, who says, "I love to play basketball with Rick. Of course, he usually spots me about 10 points when we play 21."

That may not seem so generous of Rick, until you realize his wife is the daughter of University of Miami basketball coach Bruce Hale, and knows her way around a court. The Barrys have an eternal courtship.

HERE'S THE latest guest list for Sunday's 13th annual Santa Rosa Sports Celebrity Banquet at the Flamingo Hotel: John Brodie, Lance Alworth, Tommy Davis, Bruce Bosley, Wayne Hawkins, Rocky Marciano, Curt Flood, Vada Pinson, Jim Maloney, Fred Biletnikoff, Paul Wiggin, Tom Haller, Don Landrum, Stu Miller, Russ Hodges and Lon Simmons.

Sorry, it's been sold out for weeks, but I hope to collect enough notes and quotes to fill a couple of columns next week.

Warriors Nip Royals 127-125 For Fourth Straight Win

San Francisco Warrior rookie Rick Barry just keeps getting better and better.

The slim 6-7 gunner from Miami hooped 37 points last night as the Warriors took one of their biggest wins, a 127-125 squeaker over tough Cincinnati.

It was the Warriors' fourth straight win and pushed their record to a respectable 26-30. That left them five games back of front-running Los Angeles in the Western Division with Baltimore 1½ back of San Francisco and the St. Louis Hawks another half-game back.

Barry's worth to the team can be seen by recalling that last year's Warrior team broke the league loss record with a 17-63 mark. The major change this season is the addition of Barry.

The Warriors exploded for 42 points in the second period and still led by 20 with 10 minutes to go. But Cincinnati fought back to close the gap to 124-123. Ex-Royal Bud Olsen's two free throws with 24 seconds to go decided the issue.

Paul Neumann hit 23 points and Guy Rodgers 15 for the Warriors while four Royals scored from 21 to 23 points. A packed house of 5,172 saw the Civic Auditorium action.

The Warriors are idle until they open a tough road trip Sunday at Phoenix, Ariz. against the Royals.

EX-OLYMPIC STAR

Jesse Owens Fined For Tax Evasion

CHICAGO (AP) — Jesse Owens, the superb track star who ruffled Adolf Hitler by winning four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics was fined $3,000 yesterday in an income tax case.

Owens had entered a plea of no contest to charges that he failed to file income tax returns on $29,135 for the years of 1959 through 1962.

Judge Joseph Sam Perry cited Owens' "good influence on the community" and after 35 minutes of comment he imposed the fine of $3,000 which is payable within six months.

The maximum penalty would have been four years in prison and a $40,000 fine under the criminal charge placed by the government.

Owens, who has spent recent years working for the Illinois Youth Commission and making numerous appearances before youth groups in addition to a daily radio program, was elated with Judge Perry's ruling.

"I certaintly regret that I had to be brought before you," Owens told Judge Perry. "I want you to know this was not a willfull violation. For many years I have tired to build an image in this country. All I ask is an opportunity to prove to my family and the community and my country. . . ."

Owens' voice trailed off and brought to mind his greatest feats as a star trackman for Ohio State University.

When he won four gold medals in Berlin, a feat which caused Hitler to stalk off from the Games because Owens' achievement crimped the Fuehrer's propaganda of the super race, Owens was the pride of America and the free world.

In making his decision, Judge Perry said "I see plenty on the credit side. This is a misdemeanor. I can't see why this one error should stop you from going ahead with your youth work. You have been subjected to pressure of public appearances. You have been too generous."

The judge concluded he was convinced Owens "needed no more punishment, yours was an error of ommission rather than commission."

Seals Deep In A Hole

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI) — It looks like the start of the finish for the San Francisco Seals.

They lost a tough, well-played 4-1 decision at Seattle last night to fall nine points back of the fourth-place Totems. They don't figure to close that gap during a rugged road trip that takes them to four more cities in five days, starting tonight at league-leading Victoria. Since there are only four play-off spots, the Seals hopes are dimming quickly.

Seattle pulled to a 2-0 lead yesterday before Al Nicholson tallied in the second stanza for the Seals. But Jim Powers' tally in the final period finished Seal hopes.

Ernie Terrell Is Hoping For Chicago Title Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight challenger Ernie Terrell says he's clean and wants to meet champion Cassius Clay in Chicago.

Terrell, who was denied a license to fight Clay in a New York City championship bout, claims he has completely rid himself of any association with Bernie Glickman.

Because of Glickman, the New York State Athletic Commission refused Terrell a license last Friday.

Glickman, described by the New York commission as detrimental to boxing because of his admitted association with underworld figures, has been instrumental in helping Terrell's night club appearances.

In addition to boxing, Terrell also strums the guitar and does a song and dance routine.

Terrell claims Glickman has been his show business agent only and helped boost his act from $600 a week to $3,500 a week and possibly $5,000.

Terrell's hopes of meeting Clay in a title fight stem from his victory over Canadian George Chuvalo.

"I've been clean in boxing my whole career," claims Terrell, "and I'm my own manager since I paid $20,000 for my contract from Julie Isaacson on the receipts from the Chuvalo fight."

Terrell says Glickman is not to receive any money from him until his night club shows net him $5,000 a week.

"I let Glickman help me make a living as a musician, but now he's out although if my musical group ever hits $5,000 a week, I'll pay him something like we originally agreed," says Terrell.

In an affidavit filed with the New York commission, Terrell avowed Glickman aided him only in show business and now "he is with me no more in any capacity."

Terrell, a 6-foot-6 Chicagoan, made his remarks at a press conference yesterday during which time he and two of his lawyers sparred with the press.

Only last Monday night on a Chicago radio show, Clay phoned Terrell and told him, "Since you beat Chuvalo, I'll give you a chance at my title." Clay also said negotiations were under way to stage the fight in Chicago.

Braves Pilot Has Some High Hopes

By RON SPEER

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Manager Bobby Bragan admits he has "high hopes" for the Atlanta Braves this year.

"I think we can win it all if things go right," the cigar-smoking Texan said today. "The momentum provided by a new city should help us."

The Braves, playing in Milwaukee last year, finished fifth, but were in the running for the National League pennant until the last month.

"We've got what is basically a young team," Bragan said. "I think they will respond even more than you would expect from a team moving into a new city."

Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles Dodger pitcher named the 1965 Male Athlete of the Year, agreed with Bragan.

"I guarantee you the Braves will be in contention next year," Koufax said before making a speech at a charity banquet here. "They have the best hitting club in the league."

Bragan said that the trade which brought Lee Thomas, Boston first baseman, to the Braves will boost their batting strength.

"The big question with us," he said, "is our pitching. We've got more than half a dozen players who can hit more than 20 home runs a season.

"Our hopes — and we have high hopes — are built around our pitchers."

Bragan said he hopes that Wade Blasingame, Tony Cloninger and Billy O'Dell come through with back-to-back big years, and "Denny Lemaster will pitch like he did in 1964 when he won 17 games.

"Hank Fischer has been arriving for two or three years, and we hope this is the year he gets there," Bragan said of the right-hander who won eight and lost nine for the Braves in Milwaukee last year.

"We also are counting on Denis Menke to have a big year at shortstop," Bragan said. "I think he will."

Flash Elorde Suspended By State Board

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — World junior lightweight champion Flash Elorde was suspended yesterday by the California Athletic Commission for allegedly refusing to honor a contract to fight Ricardo Moreno on Feb. 21.

Commission chairman Douglas Hayden said he was trying to make the suspension effective worldwide against the Philippine southpaw.

The 30-year-old Elorde was to have met Moreno, a Mexican now fighting out of San Francisco, in the Cow Palace under the promotion of Don Chargin.

Hayden said Elorde's father-in-law and advisor, Lope Sarreal, had signed for the fight for a $35,000 guarantee and then tried to pull out with three telegrams from Manila.

Hayden said he wrote letters explaining the suspension to James Deskin, of Las Vegas, Nev., president of the World Boxing Association; Justiniano Montana Jr., in charge of the Philippines Games and Amusements Board, and Kotai Kikucho, executive secretary of the Japan Boxing Commission.

Hayden said one reason Sarreal wants to pull Elorde out of the Moreno match is so the champion could fight Hawaiian Paul Fujii in Osaka, Japan, on April 25.

The California commissioner also said that Montana wrote back saying Sarreal is not recognized in the Philippines as Elorde's manager and that no suspension could be honored in a dispute involving Sarreal's signature on a contract.

Two Marin Boxers Win In 'Gloves' Tournament

Two Marin County boxers won opening matches last night in the Golden Gloves Tournament being held in Kezar Pavilion, San Francisco.

Dave Tounsel, 139, of San Rafael, decisioned Louie Gonzalez of Hamilton Air Force Base in the senior division, and Joe Garcia of HAFB whipped Willie Maurice in the junior 147-pound division.

Norm Kreuter, gridder at College of Marin, was leading in a novice heavyweight match but caught a solid right hand late in the final round by Oree McRae, student at San Francisco City College, and lost by knockout.

Also losing were Bill Goelz of San Rafael, 119, a decision to Austin Titla of Oakland in the novice group, and Joe Roybal, San Rafael, to George Yothers of Sacramento in the 147's.

Action continues Friday night with semi-final matches.

Bob Hope's Golf Marathon Starts

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The golfing marathon that bears the name of Bob Hope — it's the Hope $100,000 Desert Classic — got under way today and will continue, whether you can stand the suspense or not, for five days.

The tournament sports a select field of 28 professionals, including the 1965 winner, Bill Casper Jr., Arnold Palmer, and the newest champion of the winter circuit, former U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi.

It also has 384 promising amateurs, which tends to complicate matters for at least four days.

Among the amateurs is, you might guess, Bob Hope.

The official pairing sheet is about the size of the Palm Springs telephone directory. Hope is identified as a member of the A-184 team. His pro is Q-30, which is possibly more intriguing than James Bond's 007.

On the serious side, the tournament is 90 holes and the issue will not be decided until the fifth day, Sunday.

Casper is the logical favorite but, of course, Palmer, as well as the rejuvenated Venturi, merit attention.

Venturi, the 1964 National Open champion, reclaimed his stature with a brilliant come-from-behind victory in the San Francisco Lucky International last weekend.

It ended more than a year of misery and pain for the handsome San Franciscan, not to mention tournament disappointments in a fight against a circulatory ailment in his hands.

The tournament play is over four courses. Each of the 128 pros has a different threesome of amateurs each day for the first four rounds.

The pros go it alone on the final round.

The country club courses in use are Indian Wells, the host and fifth round site; Bermuda Dunes, La Quinta, and Eldorado. All are par 36-36-72.

Casper won in 1965 with a 348, which is 12 shots under par. He had a final round 72 at Bermuda Dunes. One stroke back, both with a 70, were Palmer and Tommy Aaron.

Obeck Quits His Job At New York U.

NEW YORK (AP) — Vic Obeck, director of athletics at New York University for the past nine years, resigned today effective with the close of the current academic year on Aug. 31.

President James M. Hester of the university, said that Ben Carnevale, presently the basketball coach at the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., would succeed Obeck on Sept. 1.

Obeck said he was leaving NYU "to accept an offer so tempting that I cannot refuse." He refused to identify the job. In addition, he and two others plan to open a consultant's office in New York City dealing with sports and recreation.

Carnevale, a 1938 graduate of NYU, has coached at Navy since 1947. His teams there have won 250 and lost 146. He is the president of the National Basketball Coaches Association and he also is chairman of the Olympic Basketball Committee.

Mrs. Vincent Is Tourney Winner

Mrs. Charles Vincent won the Captain's Trophy yesterday at the Las Gallinas Women's Golf Club tournament. Winners in low net over the field competition were:

Mrs. Vincent, 69-8—61; Mrs. Kenneth Crawford, 77-13—64; Mrs. W. G. Risdon, 80-13—67; Mrs. A. Edwards, 80-12—68.

How Important Is Home Court?

CHICAGO (AP) — Somehow there isn't a basketball fan in the country who doesn't have his own views on the so-called home court advantage.

The usual response is that the players know the floor, the fans cheer a team on or the visitors have been traveling and therefore are tired.

All of these factors may be present but Al McGuire, Marquette's refreshing 37-year- old coach, comes out with a statement everyone thinks about but is afraid to state.

"The crowd is a big factor in the home court advantage," says McGuire "because the crowd works on the sub-conscious of the offical. When a hairline judgment call comes up, the official goes along with the crowd. It can't be anything else."

McGuire, who hopes to turn Marquette into a basketball power once his recruiting efforts come into being next season, says "it can't be anything else. I've been watching this game for 25 years and I can't discount it."

McGuire was quick to say he doesn't believe or "don't know of any dishonest officials' but added there is no such thing as an upset at home.

"The only upsets there are come on the road," said McGuire. "You're supposed to win at home and lose on the road. If you happen to win on the road then you're a real good team."

Iowa Coach Ralph Miller had different views on the matter although he, too, admitted the home court advantage is hard to overcome.

"I think the crowd can pick a team up" said Miller. "Good basketball players are not affected by all this. It's not a negative factor when you're the visiting team but rather a positive factor in favor of the home team."

Miller pointed out Iowa's unexpected 61-60 loss at Wisconsin earlier in the season.

"I think Wisconsin has been an underrated team but I also feel we should have won that game," said Miller. "We went ahead comfortably but then we made a few mistakes. The crowd got pulling for Wisconsin and their kids responded tremendously. We lost. It shouldn't have happened but it did.

"The crowd gets to the players and then gives them a surge," said Miller, "that's my only explanation for the home court advantage."

Austria's Ace Skier Blasts Italian Track

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — Austria's ace skier Karl Schranz left here today for home in protest against what he termed the "dangerousness" of the downhill track on which he was to compete on Sunday.

Schranz, former world skiing champion, led a revolt of the 10-man Austrian team and five-man Swiss team against organizers of the Ilio Colli Trophy.

The international downhill race is scheduled for Sunday on the Oympia course, an 11,48-feet track with a drop of 2,959 feet, rated among the toughest in Europe.

The other nine members of the Austrian team and the entire Swiss team planned to decide later today whether to stay or go home as Schranz did.

"My life is too precious to me," said Schranz. "I told the organizers that the track is dangerous because it had not been prepared properly for this event."

He said ordinary tourist skiers had been allowed to use the track until a few days ago. "A track should be closed to the public at least three weeks before a competition," Schranz said.

Dodgers' Boss Criticizes Milwaukee Baseball Fans

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter O'Malley, owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers, has struck the latest blow in baseball's continuing struggle against the State of Wisconsin over the proposed move of the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta for 1966.

O'Malley said yesterday that Milwaukee is a good baseball town but pointed out the fans' boycott of the Braves last season is one of the reasons he said the city is unacceptable for a team now.

The Dodger owner was testifying at a deposition taken in the offices of National League attorney Louis Carroll.

Questioned by Willard Stafford, counsel for Wisconsin, and Bowie Kahn, counsel for the league, O'Malley said that expansion for 1966 "would wreak havoc on the league and on my own club."

Wisconsin seeks to prevent the Braves from playing their 1966 games in Atlanta unless Milwaukee is granted another major league franchise.

"During the last expansion, we downgraded the game because we couldn't provide players of high caliber for all teams and it would be an absolute fraud on the public to expand now," O'Malley said.

The Dodger owner, a member of baseball's expansion committee, predicted that baseball would eventually have three leagues of eight teams each but said this was at least five years away.

WEST COAST BASKETBALL

USF Boasts Best Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Dons, with the best western basketball record, resume West Coast Athletic Conference play tomorrow against UC Santa Barbara.

The Dons are 13-2 for the season and 3-0 in the conference. Only University of the Pacific with 12-3 and 3-0 records seems likely to impede San Francisco's path to another conference crown.

In basketball games yesterday, Oregon State defeated Hawaii 72-36 at Corvallis, St. Mary's of California trompled Portland 87-68 and the Cal Aggies eeked past Chico State 59-53.

Hawaii was too short and Oregon State's defense too tight for the visitors from the Islands. Scott Eaton, state's 6-foot-3 guard, topped all scorers with 25 points. Dick Treglown hit 14 to top Hawaii.

St. Mary's jumped to an early lead over Portland. Jim Callaghan was high for the California school with 20 points. Ed Clark had 19 and Paul Gloden 18 for Portland.

Don Moore hit two field goals with 90 seconds left in the second half to break a tie 49-49 between the Cal Aggies and Chico State. Chico's game collapsed and the Aggies ran away. Moore ended with 24. Billy Jones led the losers with 17. It was a Far Western Conference game.

There are no games scheduled today.

2 Horses Definitely Stricken With Fever

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A veterinarian reported today that two out of five blood samples from horses at Bowie race track in Maryland showed swamp fever and one other sample possibly showed the disease.

The report was made by Dr. R. W. Moore, Texas A&M University professor of veterinary microbiology.

The tests were run at the request of the track where a barn of horses was quarantined because of suspected fever.

Texas A&M spokesmen said the school is the only place in the world that has developed a reliable test for the ailment.

Swamp fever is one of the most dreaded of horse diseases, especially among thoroughbreds. There is no known cure and victims usually are destroyed because the disease is so easily transmitted to other animals, a university spokesman said.

Maryland's Livestock Sanitation Service director said the January outbreak was the first known in that state.

Dr. Moore said other samples have been sent by Bowie track to A&M but the results "are confidential and the investigation is continuing."

Major swamp fever occurrences in the past 18 months have been in Kansas, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Illinois and North Carolina. Small outbreaks occurred in Florida and Kentucky, the school reported.

Dr. Moore said the disease is most often transmitted by contaminated hypodermic needles and syringes.

"So far we have investigated six major swamp fever outbreaks in the United States, and we found that all of them were caused by misuse of syringes or transfusion of blood," Dr. Moore said.

Other carriers are biting insects, such as horseflies and mosquitoes.

The veterinarian said the fever is caused by a virus and hits the animal in seven- to nine-day cycles. It is characterized by depression, congested mucous membranes and swelling of legs.

The horse which carries the disease and from which other horses contract the illness may show no evidence of the virus.

Other cases run from the acute infection that usually ends in death to chronic cases which leave the horse weak and almost useless.

VENTURI

last March, one observer said he never saw anyone look so despondent as Venturi.

"He looked like someone contemplating suicide," said the observer.

Then came the U.S. Open in June. It was held in a town just outside St. Louis called Creve Coeur, which means "broken heart" in French.

That's the same way Venturi played or rather tried to. He hacked his way around in 160 strokes for the first two rounds and that didn't qualify him for the last two. The only reason he defended his title was because he had promised.

He zipped up his bag that day and never really knew whether he'd ever use his clubs again.

It's nice to report he's using them fine right now.

and wound up playing in only 71 games, in which he batted .243.

"We've got boys like Mack Jones, who hit 31 home runs for us last year, and Eddie Mathews and Henry Aaron who will help us," Bragan said.

"And most of them are young. The momentum provided by friendly fans will really help the younger players. We had a bad finish last year, or we would have finished higher."

Bragan, who has been seeking another relief pitcher, said he believes Arnold Earley acquired from Boston, will be a big help in the bullpen.

"We are counting on him to help us out," Bragan said. "With a little luck we could win the pennant.

"And I know we will get a lot bigger boost from Atlanta fans than we did from Milwaukee last year," he said.

You Don't Move Up In Mr. Halas' Game

My mail only rarely brings me messages from famous men. I mean, an occasional Christmas card from a fairgrounds jockey, once in a while a little note from a banjo-hitting outfielder asking me to plug his bowling alley. President Johnson is no pen pal. Doris Day must have lost my address. The only people I hear from regularly are from the Book - of - the - Month Club, who keep sending me books by Bruce Catton.

You can understand, then, how touched I was to get a hand-signed missive from one of the great men of our time, George Stanley Halas, the inventor of pro football, the kindly old preceptor, the patron saint of young coaches everywhere, a legend after his own time.

I HAD TO fight back the tears as I read it because George was writing from the position of a horribly wronged man, somewhat in the tradition of Captain Dreyfus, not to say the Count of Monte Cristo or Uncle Tom.

Two weeks ago, I had tried with might and main to locate George to shed some light on a controversy of some urgency, namely, what happened to the inalienable right of a football coach to jump a contract? I mean, the highways are regularly clogged with coaches driving to new jobs with Cadillacs the alumni gave them to try to keep them in the old ones. Contract-jumping is something a coach learns along with the umbrella defense. It ranks right next to player-snitching as a way of life among coaches.

OF COURSE, I had no luck contacting George two weeks ago. I might have had a better chance of locating Judge Crater. But George explains all that in the letter. It would have been improper for him to comment on a court case while it was before the bar. But he encloses a set of clippings from Chicago papers which seem, at first glance, to have been written by his wife. George comes off as a combination of Joan of Arc and Stella Dallas, a poor, broken old man who had fallen in with evil companions, a man who never thought there was so much skulduggery, not to say downright duplicity, in the world. The clippings were damp with tears. I haven't cried so much since I saw "Skippy."

THIS PITIFUL old martyr coach—all he has left in the world now is several million dollars and Gale Sayers—says all he was trying to do was to prove the sanctity of a contract.

Oh, sure, George. And all Jack the Ripper was trying to do was prove the streets of London were unsafe after dark.

Travel with me back through the pages of history and try to imagine George Stanley Halas as the head coach at any of them:

"YOU, THERE, Fulton. Get back up in that rigging and stop that tomfoolery about a steam engine. I say you got to run a ship with a sail or an oar and you signed on here as a fore-top-man and a fore-top-man you will remain. I'm confiscating your steam kettle and I gave your stovepipe to an old Indian to make into a drum."

"WHAT'S THAT, Washington? YOU, a general?! Listen, Washington, you signed on in this Army as a scout and a loyal subject of the Crown. See that you live up to it or you and that crowd of troublemakers will all hang — together or separately. And I'm going to see the commissioner about that nut Patrick Henry and Button Gwinnett's signature isn't worth the paper it's written on. I can go to court in a minute and get the Declaration of Independence annulled and get an injunction against the Continental Congress."

BELL, HOW many times I got to tell you around this office we throw notes in bottles out on the tide? In a pinch, we use carrier pigeons. Now, put away that silly voice box and tell Don Ameche to get himself another boy. You were hired to clean pigeon cages around here and, by God, somebody's got to do some work around here and stop day dreaming!"

"ORVILLE? WILBUR? Did I or did I not tell you to fix those bicycles and stop trying to kill yourselves in those infernal flying machines. If the good Lord intended you to fly, he would have told me first. Now, fix those sprockets and see if you can develop something practical like a bicycle built for two because I got a great idea for a song if you can."

"A HORSELESS carriage? Ford, how many times do I have to tell you we deal in realities around this plant. I don't give a damn how many patents you got, I say you hired on to make buggy whips and it's time you got back there in the shop and did it!"

"I'M SORRY, Winston, I'M calling the shots around here and we will NOT fight them on beaches, in the streets and in the fields. We'll give them everything south of Liverpool is what we'll do and if you try to stop me I'll have you court-martialed."

"LOOK, EINSTEIN, just keep making those grenades and if you go over my head and deal with the President, I'll throw the book at you. An atomic reaction, indeed! Keep that talk up and they'll have you in the funny farm next."

Marin Catholic '5' Dumped By Vallejo

Marin Catholic's basketball team lost to Vallejo High yesterday in a practice skirmish, 56-34 in Kentfield.

The visiting Apaches forged 7 points ahead at the end of the first quarter and never relinquished the lead, outscoring the home team in every period except the last when the Wildcats came out on the top end of a 12-10 count.

The Vallejo quint led 30-12 at intermission, but Wildcat coach Gus Hassapakis noted that although Vallejo was the better team yesterday, he played his reserved throughout much of the game.

Center Bob Lombardi came through with another stout performance and scored 12 points to lead the 'Cats scoring attack. The 6-2 pivotman poured in 5 baskets from the field and caged 2 free throws for his total.

The Wildcats will host the Terra Linda Trojans when Marin Athletic League play resumes Friday.

Drake Profs Tire, Lose To Varsity

Drake High School's faculty basketball team kept pace with the younger varsity boys for the first half of their game yesterday but age caught up with the profs in the second half as the Pirates' varsity won out, 67-50.

Led by the scoring of Reg Carolan, former Drake star now playing pro football, and Cappy Lavin, ex-ace at USF, the teachers stayed pretty close to the Pirates at the start and trailed at half, 32-28.

But then youth prevailed and the Pirates outscored the teachers 35-22 in the second half. Drake's varsity had a fine tune-up for Friday's big game at Redwood when the Pirates shot for 51 per cent from the floor.

Every varsity boy played, and all of them scored. Top point-maker was Bob Tobin with 13. Carolan and Lavin each scored 11 points for the faculty team.

5th Straight Win

St. Raphael's Parish basketball team coasted to its fifth straight triumph Saturday with a 60-30 verdict over St. Anselm's in Catholic Youth Organization action. Tom Gagen led the victors with 18 points and Lon Stemple scored 16 for St. Anselm's.

Two Swim Clubs Slate Tryouts For Youngsters

Two Marin County youth swim clubs announced tryout dates for prospective team members.

The Marin Pirates of San Anselmo will hold tryouts Saturday, Feb. 12, at noon, in the Drake High School pool for boys and girls from 5 through 17. The tryouts are being sponsored jointly by the Tamalpais Recreation District and the Marin Pirates Swim Club.

The Tamalpais Swim Club will hold its tryouts on three consecutive Mondays, Feb. 7, 14 and 21, in the Tamalpais High School pool in Mill Valley, between 5 and 6 p.m. Applicants must be at least 7 years old.

Registration Slated For Rec Program

Registration for Tamalpais High School's district recreation program for the spring semester will be taken Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. in Tam's boys gym.

Cost for the program, which includes modern dance, gymnastics, trampoline, basketball and swimming, is $1 a semester plus 50 cents per month per child.

Novato Teachers Give Hornets Cage Lesson

Novato High School's faculty team spanked the varsity Hornet basketballers yesterday in the Novato gym by a slim 57-56 margin.

The Hornets trailed by just two points at the end of the first period, then exploded for 20 points in the second to take a 2-point lead off the court at halftime, 33-31.

With Ken Anderson the teachers' biggest attacking weapon, the experienced faculty squad again forged ahead at the end of the third period by outscoring the Hornets 15-10, and combined with 11 points in the final stanza, that was enough for the win.

Anderson, former College of Marin and Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo cages tar, led all scorers with 17 points on 8 buckets from the floor and one free throw.

Novato basketball coach John Panagakis chipped in with 11 points against his cagers and Larry Karinen added 9.

Ev Fritz led in the scoring derby for the Hornet quint with 12 points.

San Rafael Quint Nips Napa, 56-54

Jeff Allen tipped in a missed shot at the buzzer to give the San Rafael Bulldogs a narrow 56-54 triumph over the visiting Napa Indians yesterday in a practice basketball game.

The Napa hoopsters held a 2-point lead with 40 seconds remaining, but Bulldog guard Roger Widmer broke through the Indians' defense and hit on a layup that tied it 54-all.

As the final seconds ticked away, the Napa quint scrambled back to its end of the court, but a short attempt missed the mark.

Then, with about 5 seconds left, guard Joe Cunningham tried a longie from the perimeter, but the ball hit the rim and bounced in front of the free-throw line. And that's where Allen tipped it in to give the home quint the victory as the buzzer sounded.

Allen topped all scorers with 18 points and sparked a drive that carried the home team to a 28-24 halftime lead by scoring 12 of those points in the first half. The big forward was also instrumental in San Rafael's domination of the boards as he plucked off 10 rebounds in the first two periods, then grabbed W7 more in the second half to lead all rebounders.

The San Rafael cagers outrebounded the Indians 54-45.

Cunningham had 10 rebounds for the Bulldogs and an identical number of points, while center Dick Draney hauled down 14 and scored 8 points. Widmer converted 5 of 6 free tosses and followed Allen in the scoring column with 11 markers.

From the field, the losers had the edge as they caged 22 of 62 for 35 per cent while San Rafael hit on 21 of 66 for 34 per cent. At the free-throw line, however, that edge was reversed with the San Rafael boys shooting 61 per cent (14x23) and the visitors from Napa (10x17) 59 per cent.

San Rafael	18	10	15	13—56
Napa	16	8	18	12—54

San Rafael scorers: Bill Tetu, 1-0-2; Dick Draney, 2-4-8; Joe Cunningham, 5-0-10; Jeff Allen, 8-2-18; Chip Tyson, 0-1-1; Roger Widmer, 3-5-11; John Farrar, 2-2-6. Totals: 21-14—56.

Napa scorers: Buckner, 3-0-6; McGaughy, 1-0-2; Jones, 1-0-2; Schutz, 1-0-2; Hillman, 5-2-14; Schwarze, 3-4-10; Newman, 7-0-14; Smith, 0-3-3; Tolman, 0-1-1. Totals: 22-10—54.

Bullpups Lose

It Doesn't Take Muscle To Sink A 444-Yard Ace

Independent-Journal Sports

20 Feb. 2, 1966

NEW YORK (AP) — It doesn't take muscle but a lot of luck and a good wind to sink a drive of 444 yards, says the man who scored golf's longest hole-in-one.

Then, adds Bob Mitera dolefully, you spend the rest of your life trying to make people believe it.

"Nobody does," added the 21-year-old Creighton University student yesterday after being honored as the sport's long distance hole-in-one king.

"Peope look at me and say, 'You've got to be kidding. Nobody can score a 444-yard hole-in-one, especially a squirt like you. Soon, I get so I feel like I've committed a crime rather than made a hole-in-one.

"So I quit telling anybody."

But Golf Digest Magazine, which serves as a clearing house for holes-in-one (There were a record 14,154 last year) had no intention of keeping it a secret.

They flew Bob out from his home in Omaha, Neb., presented him a huge trophy and subjected him to New York sports writers.

Mitera looks anything but the part of a golf Hercules. He stands only 5-foot-6, weighs 165 pounds and wears glasses. He is an English major. He is a pop hitter normally off the tee, averaging around 240 yards.

Apologetically, he told how he accomplishied his amazing feat Oct. 7, while playing with some Creighton teammates over Omaha's Miracle Hill course, 6,700 yards, par 70.

"It was mostly luck," he explained. "The 10th hole is straightaway with a sharp drop-off about 290 yards from the tee. There was a wind with gusts up to 50 miles an hour.

"The wind caught the ball, and it carried to the drop-off, then rolled into the hole. Even I was astounded."

Until Mitera cranked up and let fly, the longest hole-in-one on record measured 427 yards. Lou Kretlow, the former major league pitcher, made it on the 16th hole of the Oklahoma City Lake Hefner course March 23, 1961.

Mustang Rally Slated Sunday

The newly formed Golden Gate Mustang Club of Marin will sponsor a rally Sunday starting at Ames Ford in San Rafael, 9 a.m., and all Mustang owners are invited to compete, according to club spokesmen.

Two cars representing the new club tied for first place last Sunday in a Ford Mustang rally at Modesto.

They were driven by Bill Ames of San Anselmo and Galen Onizuka of Fairfax. Navigators were Bill Moffat of Terra Linda for Ames and Al Sheers of Fairfax for Onizuka.

The Marin club also brought back a participation trophy for sending 12 cars to the competition.

SPORTS, BOAT SHOW

A Harbor On Land

The Cow Palace in San Francisco will be transformed into a huge dry-land yacht harbor and an outdoorsman's paradise when the 22nd annual San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show opens its 10-day run Friday.

Colorful flags and plastic drapes will add a festive and nautical atmosphere to the huge center arena, where lofty sailboats and luxury cruisers will be tied up for inspection. The color theme, intermingled with force-bloomed spring flowers, will continue through the north and south halls which will feature more cruisers, both outboard and inboard, rubber boats, inflatable boats and all kinds of boating accessories.

In the outer pavilions three halls of camping aids, including tents, campers, trailers, sleeping bags, camp stoves and lanterns will show all of the latest accessories for the outdoorsman.

Acres of fishing tackle, rods, reels, tackle boxes and all other gear from leading manufacturers will be interspersed with hunting and other sports equipment for side-by-side comparison.

Vacationland, with all of its colorful exhibits from many states and Canada will occupy another vast pavilion and will include the High Sierra Packers with their animals and packing demonstrations.

The "Hall of Outdoor Cooking" with barbecue demonstrations by leading food authorities; the Children's fishing pond where live trout may be caught, and the Marine Speed Hall are but a few more of the many delightful exhibits.

Show times are 2 to 11 p.m. week days; 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturdays, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays.

GROUNDHUGGERS GO HOME!!
This is not the place for you! The utterly fantastic soaring quality of this architect designed new home is for people who've always dreamed of living not just in the trees, but in the treetops! 3-level plan with living-dining and kitchen on top where the tips of magnificent oaks are literally a part of the decor. 3 bedrooms and 2 quarry tile baths, with access to the out of doors from all rooms. The smashing interior is detailed with beams, paneling, plank floors, small-paned windows, and distinctly Maybeck-influenced trim. Recently featured in the I-J's Marin Magazine and our new listing at $34,950!

No. 205 Feb. 2, 9, 16, 23, 1966

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California, until 1:30 P.M. Wednesday, Feb. 9, 1966, and will be opened at that hour for installation of approximately 13,890 square feet of built-up roofing, together with the removal and disposal of existing roofing and repairs to roof deck and facia. The work to be done is located at District's Ross Reservoir near Phoenix Lake, approximately 1.3 miles from the Ross Fire Station and is accessible over paved City streets and improved District roads. The Contractor will furnish all labor, equipment and materials required for the completed project.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District, under the provisions of Section 1770 of the Labor Code, to be as follows:

Classifications	Rate Per Hour
Carpenter	$4.575
Roofer	4.60
Laborers
Group I	4.025
Group II	3.875
Group III	3.775
Pickup Trucks	4.055
Flat-Rack Trucks
Under 10,500 lbs.	4.15
10,500 lbs. and over	4.25

Any classification omitted herein shall not be less than $3.775 per hour.

Overtime shall be not less than one and one-half (1½) times the above rates.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than one and one-half (1½) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workmen employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promply execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

The proposal for "Installation of Ross Reservoir Roof" must be submitted in the enclosed envelope provided for this purpose.

It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

Guided Missiles Disappoint Buck Rogers-Type Military

By WILLIAM E. HOWARD
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Guided missiles are proving to be pretty ordinary—and not very effective—weapons in their first battlefield test in Viet Nam.

During the past five months, more than 200 Soviet-made SAM-2 missiles reportedly have been fired at American fighter planes and succeeded in downing just 10.

Numerous Shrike anti-radar missiles have been launched from U.S. planes at the Soviet anti-aircraft missile batteries but with poor results — even though the Shrike was specifically designed for this job.

U.S. Bullpup missiles, also fired from aircraft, have been good at knocking out targets like bridges only when there was no defending anti-aircraft fire. Pilots must guide the Bullpup to its destination, holding their planes on a steady course meanwhile and making them a sitting duck if fired upon from the ground.

This dismal report card comes as something of a surprise to many military technologists and is of far-reaching significance.

The entire modernization of the U.S. armed forces has been built mainly around the theory that guided missiles would be invincible, particularly against aircraft. This theory prompted Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to downgrade bombers and shift the job of strategic deterrence almost entirely to long-range missiles.

Army and Navy combat forces have junked most of their anti-aircraft guns and are relying mainly on missiles for defense. These missiles haven't been tested in combat yet, but it is widely known that they are far from being reliable weapons today.

There was considerable trepidation among American pilots when the first Soviet SAM-2 went into action around Hanoi. The missiles bagged three jets in one month during the summer.

However, the magazine Aviation Week reports in a dispatch from Viet Nam that American pilots have learned to not only evade the anti-aircraft missiles but carry out several damaging blows against SAM-2 sites, using conventional bombs and cannon shells. To make these strikes, the planes ran through defending flak thrown up by guns the Communists deploy to project the missiles.

Bitter experience shows that the 36-foot-long SAM-2S—which U.S. pilots say look like "flying telephone poles"—are best against aircraft cruising along at 7,000 to 10,000 feet. They are ineffective at below 3,000 feet, apparently because their radar guidance becomes confused by picking up natural terrain features.

Pilots, the magazine adds, find the missiles are easy to spot if there are no clouds. They are not only large, but gush a trail of exhaust smoke. Many are poorly aimed and blow up frequently some distance away.

Even if one is on target, pilots have developed quick maneuvers to get out of the way. They also can "spoof" the missile into going astray with electronic devices carried aboard their planes.

Part of the SAM-2's unreliability is attributed to its mobility. The missiles are moved frequently to keep them from becoming targets and their electronics can't take the beating. Yet they are supposed to be manned by trained Soviet crews.

The Russians have an improved version of the missile, the SAM-3, also known as a Guideline, that presumably has better radar control. So far, this missile, hasn't seen action.

No one seems to know why the Shrike missile hasn't been able to home in on the SAM-2 radar beacons. It may be the Russians have developed a secret defense.

In any event, the message seems pretty clear: missiles are a long way from revolutionizing warfare and Pentagon theorists should do some fast recalculating.

Space Radio Detecting Universe Birth Echo?

By GENE BYLINSKY
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — From the depths of the universe comes a crackling radio noise which scientists think may be creation's echo — the sound of a "Big Bang" preserved in time and infinity.

The strange cosmic radio wave was first discovered last summer by scientists at the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Holmdel, N.J. At about the same time, a group of Princeton University scientists suggested that the signals were produced by the exploding primordial fireball which gave birth to the universe.

The same scientists, in their latest report, say conclusive evidence should be forthcoming this year whether the crackling radio noises are really signals of the "Big Bang."

The Princeton scientists point out that if their explanation is correct, the newly-found radiation should have varying intensity at different wave lengths, as prescribed by physical laws. They are in the process of measuring these intensities.

The radio noise, which also is responsible for some of the "between-channel" noise on home television sets, wor first detected with sensitive antennas at a wave length of 7.3 centimeters.

This told the scientists that the intensity was the same as that emitted by a cosmological "black body" having very cool surface temperature.

The primordial fireball which scientists think exploded seven to 10 billion years ago, was very hot. But the lingering radio waves, in their eternal travels through the universe, have "cooled down" substantially, scientists explain.

The Princeton scientists think that the signals were emitted from the "Big Bang" when the universe was first exploding outward and had a radius only 10 times the size of our galaxy, the Milky Way.

The signals seem to be coming from all directions. Although they had been picked up for years by radar and radio telescopes, they escaped detection because they masquerade as ordinary radio noise. A special type receiver is needed to isolate them.

The Bell scientists used the horn antenna designed for Telstar and Echo communications satellite experiments.

Conclusive proof that the signals date back to the creation of the universe would mean strong evidence in support of the "Big Bang" theory and also provide an important tool for exploring early evolution of the universe, scientists told the American Physical Society meeting in New York City.

They think that there is a relationship between the intensity of the new radio signals and two other parameters of cosmology: density of matter in the universe and the ratio of helium to hydrogen. Independent measurements of these three quantities can provide a check of the "Big Bang" theory.

Statistics Paint National Health As A Sickly Color

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — One of the more popular ailments these days is "the virus."

It may not be scientific, but enough people are calling it that, for Uncle Sam's health men to accept it as an official disease category.

Every year the national center for health statistics conducts a survey of 42,000 households. From the answers to a questionnaire, the statisticians put together a picture of the nation's health, figuring the 42,000 are representative of the entire country. It's a pretty sick picture they paint.

In its latest report, the center estimates 27,681,000 persons suffered "the virus" between July 1964 and June, 1965. This was 3 million more "virus" problems than were reported the year before on the basis of the house-to-house inquiry.

As expected, the survey showed the common cold (also virus-caused) was the most frequent illness. The population suffered through 115 million of them—a 12-million increase in sneezes.

Altogether, the center estimates there were 400 million acute or short-term ills last year. That figures out to better than two per person on the average.

What's more, the average person was slowed down by sickness 16.4 days during the 12-month period.

Sickness kept workers home an average of 5.7 days. Interestingly enough, youngsters between 6 and 16 lost less time from school than job holders from work: 5.2 days.

Women and children tended to boost the averages when it came to illnesses requiring confinement in bed. This figured out to 6.2 days in bed per person for the whole population.

The number of days all cold sufferers spent in bed totaled 101,255,000, with women climbing under the covers more often than men.

Short-term ills caused 658 million days of "bed disability."

Americans admitted spending nearly 2 million days in bed with headaches.

Men seem to consider bad toothaches (or dental conditions) a good reason for staying abed. At any rate, they chalked up 2.5 million days of bed disability, while women reclined over 3.5 million days because of tooth troubles.

In the same period, chronic, or generally "incurable" disorders afflicted more than 87 million persons — about 46 per cent of the population.

For the first time, interviewers sought data on the cost of both prescribed and non-prescribed medicines. They found that during the two-week period prior to the disease survey patients paid an average $3.50 per purchase for medicines.

For every 100 persons in the population, 28 Americans injured themselves. About 26 million were hurt badly enough to restrict activity for at least a day.

One hopeful sign: There were some 400,000 fewer persons injured in moving motor vehicle mishaps.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Telling Public Of Appendicitis Has Saved Victims From Death

VAN DELLEN

Educating the public about appendicitis paid handsome dividends in saving countless persons. Parents learned that calling the physician was safer than reaching for a laxative to relieve lower abdominal distress. They came to realize the value of the operation and consented to surgery rather than waiting until the appendix ruptured.

Appendicitis unsually begins with symptoms resembling an old-fashioned stomach-ache. There is generalized abdominal pain that increases in severity as time passes.

A feeling of nausea dispels all desire for food and when it persists, vomiting is prone to follow. After six to 10 hours most sufferers know they have waited long enough, particularly when the site of pain becomes localized in the right lower abdomen.

THIS REGION, especially the area adjacent to the inflamed appendix, is tender to the touch and the individual may wince, scream, or bend the right leg when the spot is pressed.

The modern operation is far less hazardous than in the past. A minimum of discomfort may be anticipated and should complications occur the wonder drugs, plasma, and salt or glucose solutions are available. Many are able to leave the hospital three to five days after the surgery.

Calling the physician early continues to offer the best chance for complete recovery.

CATHARTICS should not be taken in the presence of abdominal pain because they increase the churning movements of the intestinal tract, including the mushy, inflamed appendix. It is easily ruptured in this state, followed by the development of peritonitis.

The antibiotics, such as penicillin, have lessened the chance of dying from the disease but the medication is not a substitute for surgery. On the other hand, the wonder drugs have made it possible to delay the operation in mild or questionable attacks.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SALT AND WEIGHT

H. N. writes: Will taking extra salt at the table help a person to gain weight?

REPLY

Yes, but the gain would be due to the accumulation of water rather than to actual flesh. On the other hand, when the kidneys are functioning properly, salt is excreted in a normal fashion and as a result little fluid will accumulate in the tissues. In this respect, the tendency of a healthy person to gain weight through the salt in take is less noticeable than in those with kidney disease or high blood pressure.

SOFT SPOT CLOSURE

A reader writes: Is it serious if the soft spots in a baby's skull are slow to close?

REPLY

The fontanels in the skull usually close before the first birthday. When they remain open the child may have rickets, cretinism, or hydrocephalus.

WHITE PATCHES

V.M. writes: Are the white spots on the skin, which the doctor calls "vitiligo" permanent?

REPLY

Yes, because pigment has been lost in these areas. A clever cosmetician may be able to do more than a physician by recommending a suitable stain that matches the remainder of your skin. Methoxsalen also is of value because it increases the production of retention of pigment. A good summer sunscreen ointment also prevents the normal skin from tanning which in turn makes the white spots appear to be lighter.

RELAX

N. R. writes: Can you explain this? My blood pressure is 190 when the doctor takes it on reaching his office. But when he takes it again before I leave, it is 150.

REPLY

Excitement does strange things. Profit by this experience and try to be more relaxed in your daily living.

ECESSIVE CRUELTY

M. H. writes: What is sadism? I would like to know how it starts.

REPLY

The sadist obtains sexual pleasure by tortuing another person. The cause varies with the individual but usually stems from unpleasant childhood experiences.

PRESSURE AND WEIGHT

K. D. writes: Does low blood pressure cause overweight?

REPLY

No, there is no relationship between the two conditions. In contrast, high blood pressure often is associated with obesity; one is thought to aggravate the other.

KIDNEY DISEASE

Mrs. T. G. writes: Are the eyes affected in Bright's disease?

REPLY

In acute nephritis, dimness of vision may occur. In chronic nephritis the blood pressure is elevated. This in turn affects the blood vessels of the retino, resulting in visual disturbances.

SCAR TISSUE

A reader writes: Please explain the term adherences. What surgical procedure is used to correct this?

REPLY

I assume you mean adhesions. Surgery is used only when these bands of scar tissue cause kinking or obstruction of the bowel.

Today's Health Hint—

Adequate fluid intake perks up the system.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Leases, Checks Are Contracts

A lease is a contract. You are "leasing" a house when you rent it month to month even though you sign nothing.

You actually do contract for the place. For example, you agree to pay a certain amount of rent, and to keep the place in reasonably good condition. Your landlord, for his part, must see that no one tries to evict you under conflicting ownership claims. If he controls hallways, stairs, roof, basement, and the like, he has a legal duty to keep them safe.

Under your contract, the law also calls upon your landlord to repair normal breakage within your premises. Such duties may be changed by written contract. Otherwise, if a water pipe breaks in the wall, you may call on the landlord to repair it. If he fails, you may have it repaired yourself, and deduct your costs from next month's rent. The cost cannot exceed one month's rent.

Of course, any of these terms can be changed—and often are. So read and understand any agreement or letter from your landlord. Thus, in a written lease a tenant often "waives" or gives up his right to repair and charge the landlord. As a tenant you may agree to repair and pay for the pipes, paint, and all damage.

Your bank checks are also contracts. They contain a promise to pay. But checks give rise to few problems, if you have money in the bank.

You also have a contract with a bank itself. As a rule, you sign this contract when you open your account. Do you know what yours says? Chances are you don't. Wouldn't you like to know? And how about your various insurance policies—life, fire, and automobile? Do you know what they say? Nothing is stopping you from reading them.

Go ahead.

Sectional Look At San Rafael Plan Expected

The San Rafael General Plan, which was sent back to planning consultant Daniel P. Coleman for more study nearly 10 months ago, may be aired in sections rather than as a whole, Coleman predicted today.

He said the process actually began when the city planning commission took a look at a rough plan for the East San Rafael tidelands area Jan. 6.

Further hearings on this plan will resume next Tuesday.

Coleman said city aides had decided to examine the tidelands area by itself, with no assurance that other parts of the general plan would be treated separately. But he said he would urge them to follow such a pattern.

The plan was sent back to Coleman last March after councilmen ordered that its proposals for development of tideland areas be deleted. Coleman has since been working with city and county planning aides on revisions.

The consultant predicted the plan would have a better chance of approval this year if problems in each part of the city are worked out in separate hearings.

"We are not going to present something and say this is final," Coleman said. "We are going to present some alternatives in each case and try to get ideas from the public on what they would like."

If his suggestion is followed, Coleman said, the planning commission will not send any portion of the general plan to the council until it has completed the series of hearings. Councilmen could then hold hearings on the plan as a whole.

Coleman declined to predict how long the entire process might take.

County Parks Official Native Of Germany

Pierre W. Joske, hired yesterday as Marin County park and recreation director, is a native of Leipzig, Germany, and grew up in southern France.

The Independent-Journal yesterday incorrectly reported he was a native of Panorama City, Los Angeles County, his present home.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Press Releases Are To Behold

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI — We read the newwork press releases:

From CBS-TV: "Bill Bixby of 'My Favorite Martian' lectures on show business to aspiring performers."

There's nothing like learning from the great ones.

From NBC-TV: "'I've always believed that one of man's greatest assets is having control of his own time,' said Bill Cullen. 'So I guess when people hear about my signing for two NBC shows, they will think I'm going against my own outlook on life.'"

No, as a matter of fact I didn't think about it at all.

From the same press release: "My biggest problem (said Cullen) is that people hear about the shows and then think, "Why doesn't he give other young, poor guys a chance?" No, as a matter of fact I didn't think about it at all.

From NBC-TV: "Correction, please. NBC International Enterprises, within a nine-day period, has sold more than 1,500 hours of programming to Latin American television stations. Among the programs sold is 'Richard Boone' (not 'Daniel Boone' as stated in story released Jan. 20)."

Yes, let's get that straight, please.

We read the private press releases too:

From James Drury, star of NBC-TV's "The Virginian": "Three years ago I was nominated for the Hollywood Women's Press Club's annual Sour Apple Award, but lost out to someone else. But, like whiskey, people, even actors, mellow with time. Just to prove it, I'm inviting you and your date to be my guest at a real western barbecue on the main street of Medicine Bow, Wyoming (locally called the back lot of Universal City Studios) . . . " I liked you better the old way.

Notes to watch television by:

Jackie Gleason's CBS-TV hour this Saturday is entitled "The Gridiron Follies," and is a musical-comedy recollection of the Jack Oakie-type films Hollywood turned out in the 1930s. . . With Arnold Stang featured as a scholar, Gleason portrays a football star who tries desperately to pass his college exams so he can be eligible for the big game.

Peter Falk, star of television's "Trials Of O'Brien" series and a pretty fair country pool player, will be a commentator of the CBS billiards classic on the network's "Sports Spectacular" show Feb. 13. . . Same day, Gen. Curtis Lemay, the former Air Force chief of staff, hunts grouse on the Scottish moors om ABC-TV's "The American Sportsman" series.

James Stewart headlines CBS-TV's Thursday night movie Feb. 24 in "Harvey," the famous one time Broadway comedy about a fellow whose friend and companion is an invisible six-foot-tall rabbit . . . The presidents of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers are interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" Sunday.

Divorce Case Fee: $500,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Beverly Hills attorney — Robert A. Neeb Jr.—has been awarded a $500,000 fee for his work on a noted divorce case.

Neeb represented the late Mrs. Ednah Capron, 74, and won a settlement in 1964 totaling $16 million from her 80-year-old husband, George H. Capron.

"I never knew there was so much money in the world," she testified after Neeb and his investigators discovered her husband had land holdings and assets worth $32 million.

Mrs. Capron had testified they live frugally and that she had no idea her husband was wealthy. She died last August.

Her estate, which goes to friends and relatives, was appraised at $16,546,131. Neeb, who was paid $100,000 before she died, was awarded the remaining $400,000 yesterday in probate court.

In 1650 A.D., the world's population was about 545 million.

Voters League Offers Booklet

The 1966 edition of "Voting Facts for Marin County" has just been published by the Leagues of Women Voters in Marin as a joint project.

The pocket-size pamphlet contains up-to-the-minute information on how, when and where to register throughout the county and special instructions for new residents. The new changes in application for medical-emergency and other absentee ballots are also explained.

An insert page lists dates for the April municipal, June primary and November general elections. A list of major offices to be filled in this elections is included.

Copies of the pamphlet will be available from league registrars during their registration drive Feb. 5 and 12. They may also be obtained from Mrs. Richard Ocheltree, 17 Mount Burney Court, San Rafael, Central Marin league service chairman, and Mrs. John Hartnett, 77 Homestead Boulevard, Mill Valley, Southern Marin service chairman.

Novato Bicycle Clinic Announced

The third annual bicycle safety inspection and licensing clinic sponsored by the Novato Moose Lodge and police department will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 12 at the Moose Hall at 855 Vallejo Avenue, Novato.

Members of the Moose Lodge will give each bicycle a complete safety inspection to assure that it is in good running order, said Joseph J. Suder, chairman. The lodge will issue illuminating bicycle safety decals.

Officer Albert Mendoza of the Novato police department will be on hand to issue licenses. More than 300 bicycles are expected.

Texas has 54 mountains more than 6,000 feet in altitude.

THE 1966 LEGISLATURE

Water, Air Pollution On State Agenda

By JERRY HARRELL
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's massive growth problems—pollution of the air and water and the need for rapid transit in urban areas—are due for action by the 1966 legislature.

There could be action, too, on a plan for a fulltime legislature to deal more effectively with those problems. That could mean the abbreviated budget session starting next week will be the last of its kind.

Tougher motor vehicle smog laws are being urged, and some lawmakers have proposed that the state move into the control air pollution from the control of air pollution from other sources.

A compromise proposal to halt pollution of scenic Lake Tahoe by exporting sewage from the lake basin also will be considered.

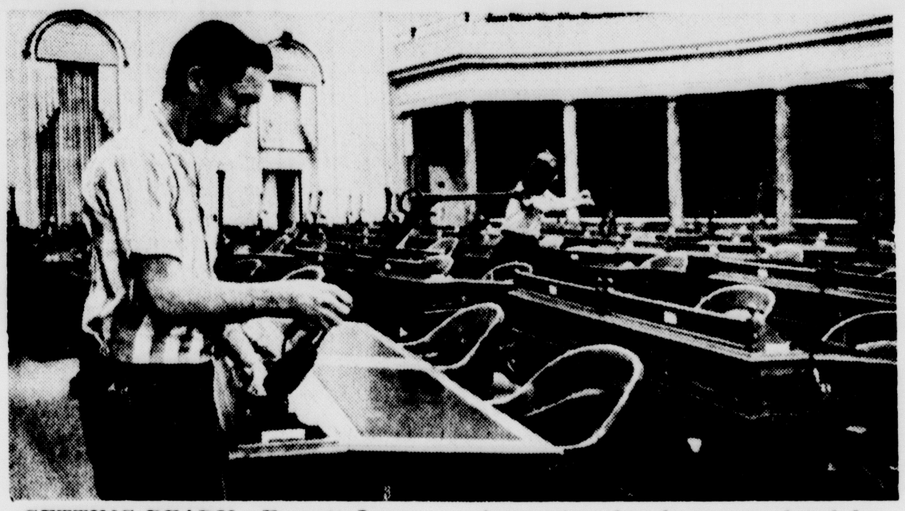
Brown, who controls the agenda, has said he'll submit smog, Tahoe pollution and rapid transit to the lawmakers for special session action. He hasn't committed himself on whether proposals to revamp the legislative operation will be considered this year, although he backs them.

The State Constitution now provides for six-month general sessions in odd-numbered years and 30-day budget sessions in even-numbered years limited to finances. But the governor is empowered to call special sessions to consider pressing matters. Such sessions, running concurrently with budget meetings, have become standard practice.

The State Constitutional Revision Commission has called the present system obsolete for a state of California's size and complexity.

It proposes a fulltime legislature—empowered to set its own pay — with annual general sessions patterned after Congress.

The governor has supported higher pay for legislators, whose salaries now are fixed by the Constitution at $6,000 a year—but has not said whether he will authorize action this year.



GETTING READY—Everett Jones, a state electrician, connnects the last of 80 microphones on the desks in the Assembly chamber at Sacramento. A complete check of the wiring system has been completed for the opening of the budget session which convenes Monday.
(UPI Telephoto)

Any measure enacted would be subject to approval by the voters.

The State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board wants stricter laws on auto smog, including mandatory inspection of control devices every year to make sure the law is obeyed.

Another proposal would require both crankcase and exhaust devices to control emmissions on 1955 and later cars whenever and wherever they are sold. The requirement now is in effect in only 10 counties, and only crankcase devices are required.

The board also has a long-range program aimed at keeping state control of auto smog devices after a federal law requiring such equipment takes effect late next year. The board feels that state standards should prevail when they are higher.

And—a rarity in government circles — the board eventually wants itself abolished, to be replaced by a state agency at cabinet level that treats pure air as a resource to be conserved like water or wildlife.

There also may be proposals that the state take over control of fixed sources of smog such as factories and refineries. Local air pollution control districts now have jurisdiction over stationary smog sources.

After several years of negotiation and disputes, a group of legislators announced recently that they had came up with a plan to solve the pollution problem at Lake Tahoe.

The burgeoning population at the mountain lake, particularly on the casino and resort-studded south shore, has threatened severe pollution of the lake.

The lawmakers called for a $1.8 million grant to extend sewage export lines into the Diamond Valley region of Alpine County, coupled with authority for the South Tahoe Utility District to declare septic tanks a nuisance and require use of sewers.

Public health officials have warned that the Sierra lake—now one of the clearest waters in the world—could become fouled with algae if pollution is not stopped.

NEXT: Watts.

The governor also has said he's willing to submit rapid transit to the legislature if Los Angeles area leaders come up with a promising plan for a system. The Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee proposed a plan last week to pay for initial studies. The San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District also is seeking financial help which may be considered.

Mexico has 760,335 square miles.

Marinwood Foreman Hired For $475

Directors of the Marinwood Community Services District last night hired Ronald Paul Christiansen as a fireman at $475 to replace Ronald Perin, who resigned in December. District secretary Genevieve Bolding said that Christiansen was one of seven interviewed for the job.

Directors will meet again at 8 p.m. Feb. 10 at the community center to hear Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows explain a proposed county-wide bond issue for park acquisition and development.

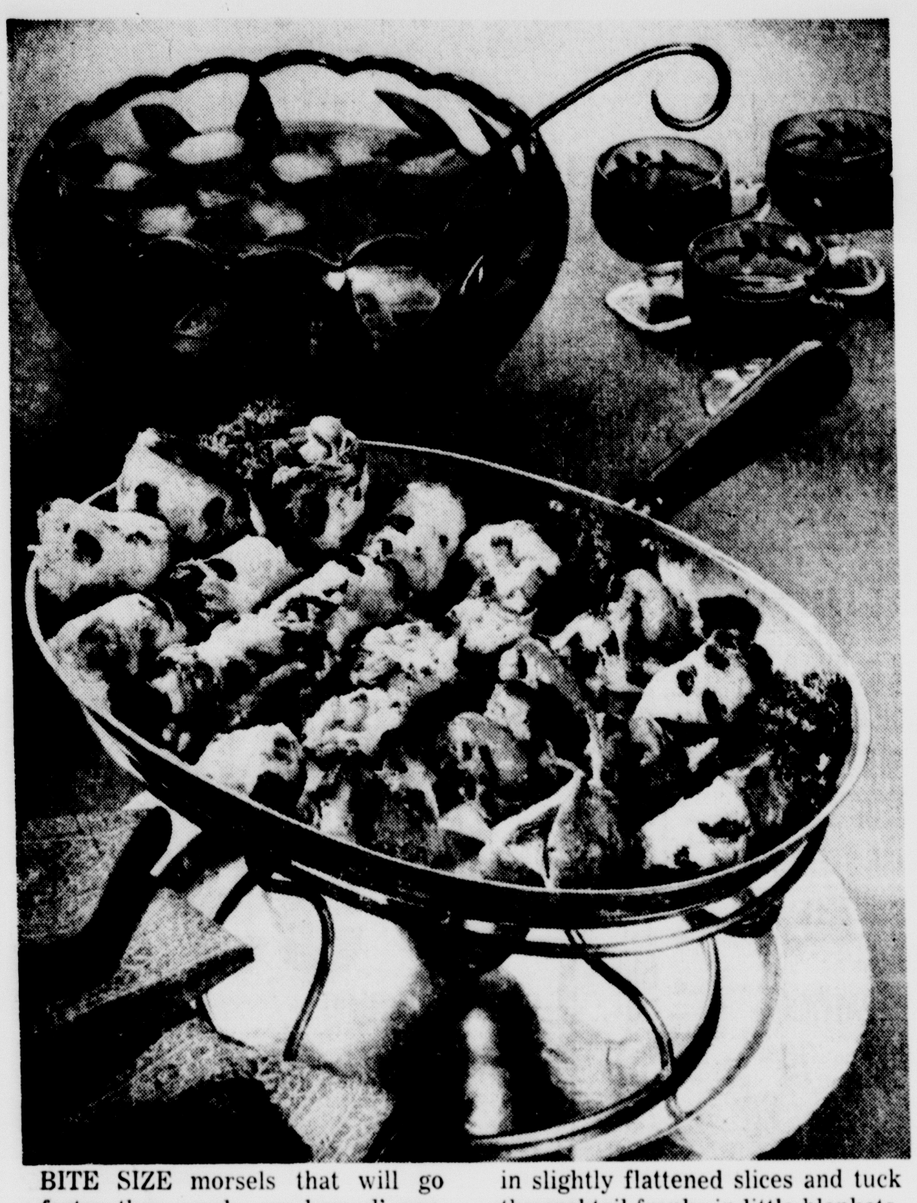
MACY'S SAN RAFAEL, FOURTH AND COURT, 456-3333



BITE SIZE morsels that will go faster than candy are hors d' oeuvres made from raisin bread. Just roll up thin slices of ham and cheese in slightly flattened slices and tuck the cocktail franks in little blankets. Then bake in a brisk oven until crisply toasted.

Raisin Bread Tidbits Make Perfect Little Party Servers

If you're feeling a little jaded in the hors d'oeuvres line, buy a loaf of raisin bread and roll up your sleeves. First make up the cheese cups in tiny miuffin pans. Roll up thin slices of ham and cheese in slightly flattened slices and tuck the cocktail franks in little blankets. Bake them in a brisk oven until crisply toasted and pass them fast.

Please consider these for the young set, too. Whereas a big sandwich is often awesome, these bite-size morsels go faster than candy. You don't have to be fancy, though. Peanut butter, cream cheese, cold meats—almost anything you have around the kitchen goes nicely with raisin bread. It stays moist and fresh longer.

RAISIN BREAD PARTY CUPS

6 slices raisin bread
4 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup grated Gruyere cheese
⅓ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

Cut each raisin bread slice into quarters. Brush with butter and fit butter side down into 1¾-inch muffin pans. Brush tops with butter. Blend cheese, mayonnaise and green pepper; heap into raisin bread cups. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 15 minutes until filling is puffed and cups are toasted. Serve hot. Makes 2 dozen appetizers.

HOT HAM AND CHEESE RAISIN ROLL-UPS

6 slices raisin bread
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
6 thin slices boiled ham
6 thin slices process Swiss cheese
Melted butter

Flatten raisin bread slightly with rolling pin. Spread with mustard; top with ham and cheese. Roll up like jelly roll enclosing filling. Cut each roll crosswise into 3 pieces; skewer each with small pick. Brush with melted butter. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 8 minutes until toasted and brown. Remove picks and serve hot. Makes 1½ dozen roll ups.

RAISIN BREAD TRICORNS

24 cocktail frankfurters
6 slices raisin bread
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons pickle relish
Melted butter

Pour boiling water over frankfurters and let stand 2 or 3 minutes. Drain. Select large, evenly shaped slices of raisin bread; spread with mustard and drained pickle relish. Cut each slice into quarters. Wrap 1 piece around each frankfurter, holding in place with a pick. Brush generously with butter. Place on baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 8 minutes until toasted and browned. Serve hot. Makes 2 dozen appetizers.

Exotic Ways With Convenience Foods

If you've ever wished you could dress up canned foods to make them really gourmet fare, try these two recipes.

Morocco knows the influence of both French and Spanish kitchens—this is the cuisine which inspired the interesting "Moroccan Saute." Family and guests may not be aware, as they feast on this exotic dish midst exotic setting, that it was prepared in about 20 minutes thanks to the quick-cooking convenience of American foods.

Tomato sauce with its rich consistency and lively seasoning makes one happy family of the frozen and canned foods in this recipe. The minute steaks, sauteed in convenient oil, make the dish a hearty and staying one. Serve the "Saute" over rice or heated Chinese noodles.

"Jeweled Ham" can grace the most elegant table. A can of tomato sauce serves as both sauce and seasoner for the canned cherries, oranges and pineapple tidbits bringing the fruits into flavor harmony with the ham.

MOROCCAN SAUTE

4 frozen minute or cube steaks, sliced
2 Tbs. pure vegetable oil
Salt and pepper
1 (9-oz.) package frozen artichockes, partialy thawed
1 (4-oz.) can mushrooms, drained
1 (2¼-oz.) can sliced olives, drained
¼ cup sliced pimiento
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce

Brown slices of steak in oil; salt and pepper to taste. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes. Serve over cooked rice or crisp Chinese noodles. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

JEWELED HAM

1 (3-lb.) canned ham
1 (1-lb.) can dark sweet cherries, drained
1 (11-oz.) can mandarin oranges, drained
1 (8¾-oz.) can pineapple tidbits, drained
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce

Slice ham in half. Place one-half in a shallow baking dish and top with half the cherries, half the oranges, half the pineapple and half the tomato sauce. Cover with remaining slice of ham. Top with remaining fruits and tomato sauce. Bake at 350° F. for 20 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

MOROCCAN SAUTE is as exotic as it sounds but it's prepared with quick-cooking convenience foods—frozen artichokes, canned mushrooms, and tomato sauce added to strips of sauteed beef. Jeweled Ham is created with canned foods—ham, fruits and tomato sauce.

Filled Flowers

Roll the dough into rectangle. Spread your favorite jam or jelly over the surface of the dough. Roll the dough, starting at narrow end, sealing edges of dough by pinching it together. Cut rolls into 1 inch wide pieces. Place in greased muffin tin, cut side up. Cut into rolls with scissors. Make the cut ½ inch deep. Spread the petals. Bake according to recipe directions.

Added New Interest

Tossed salad takes on new interest when diced hard-cooked egg and crumbled crisply-cooked bacon are added along with the dressing.

Weight Control Class Series To Feature Casserole Dishes

Spring session of weight control class is announced for Thursday, Feb. 10, and will continue each Thursday evening for 12 weeks at Ross General Hospital.

Classes will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and will be conducted by Pamela Gilroy, registered dietitian.

Both men and women may register for instruction sessions and all are eligible upon physical referral, as a 1200-calorie base will be used.

Weight loss anticipated is 1½ pounds per week based on previous weight control class averages.

Class members will weigh in and chart progress throughout the 12-week course.

Instruction will focus on food preparation around the whole family meal pattern, selection of acceptable foods for varied menus and learning to adapt recipes for appetizing meals while holding to low calorie count.

In addition to class instruction, sessions will include films and tape recordings. Among scheduled speakers are a physician, physical therapist, psychiatrist and personal grooming expert.

Registrations for the course may be made with the Marin County Heart Assn., which is the sponsoring organization, or registrants may enroll during opening night of the course.

A special feature of the class will be low-calorie casseroles. Whether eaten outdoors or in, casseroles do have a place in the modern housewife's meal planning. That they can be low fat in content is evidenced in the following favorites of weight control classes:

SPANISH CHICKEN

1 3-lb. fryer, cut up
1 tablespoon salad oil
½ cup minced onions
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 minced clove garlic
1 2½ can tomatoes
½ cup white wine
½ teaspoon thyme
2 bay leaves

Oil bottom of heavy skillet, quickly brown chicken pieces. Remove to a casserole and salt and pepper to taste. In same skillet, lightly brown the onions, green pepper and garlic. Add to casserole with remaining ingredients. Bake covered in 325-degree oven until chicken is tender (about 1 hour). Makes 4 servings.

225 calories per serving

CURRIED SHRIMP IN ZUCCHINI

2 pounds zucchini
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 teaspoon curry powder
Salt, pepper, cayenne
2 tablespoon flour
¼ cup milk
2 lbs. cooked shrimps, fresh or canned
½ cup dry bread crumbs

Split zucchini lengthwise, cook in boiling salted water 5 minutes. Hollow out centers, chop it and drain shells. Heat oil, add onions, curry, salt, cayenne, flour, milk. Stir well. When thickened, add shrimps. Season to taste. Add chopped zucchini. Stuff shells and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake in 350-degree oven for 15 minutes. Serves 6.

160 calories per serving

VEAL PAPRIKIASH CASSEROLE

2 pounds boneless stewing veal cut in 1½-inch pieces
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 pound sliced mushrooms
flour
2 tablespoons paprika
1 cup sliced onions
3 beef bouillon cubes dissolved in 1½ cups water
salt, pepper
⅓ cup plain yogurt
chopped parsley

Roll veal in seasoned flour, lightly brown. Add onions and mushrooms. Cook 15 minutes. Stir frequently. Add bouillon cubs and water, salt, pepper, paprika. Turn into 2½-quart casserole. Cover. Bake for 1½ to 2 hours in 350-degree oven. Just before serving add parsley and yogurt on top of casserole. Serve with boiled noodles. Serves 6.

415 calories per serving for casserole
55 calories per ½ cup noodles

Sandwich Combo

Bacon and tomato are old favorites for a sandwich, but the addition of liver sausage to this duet may be new to you. This sausage is very nutritious, goes well with the old favorites and when spread first on the buttered bread, it helps tomatoes and bacon stay together better.

Secret Service Men Tip Off Lady Bird's Salon Visits

By MARIAN PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Mrs. Johnson said to tell all of you that this is off the record: She is on the way to the beauty parlor," said the President to photographers outside the White House one day.

So far as it is possible, these trips remain off the record.

The First Lady's hairdresser, Jean Louis, "haute coiffure Francaise," discourages any questions about Mrs. Johnson or any special notice of her visits to the shop.

However, those who share the services of his salon with the First Lady cannot help observing. When she is there, a secret service man stands just inside the entrance. Another sits outside the door of her private room, a telephone at his elbow.

BECAUSE OF the proprietor's desire to allow Mrs. Johnson to retain her privacy, she seems almost to be treated with indifference. No one, beside the staff, appears to recognize her at all.

The opposite is true. Of course, other clients are immediately alerted to her presence by the appearance of the secret service. Swift glances are cast in her direction, taking in as full a picture as possible. Clients place themselves in the best position to see Mrs. Johnson when she comes out of her private room.

JEAN LOUIS ADMITS that he goes to the White House often to comb the First Lady's hair.

Jean Louis was a French boy who hated school. His parents operated a hotel in the resort town of Labaulle. At the age of 14, Jean Louis ran away to Paris where he learned to be a hairdresser.

"I HAD IN MY HEAD since I was very young to come to the United States," he says. His opportunity came in an ad in a Paris newspaper placed by Mr. Robert, Washington, D.C., hairdresser, asking for an assistant.

Then followed three years of working for Mr. Robert during which he dressed the hair of some of the top women of Washington society.

Subsequently he opened his own shop a few doors down Connecticut Avenue. He counted among his clients the young wife of Sen. John F. Kennedy and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy; Mme. Herve Alphand, wife of the then French ambassador; and wives of other members of the diplomatic corps.

TWO YEARS AGO, Jean Louis bought the business of Mr. Robert. And in the same location where he got his start in Washington, Jean Louis opened a most elegant salon which he decorated in French Provincial decor. The walls are of pale blue and white, and the furnishings are the same color trimmed with gold and silver.

Among the ornaments in his shop today, besides some beautiful antiques, are gold framed invitations to the inaugurations of President Kennedy and President Johnson, a full length picture of Mrs. Johnson in her inaugural ball gown, inscribed, "To Jean Louis, with much appreciation and best wishes, Lady Bird Johnson, January 1965."

MRS. JOHNSON AND DAUGHTER LUCI display the results of Jean Louis' hairdressing skills in these two views made the day President Johnson made his State of the Union address to Congress. (AP Wirephoto)

Xi Kappa Psi Will Bestow Rose Degree

Two members of Xi Kappa Psi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will receive the order of the rose, an honorary degree given to those who have belonged to the sorority for 15 years, on Sunday at the Holiday House in Hayward. Receiving the degree will be Mrs. Leo Benelli and Mrs. Wilbur Pearson of Novato.

Mrs. Benelli joined Beta Sigma Phi in Cleveland in 1950 and since then has been affiliated with the Eta Gamma chapter in San Bruno, the Xi Delta Psi chapter in San Bruno and is now president of the Xi Kappa Psi chapter in Novato.

Mrs. Pearson joined Beta Sigma Phi in Salem, Ore., as a member of Eta chapter in 1947. She has also been affiliated with the Xi Lamba in Salem, the Xi Alpha Psi in San Rafael and is currently the corresponding secretary of the Xi Kappa Psi chapter in Novato.

Party Sunday For Hundredth Birthday

An open house from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday will honor the 100th birthday of Grant Wills of San Rafael. Relatives and friends attending the affair hosted by Mrs. Gordon F. Fullerton of San Francisco, the celebrant's daughter, Mrs. G. H. Hinds and Mrs. Robert Nagel will be served cocktails, punch and a buffet.

A floral arrangement of gladiolus, delphinium, chrysanthemums and other seasonal flowers will be used in the table centerpiece and accented by tall green candles. A large rectangular birthday cake will be bordered in green and yellow with 100 appearing on each piece cut.

Former San Rafael residents attending the open house will be Mr. Wills' stepchildren, Al Nagel and Mrs. Fred Nettell of Sacramento and Robert Nagel of Sunnyvale. Also present will be his brothers, Aaron Wills, now visiting from Evansville, Ind., Donald Wills of Santa Barbara and a sister, Mrs. Letitia Bergowitz of Gilroy.

The centenarian's other children attending will be James Wills of Santa Cruz, Dr. Irving Wills of Santa Barbara and Henry Wills of Lucerne.

Designer Gres Drops Skirts To Mid-Knee

PARIS (UPI)—Skirts dropped to conservative mid-knee at the "comeback" show of veteran designer Alix Gres.

Buyers from Bergdorf Goodman, Bonwit Teller and other New York stores were in the front row to applaud street dresses which hovered at mid-knee or slightly above, a length that looks downright demure in comparison to the hemlines two to four inches above the knee shown by most other Paris fashion houses.

MME. GRES, who dresses royalty and wealthy women showed a collection that was judged one of the best in the current Paris shows.

Although she scorned bare knees, the designer followed the trend for bareness and the "nude look."

Gres' evening gowns had slits and cut-outs. A long, full navy blue chiffon evening gown showed bare skin through most of the bodice except for a couple of circles over the bustline.

COATS AND DAY suits were of Gres' usual reversible flat wools, worn with 1930-style hats. Jackets were collarless and short, shoulders natural and skirts slightly flared and simple without one accordion pleat in sight.

Gres showed more shifts with matching narrow, collarless coats and jackets than suits, following another big Paris trend. Almost everything was navy blue or ice-cream colors.

Sarah Jane Prater To Be July Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Basil E. Gordon of San Rafael are announcing the engagement of her daughter, Sarah Jane Prater, to John Robert Corcoran of Los Angeles.

The bride-elect was graduated from El Camino High School in Sacramento and is a senior at San Jose State College. She is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Richard Prater of San Rafael and John Prater of San Mateo are her brothers.

The future bridegroom, son of Mrs. Gordon Stegath of Los Angeles and the late Dr. Gordon Corcoran, was graduated from University High School in Los Angeles and is a senior at San Jose State. His fraternity is Theta Chi.

The wedding will be held on July 23 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

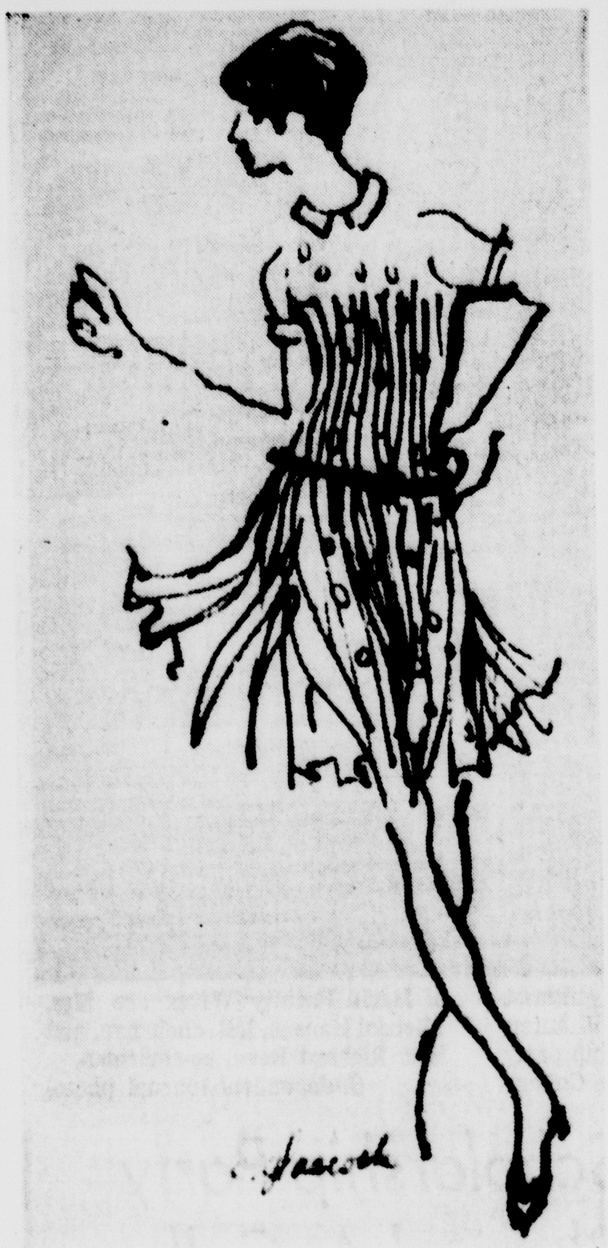
TO WED IN July at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael are Sarah Jane Prater of San Rafael and John Robert Corcoran. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil E. Gordon of San Rafael.

Overcrowding And Schools To Be Sleepy Hollow Topic

Tomorrow the Sleepy Hollow Parents Club will sponsor the second in a pair of programs to give information on current topics affecting parents in Marin. Virgil Hollis, county superintendent of schools, Robert Corlett, attorney and member of the San Anselmo school board, and Miss Anne McElfresh, teacher at Sleepy Hollow School, will discuss "The Costly Crowd"—how overcrowding and the growing population affect schools.

David Jackson, headmaster at Katharine Branson School and member of the board of Planned Parenthood Assn. of Marin, will be the moderator.

The public meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at Sleepy Hollow School.



LIKE A LADY

Capt. Edward Molyneaux, fought a battle for the return of the ladylike lady when he presented his spring collection in Paris Monday. This red and white strawberry-printed linen dress, pleated back and front from the yoke to hemline and loosely belted at the slightly dropped waistline is an example of his ammunition. Mrs. Dwyer Heads Belveron Guild

The talents in arts and crafts of the newly elected president of the Belveron Guild of Sunny Hills, Mrs. D. Douglas Dwyer, will certainly be reflected in the products of the guild's Serendipity Booth.

"We interpret serendipity to mean 'making something out of nothing,'" says Mrs. Dwyer. The members take relatively simple raw materials and with a bit of flair create interesting objects."

Working on decorated bowls, platters and candy dishes of plastic crystals, and the guild's favorite, hobby horses, they will add some new items including decorated soap and soap dishes made of sea shells, and Flemish flower bouquets.

Margie Dwyer, the wife of D. Douglas Dwyer, who owns the Mill Valley Auto Radiator Co., has been a member of the Belveron Guild for four years.

The guild plans to have a garage sale during the summer, a potluck dinner in October for members, and a Christmas party to which members and their families are invited.

The new president enjoys upholstering and refinishing antique furniture and is currently working on a 125 year old "sleepy hollow" chair. Other hobbies are oil painting, dressmaking and home decorating. She keeps up to date by taking adult classes in arts and crafts.

Margie Dwyer's favorite occupations are hunting for antiques, working with most forms of arts and crafts, and cooking.

Educated in her home state of Kansas, Mrs. Dwyer has lived in Marin for 10 years.

Other new officers are Miss Edna Salmen, vice president; Mrs. R. F. Ferguson, secretary; Mrs. B. J. Parker, treasurer; Mrs. Michael C. Brown, booth chairman; Mrs. Thomas D. Teichmann, decorations; Mrs. Ronald Rider, bargain box representative.

Teri Frohlich Will Marry Gary K. Smith In August

A family dinner party was the occasion for the announcement of the engagement of Teri Frohlich of San Rafael and Gary Keith Smith of Concord.

TERI FROHLICH

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Bari Frohlich of San Rafael and Irving Frohlich of Mountain View. She was graduated from San Rafael High School and is attending the University of California at Santa Barbara. Mrs. John Allen of San Rafael and the late Mr. Allen and the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frohlich of San Francisco are her grandparents.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Smith of Concord, was graduated from San Rafael Military Academy and College of Marin. He is attending Westminster College in Salt Lake City.

The wedding will be held in August.

SHARING CHEF'S SECRETS

Chef Jorge W. Kniegge conducted the first day of a new series of cooking classes held at 1:15 yesterday afternoon at the Ross home of Mrs. Robert C. Taylor. The Ross Guild of the Louise A. Boyd Museum is sponsoring the series which will run Feb. 8 and 15 and March 1, 8 and 15. Morning sessions will be held at 9:45 at the home of Mrs. Richard Treadwell in Ross. From left, Mesdames Richard McClenahan, general chairman, Robert Rorick and Taylor attended the afternoon session.

Pixie Parents President Enjoys Dancing, Camping

Maintenance and improvements of the pre-school playground, Pixie Place, located at Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, is the work of Pixie Parents, Inc., who have elected Mrs. Donald Olson of San Anselmo as their new president.

MRS. DONALD OLSON

Mary Jane Olson and her husband, a senior probation officer, are the parents of Laurel, 4 and Lisa, 3. They've lived in Marin more than 11 years, three of which Mary Jane has held membership in the organization.

Last year Mrs. Olson held the office of operations chairman. She is active in the San Anselmo Co-operative Nursery School. She also did social work at Sunny Hills for four years.

A University of Washington graduate in psychology, Mary Jane also holds a master's degree in social work.

Aside from rearing her children, the new president's interests include Balkan dancing, camping and sewing.

Projects planned for the coming year include the annual Easter Egg Hunt and Fair in March, an open house to be held in the spring, and a membership tea and parents party to be given in the fall.

'Insecure Person Is Unloved,' Advises Psychologist In Talk

By BETTY FROST

"People who cannot give of themselves, give things to children," said Dr. Aaron J. Ungersma, professor of pastoral psychology at the San Francisco Theological seminary, San Anselmo, when he addressed 80 women on the topic, "What Woman Are You—Parentally?" yesterday at the Westminister Presbyterian Church, Tiburon.

Advocating a middle course between the authoritarian European home and the "too permissive American Home", Dr. Ungersma spoke with warmth and humor at the church-sponsored lecture, which was the fifth in the current "What Woman Are You?" series.

"The quality of love received in childhood determines the capacity of an adult to give and receive love," said the psychologist. "An insecure person is unloved and unloving."

SPEAKING OF the case of a young patient in an institution for the mentally retarded, Dr. Ungersma said that the 16-year-old girl, who had lived in one foster home after another, showed an intelligence quotient of 50 upon entering the hospital. After a period of being treated with kindness and firmness, a later test scored her IQ at the level of 130. Her IQ had not changed, but her hostility had decreased and she was able to express her true intelligence. In extreme cases, "the patient will reject love. Love is a language which he has not yet learned to speak," the professor said.

"Love is a spectrum of many colors. It is more than affection and sentiment, but involves such elements as kindness, patience and respect," said the lecturer.

The need of an infant for love is infinite. The world to a baby is a confusion of light, color and sound. To balance the child's fears of the unknown, the love of emotionally adequate parents is important, he said.

If love is adequate in the first two years of life, it is a tremendous cornerstone for future development. An infant will develop trust or fear; an adolescent identity or confusion; a mature person, integrity or despair, Dr. Ungersma said.

SPEAKING OF the adolescent's quest for identity, the professor spoke of the authoritarian family life of Europeans, with the father the unquestioned head, and of the pioneer American family, where father and son joined in the struggle against the wilderness. The child knew his place in his family, and despite hostilities between the generations, he had a strong father to pattern himself after.

An extremely permissive home is actually frightening to a child, who really wants authority. If the father is absent from the home, too busy or evades attempts to communicate, the child may look to other adult figures for a model—a scout master, man teacher, minister or uncle. This Dr. Ungersma considers good.

"We live in an interdependent society," he said, "and nobody can really stand on his own feet."

THE ADOLESCENT also needs his "peers". A sticky family togetherness is not helpful for the young person, who needs both privacy and friends of his own age, he said. The oppressive loving influence of parents prohibits the adolescent from emerging into healthy maturity.

Parents need to be weaned away from their too protective attitudes. Youthful rebellion is inevitable and healthy. An adult parent can take such attacks without feeling threatened, and counter with an understanding reply, such as "we all feel that way at times," said Dr. Ungersma.

One Bay Area psychologist complained to Dr. Ungersma that his practice involved so many children from wealthy homes that he was sick of "Do-good auxiliary workers who had no time for their own children." Indulgence in gifts and behavior is no substitute for the kind of love which, through parental dependability and discipline brings emotional security, he said.

Noting that the scriptures are a source of great wisdom in human relations, Dr. Ungersma concluded that the quotation "train a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it," is still excellent advice.

Travel Hopes Dim For College Troupe

Plans to send 11 College of Marin students to perform at the Northwest drama conference at the University of Oregon Feb. 10 and 11 are foundering in a sea of financial worries, according to James Dunn, head of the college's drama department.

The cast of the drama department's production of "Servant of Two Masters" has been invited to perform the play at the conference. They must meet expenses for the trip, though, by drawing three capacity audiences to their benefit performance of the play in the college little theater tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., Dunn said.

Cost of the trip is $1,500. The college student body has donated $700; the rest must come from sale of tickets for the three performances, Dunn said. And advance sales are not meeting expectations.

Tickets will be sold by reservations through the fine arts division at the college or at the door on the night of performance, he said. The play is an 18th Century slapstick comedy. It played to capacity audiences during its regular five-day run in December.

'DR. ZHIVAGO' BEST

Hollywood Writers Parcel Out Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Dr. Zhivago," film version of the Nobel Prize - winning Russian novel, has won five of the 14 Golden Globes awards presented annually by the Hollywood Foreign Press Assn.

Egyptian Omar Sharif, who played the title role, and English director David Lean, shared in the awards for the film Monday night at the Coconut Grove. The movie also was named best of 1965.

The 23rd annual awards were televised by NBC on the "Andy Williams Show."

Paul Newman and Natalie Wood were voted the world's favorite actor and actress.

John Wayne won the special Cecil B. DeMille award for his "outstanding contributions to the fields of entertainment."

"After 35 years in this business, I appreciate your presenting me this award half-way through my career," said Wayne in accepting.

"The Sound of Music" was declared best musical or comedy of the year.

Lee Marvin was selected "best actor" for his role as the bumbling desperado in "Cat Ballou," and Julie Andrews was named best actress in a musical for her role as "Baroness Von Trapp" in "The Sound of Music."

Broadway veteran Ruth Gordon, making her first film appearance in years, was named best supporting actress for "Inside Daisy Clover."

"Darling," the story of a grown up girl who gets ahead, was named best English language foreign film.

"Juliet of the Spirits," won the award for best foreign language foreign film.

David Janssen and Anne Francis were named top television stars.

"The Man from U.N.C.L.E." was cited as best television show.

Elizabeth Hartman and Robert Redford were named stars of tomorrow.

"Forget Domani," from "The Yellow Rolls Royce" won as best song.

"Dr. Zhivago" also won awards for its screen play by Robert Bolt, and its score.

Marine Unit Offers Showing Of Films

A Defense Department film explaining the administration's position on Viet Nam will be previewed by the Marine Corps Reserve for invited program directors of Marin County civic, social and service organizations and high school social studies teachers.

The 32-minute film, "Why Viet Nam?," will be shown at 8 p.m. today at the Marin Corps Reserve Center in Santa Venetia. Also on the program is a 15-minute film, "The Full Blade," depicting Marine combat and civic action programs in Viet Nam.

Reading is fun.

Sausalito Sculptor To Conduct Classes

Sausalito artist and sculptor Art Grant will teach art classes at the San Francisco State College Downtown Center, 540 Powell Street, San Francisco, from 1 to 4 p.m., starting Feb. 9.

Meeting Wednesdays for 15 weeks, the course offers both classroom sessions and instruction at various Bay Area beaches, where carving sandstone cliffs, making wood assemblages and rock mosaics will be undertaken.

Tam Musical Groups Due At Gathering

Twenty-one members of the Tamalpais High School choir and orchestra will participate in the annual Pacific Music Clinic Saturday at University of the Pacific, Stockton.

Representatives from schools all over California will be performing in the 1,200-voice choir, 500-piece band, and 300-piece orchestra.

Purpose of the clinic is to provide students with an opportunity to perform in large groups, with students from many areas, under direction of nationally known leaders and directors. The concert will be broadcast and recorded.

Members of the Tamalpais choir participating include Sally Luick, Lynn Jolley, Kathy Kersnar, Sue Maraccini, Louis Judson, Candy Morrow, Ann Meacham, Bonnie Hansen, Margie Stephenson, Ardith Anderson and Melissa Woultee.

Orchestra members include Gwen Brown, Curtis Baker, John Balmer, Bill Spaulding, Bill Hope, Lea Van Houten, Margaret Daly, Rae Powell and Dan Allis.

Square Dancers Set Benefit Activity

Members of the Marin County Square Dance Assn. will hold a benefit dance from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at Vallecito School, Terra Linda, to aid survivors of a Nov. 25 explosion and fire in a Keokuk, Iowa, National Guard armory.

The blast killed 21 persons and left dozens injured. Those with severe burns were sent to intensive care centers throughout the country. The Marin group, along with square dancing clubs in other parts of the nation, has helped raise more than $100,000 for a disaster fund.

Ross Painting Exhibtion Jury Panelists Announced

An exhibition of "Painting in All Media" will be held Feb. 6-27 at the Frances Young Gallery, Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Although strictly juried—with quality the only criterion—the show is open to all kinds of painting from "far out" and experimental to strictly representational, according to co-chairmen Betty Jo Norton and Maxine Fiaccadore.

Three awards of merit will be made by the jury composed of painters Janet Jones, Frank Milner, Margaret Smith, Robert Elsocht and Kenneth Potter, with Justine Carey as alternate.

Gallery hours are from 2 to 4 p.m. daily and from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursdays.

Artist Has Show

Elizabeth B. Stetson, member of the Marin Society of Artists and San Francisco Women Artists, is having a one-artist show throughout February at the Northgate Branch of the Bank of America in Terra Linda.

Catholic High School Hootenanny Dates Set

Students at Marin Catholic High School will present their annual hootenanny March 18 and 19 in the school gymnasium at 675 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

The program—ranging from Negro spirituals to folk music and rock and roll—is scheduled for two nights because of the response to last year's hootenanny. Starting time will be announced later.

A rat eats 40 pounds of food a year, according to the Department of the Interior.

Krips Due In Vienna After Marin Concert

Maestro Josef Krips' last concert before flying to Vienna to conduct performances there will be Saturday at the College of Marin.

Krips will lead the San Francisco Symphony in a program including Schumann's Symphony No. 1, Strauss' "Don Juan," and Beethoven's Symphony No. 7.

Snow Trip Slated

Members of the Pep Club at Novato High School will make a two-day trip to the snow at Soda Springs, Feb. 12 and 13, according to Karen Leech, club president.

Skilled Swiss Workers Keep Nation Thriving

By JOHN MORKA

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—It's fun and mostly play for millions of visiting tourists and for Hollywood stars who make their homes in Switzerland's Alpine setting.

But for the nation's labor force of about 3 million—approximately half the population—the accent is heavy on work.

Otherwise landlocked Switzerland, with one-third of its land unproductive, would not be able to sustain its high standard of living. Sadly lacking in raw materials, it must export to survive.

To keep its economy humming, Switzerland banks heavily on its highly skilled workers and its astute industrialists.

Sharing in Western Europe's postwar economic revival for the past two decades, Switzerland now is a country of total employment.

Jobs go begging, so much so that, over the past 10 years, about 1 million foreign workers have had to be recruited.

But despite its visible prosperity, Switzerland has not been without its share of economic troubles, not the least an inflationary spiral which has forced the government to take drastic steps aimed at curbing credit and expansion, and holding price levels in line.

Government and industry officials are hopeful that these measures, taken in 1964 and extended for another year, will ease some of the pressures that have posed a threat to the country's economic equilibrium.

The nation's consumer price index rose by 2.3 per cent in 1964, compared with 3.9 per cent in the previous year.

Although the problem of inflation is the No. 1 target of the country's leaders, the question of the impact of foreign workers is easily the No. 1 topic of conversation among the multilingual Swiss.

Their presence in such large numbers has engendered new problems and tensions in the field of education, housing, language, religion and labor unions.

This year the government decreed that the numbero of foreign workers—those on temporary permits—must be cut by 10 per cent within the next 16 months. Some groups would like to see the foreign labor force reduced to 500,000 in five years.

Short as Switzerland has been of labor, this new drive toward de-foreignization is forcing many Swiss industrialists to do some new thinking about automation.

Switzerland is no novice in the field of automation.

As an example, the watch industry about 10 years ago employed from 60 to 80 people on some of its semi-automatic operations. These same operations now require less than a dozen, in some instances.

No small factor in the country's economic surge has been the diligence and skill of the national Swiss working and managerial force.

The traditional American coffee breaks is only now catching on in scattered plants. For most Swiss it's normally a 44-hour basic work week spread over five or five and a half days.

ANTIQUES PATIENTLY WAIT NEW GLORY

Antique works of art—some dating back to classing Greek days—are standing amid the rubble of the "antiquarium" in the "Rezidenz," the 600-year-old Bavarian kings' palace in Munich, West Germany. The huge, many-roomed structure was badly damaged during World War II bombing raids; Germans are half-way through a 20-year restoration project. Statuary shown had to be left in place when Germans removed to safety some 40,000 other art treasures now being restored to the palace.

Overeating's Mostly Due To Emotions

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Modern science has found that, like so many other afflictions, the problem of overeating is all in the eater's head, according to the California Medical Assn. (CMA).

That is to say a little bunch of cells in the brain, collectively called the hypothalamus, automatically regulate the appetite to balance it with energy output so the body remains in normal weight bracket.

However, despite constant messages from this small clump of tissue, its overeating master usually manages to ignore the advice one way or another, the CMA reported.

In short, the CMA maintains, there is no mystery about being overweight. It's a simple reflection of what you eat.

Dot Weight?

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A scale so sensitive it can weigh a pencil dot is used by Omark Industries Inc. here to measure industrial diamonds for the diamond-impregnated blades and drills it manufactures for use in cutting concrete, masonry and stone.

NOT GNUS, BUT NEWS FOR ZOO

The Portland, Ore., zoo has won fame for being the birthplace of baby elephants; San Diego's zoo seems to be specializing in production of the rare and strang-looking Okapi. Here's the third such youngster born there, Bili, as he tries out his legs recently while being watched by his mother, Lizette. Okapi's are the only living relatives to the towering giraffes. Not All Motorcyclists Wear Ragged Jackets

NEW YORK (UPI)—For anyone under the impression that leather-jacketed or beatnik-type groups like California's "Hell's Angels" are the only people who ride motorcycles, the motorcycle and scooter industry has come up with some words and figures.

Solid citizens, say industry sources, are joining the two-wheel motoring fraternity in droves these days. They include doctors, lawyers, businessmen, bankers, legislators, school teachers, students and secretaries.

The Motorcycle and Scooter Information Bureau reports that 950,000 two-wheelers were registered in the United States at the start of 1965 and predicts there will be 1,250,000 by the end of the year.

California currently sets the pace in cycle and scooter travel with 203,000 owners. Texas is second with 48,500, followed by Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Washington. New York and Massachusetts are tied for 11th place with 23,000 each.

The Bureau attributes the growth rate of two-wheelers to economy of operation, ease in parking and their versatility for both work and play.

Some examples, according to the Bureau:

A prominent Hartford, Conn. surgeon and a state representative often pass each other near the state capitol while traveling to and from their work.

A Baptist minister in Wisconsin travels to the homes of ailing parishioners and to Bible conferences on his motorcycle.

Ever-increasing numbers of New York businessmen are beating the traffic and parking problems to get in and around Manhattan more easily.

A suburban New York housewife, having taken on the PTA presidency, rides her two young sons (separately) to school each day on a scooter.

And then, of course, there are the collegians from coast to coast who cover the campus and environs — and even home for an occasional weekend — on their two wheelers.

Many college campuses regularly have more than 1,000 motorcycles and scooters for students and professors.

Almost Wordless

NEW YORK (AP) — A bookstore, going out of business, has this sign in its window:

"Words failed us."

What's Union Scale For Woman Sawing?

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The magicians of Belo Horizonte, capital of Minas Gerais State, are organizing a union to protect themselves against falling wages and rising incredulity.

One of the state's top-prestigitators, Nelson Travessoni, said recently that his profession is forsaken and misunderstood.

MUFFS FOR THE MONKEY

Most of the nation east of the Sierra has been suffering recently, in weather cold enough—well, to freeze the ears off a monkey. So Mac, a one-year-old chimpanzee in the zoo at Lincoln, Neb., was outfitted with a muffler and furry earmuffs—a bit outsized but warm. (AP Wirephoto)

Coed Tells Peace Corps How To Meet Its Quota

By GEORGE WEEKS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It took a pony-tailed blonde coed to tell the Peace Corps it was doing a bad job of recruiting.

The same young lady told the corps directors how things might be changed and they heard her out. Now, the corps has redesigned its fall recruiting program to include the recommendations of 77 college interns who came to Washington this summer to learn and ended up teaching the government something.

Barbara Helfgott, a 21-year-old Boston University senior from Margate City, N.J., started it all.

"Barbara plunked herself into the chair by my desk and announced that we were doing a lousy job of recruiting," Associate Peace Corps Director Donovan McClure told UPI. "She organized a "recruiting committee" that met several times with me telling us how to re-write our literature and redirect our informational efforts to properly communicate with the university campus."

Last year, the Peace Corps fell 500 short of its recruiting goal of 9,100 volunteers and one reason was that they weren't "connecting" with the kids on the campus.

Two interns from Virginia, who thought they knew how to reach their contemporaries, submitted recruiting ads which so impressed Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver that they will be used in a nation-wide advertising campaign to help the corps meet a recruiting goal of 10,500 volunteers for 1965-66.

One ad shows a group of sign-carrying campus protesters with this messsage: "Isn't it about time to DO something?" It notes that the Peace Corps volunteers are making changes in 46 countries around the world. Another ad shows a computer card and the words ask, "are you content with being computer fed? In the Peace Corps an individual can still do things."

The ads were submitted by interns George Jones, 18, a University of Maryland freshman from Arlington, Va., and Bill Bradford, 21, a senior at Swarthmore College from Falls Church, Va.

Mc Clure says the recruiting effort is not limited to the campus. It is also conducted at factories, in farm groups and nursing schools and among "people of all ages who have skills that can be utilized overseas."

But the emphasis, this time an emphasis determined by college students themselves, is on the campuses because that is where the Peace Corps get the bulk of itsh volunteers.

WARM WELCOME FOR BILLS

George Atherton, who lives in the rural outskirts of Hartford, Ky., on U.S. 231, has found a pretty unusual use for an old pot-bellied stove. He admits it's only a temporary solution, though, to the problems which beset most folks, particularly with income tax time approaching again.

Land To Be Bought For Kennedy Center

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe has signed a bill enabling the Commonwealth to buy 12 acres along the Charles River in Cambridge to be used for the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

The land is valued at about $6 million. Planned for the site near Harvard Square is a complex of buildings housing a museum, library, archives and a political institute.
